[A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEWPORT NEWS (Va.) Nov. 9.—Neglect of the religious needs of the men of the United States Navy is a reproach to the republic, Secretary Daniels declared here today in an address before the United Brotherhood of Men's Bible Classes. Daniels said he would ask Congress immediately to provide more chaplains and welfare secretaries. Secretary Daniels said there now were but twenty-four chaplains to look after the religious welfare of the 67,000 men in the navy. He said that the most important ships had no religious leader on board and that the Marine Corps, with an enlistment of 10,326 men, has not a single chaplain.

Huerta, After His Statement to Envoys, Which Is Taken as a Defiance of the United States, Takes the Ground that This Country Will Not Intervene—Vital Developments Are Predicted for Today.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Contrary to his usual custom of putting aside official business on Sunday, President Wilson worked all day on the Mexican problem. He summoned Senators Borah and McCumber, Republican members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, this afternoon and discussed the situation with them for almost two hours. He had a conference with Secretary Bryan tonight.

From the way the President's callers talked, the situation is rapidly approaching a climax and some definite developments are expected immediately. Officially, no copy of the statement of provisional President Huerta to the diplomatic corps last night, had been received, nor had the formal reply to the American demand that Huerta resign, arrived. That the United States had given Huerta until tomorrow night to reply was the general belief in official circles.

The next step, in the view of some of those who have talked recently with the President, probably will be an announcement by the United States, not only reiterating its refusal to recognise the Huerta government, but making it clear to the world that it also shall refuse to recognise any acts of the new Congress soon to be convened by Huerta.

The Washington government, it is understood, will not undertake to guarantee any business or commercial relations with the Huerta regime, and will probably stand by any legally constituted government which in the future may repudiate the loans or transactions of the present government.

Senators McCumber and Borah declined to talk of what the President had told them in their conference today, but they expressed their own views later. Senator Borah told the President, in his opinion, even should Huerta accede to the American request for his resignation at this time, there would be no responsible person or persons to establish a government. The Idaho Senator suggested that if the embargo on arms were lifted, the Constitutionalists probably could take possession of the reins of government in Mexico City in about thirty days, and that the United States should give them an opportunity to establish themselves. Should they fail, he believes the United States might consider other steps.

Senator McCumber said he believed the embargo on arms should be raised, but realized the position of the President in being unwilling to send munitions of war into the rebellion-torn republic. The Huerta regime, he said, was in such financial distress that it would soon collapse of its own accord.

Senator Bacon, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, said tonight he believed the majority of the members of the committee were in favor of raising the embargo. To the suggestion that raising the embargo would be inhuman, some Senators have declared that such an action on the other hand would put an end to the revolution in a short period and spare the country the bloodshed of an indefinitely prolonged struggle.

MEXICO CITY DEVELOPMENTS.

No developments from Mexico City were announced from the State Department or White House. Press dispatches stating that Huerta had declared the Presidential election null and void left a doubt in the minds of some officials as to whether the election of members of Congress also would be so considered by Huerta. The United States government already has made it clear in its representations to Huerta that it believes the members of the new Congress not to have been legally chosen.

The President began conferring with members of the Foreign Relations Committee at the suggestion of Chairman Bacon. The discussions thus far, it was learned, have been mostly an interchange of views, the President relating to the Senators what had been done in the last week and asking suggestions as to future policy.

HUERTA PROMISES NEW ELECTION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 9.—In a formal note to the foreign diplomats, Gen. Huerta, after calling attention to the efforts he had made to pacify the country and dwelling at length upon his reasons for dissolving Congress, makes the direct statement that the newly-elected Congress will be installed within a few days and will pass upon the election of the President and Vice-President.

Gen. Huerta reminds the diplomats that prior to the elections he told them that neither he nor Gen. Blanquet would accept an election on the ground that his own election would be illegal, and he calls to the attention of the diplomatic representatives the conference which he had with the Presidential candidates, at which he obtained their promise to abide by the result of the elections, even should no one obtain the necessary number of votes.

"Now in view of the fact, according to the reports which the government has received," continued the note, "that there exists an earnest presumption that, because it has been impossible to carry on voting in the number of polling places prescribed by law, the elections fail to be considered a true manifestation of the will of the people, and because it is foreseen that said Presidential elections will be declared null, the Executive wishes to make known once more to the country and the whole world that, in accord with this determination, he shall continue exerting himself for the pacification of the country, in order to be able to guarantee freedom and efficacy in the new elections which Congress will call as a necessary consequence of that declaration.

"In the same manner he wishes to make known once more to his friends and those outside the republic that being regardful of the law and persuaded that by virtue of his having occupied the post of President of the republic, while the elections were held, he considers himself constitutionally impeded from being validly elected and he will on no account take into consideration the vote which may have been cast in his favor, and no matter what may be the resolution of Congress, he will not accept in this case the constitutional Presidency of the republic.

"He relies as President on the solemn promise of the honorable citizens who figured as candidates for the Presidency and Vice-Presidency, and who represent all the political parties of the republic and is sure that perfect harmony will reign between the three powers of the union and that the governments of the world will recommend without exception that only the present government can call new elections and guarantee their freedom and efficacy. He hopes to be able to fulfill easily, within the period which Congress shall designate his sacred duty, consulting the national desire to consecrate by the suffrage of the people the Executive who is to rule definitely the destinies of the country. Otherwise, the realization of the Executive's programme would not be possible within a long period of time.

"This programme consists of peace and legality which are the only mediums in which elections may become an expression of the popular will and in which the individual, native as well as foreign, may enjoy full guarantees. Only under such conditions can the economic developments in the republic permit all social classes to gather the fruits of their labor and the product of their capital."

RELATIONS STRAINED.

Government officials of Mexico realise that the relations between this country and the United States are strained almost to the point of war and there is much discussion as to what Washington will do tomorrow.

John Lind, who represents the President of the United States, is ignorant of the intentions of his chief. If Gen. Huerta is anxious regarding what may develop he does not betray it. Although he has sent to the diplomatic representatives of the foreign nations a note which in effect is a defiance of Washington, he was conspicuous in the cafes about town long after the midnight hour and indulged

HILL ROADS TO INVADE CALIFORNIA BY WATER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA, Nov. 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] James J. Hill and Louis Hill said here yesterday that Hill railroads have no intention of invading California by rail. The invasion will be by water. Fast steamships of the North Bank Railroad (owned jointly by Northern Pacific and Great Northern,) will be operated from Portland and Astoria to San Francisco and Los Angeles. These steamships are now building at Philadelphia. Louis Hill is quoted as saying they will be fast and fine enough to afford real competition with the Southern Pacific's crack Shasta Limited train between the Columbia River and the California cities.

James J. Hill opposes the currency bill now before Congress, saying here:

"If every bank in the country should get behind the currency bill as it has passed the House and push and pull for it with all their might, I believe the end still would be disastrous for the country."

Mr. Hill said he was emphatically against the present currency bill but he believes it will never get past the Senate, so is not worrying over the outcome.

"A reserve bank system will never do in the United States, but I think we need a good currency measure to provide an elastic currency that will meet the demands of trade."

M'REYNOLDS KNIFES AMERICAN SHIPPING.

Administration Bows to Foreign Pressure and Abrogates Five Per Cent. Preferential in New Tariff Bill on Goods Imported in United States Vessels—Attorney-General Declares Discount "Inoperative."

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Atty.-Gen. McReynolds has decided that the subsection of the new tariff law authorizing a discount of 5 per cent. on all goods imported in American vessels is nullified by its proviso, that nothing in this subsection shall be so construed as to abrogate or in any manner impair or affect the provisions of any treaty concluded between the United States and any foreign nation.

Secretary McAdoo, of the Treasury Department, made public the Attorney-General's opinion today and announced that in accordance with it, collectors of customs would disregard the subsection as they had been instructed to do on October 8. Entries held up pending the decision now will be liquidated, leaving importers, who insist upon the 5 per cent. discount, to protest, with the right of finally carrying the question to the court of Customs Appeals.

This ends, for the present at least, the long drawn-out discussion over the proposed differential duty provision, the subject of which was debated in Congress, while the tariff bill was under consideration.

McREYNOLDS'S OPINION.

McReynolds held:

"That the 5 per cent. discount to American vessels only, which was the primary object of the subsection in question, can not be given without impairing the stipulations of existing treaties between the United States and various other powers, and that consequently the subsection, by the expressed terms of the proviso, is inoperative."

Twenty-three nations have treaties with the United States under which they claimed their ships had a right to the differential in common with the American ships. These included Great Britain, Germany, France, Austria-Hungary, Italy, Japan, Belgium, Denmark, Greece, The Netherlands, Spain, Norway and Sweden.

FEARED TRADE WAR.

Several foreign governments, including those of Germany, France and Spain, made strong protests to the State Department against the proposed discrimination and there were some indirect threats of a trade war if the preference duty was enforced. Efforts were made by some of the administration leaders immediately after the foreign protests were received, to have Congress repeal the provision. Representative Underwood, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee and the original champion of the clause, however, expressed himself as opposed to such action and the President did not urge it.

Allowance of the discount to ships of those nations claiming equal rights with American bottoms would have resulted in an estimated loss of $10,000,000 annually in custom duties. This would have created a deficit instead of a surplus in the treasury, as has been estimated by the tariff framers.

FOR AMERICAN SHIPS.

Those who had the provision inserted in the bill claimed it would operate as an incentive to the construction of ships in the United States, since shippers of goods in American-built bottoms would receive the 5 per cent. reduction and the American ship owners would be assured of an increase of business.

Importers, who are dissatisfied with the opinion of the Attorney-General, may protest to the collector of customs at the port of entry, who will lay their own objections before the Board of General Appraisers. In case the board's decision is unsatisfactory to the appellant the case may be carried to the Court of Customs Appeals for final disposition.

Unionists Show Enthusiasm Over Results of the Recent Vote in Scotland.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The results of the parliamentary bye elections held in Linlithgow, Scotland, and Reading, Eng., yesterday, were greeted with the wildest enthusiasm in all unionist quarters today and particularly in Ulster. In Reading, Capt. L. O. Wilson, unionist, won the seat over the Liberal and Socialist candidates, while in Linlithgow the Unionists cut deeply into the usual Liberal majority.

All the unionist newspapers in their editorials today declare that after two such staggering blows it will be impossible for the government to persist in disregarding the demand for a fresh appeal to the country on the home rule bill.

Gives Inside History of New Haven.

Declares Boston "Machiavelli" Controls Destinies of System.

Asserts Public Demanded a Victim and He Was Made the Sacrifice.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Charles S. Mellen, ex-president, in a three-hour talk with a press representative, laid bare the inside history of the New Haven Railroad during the ten eventful years of Mr. Mellen's presidency.

The real motives and activities of the parties actually in control of the New Haven properties, of the house of Morgan, of Lewis Cass Ledyard, of Prouty, of Brandeis, of George von L. Meyer and of the man who, Mr. Mellen says, "pulls the wires from the spider's web on Devonshire street, Boston," and other prominent men of affairs, who have been battling for control of the New England transportation field, are presented to the public by the men, who, during these ten years, held the pivotal position in this madly whirling financial storm.

Mr. Mellen is determined that he shall be vindicated before that public which, on account of his position as operating head of the New Haven, he so long allowed to misunderstand him.

Mr. Mellen plainly and frankly tells the public that for ten years he was simply an employee of the New Haven. During that time he stated that the financial forces behind him, but beyond his control, struggled and schemed for supremacy. While the late J. P. Morgan was alive his dominant personality kept the warring forces at bay. The public had become so intensely aroused by the long continued struggle that some kind of a settlement had to be made, explains Mr. Mellen, in order to avoid an investigation which would unearth the inside workings of the financial rings. To appease the public clamor Mr. Mellen was thrown out.

CONTROL IN BOSTON.

But what has really happened is this, says Mr. Mellen, control of the transportation system of New England which during his presidency was absolutely dominated by the house of Morgan, has now passed into the hands of the second generation and is largely influenced by a leader of the financial world of Boston.

According to Mr. Mellen, this "Machiavelli, this silent ruler of State street," is now the most dominant personality in financial affairs and is rapidly assuming the mantle of Morgan.

"Practically all the turmoil that has surrounded every move made by the New Haven in the last ten years has been stirred up by Boston bankers, who were desirous of controlling the New England trolley field," he said. "These Boston bankers, through their Stone and Webster organization, have gone into the electric light, power and transportation business in all parts of the country and they were determined that no other organization should have any large part of the New England trolleys.

"They fought with tooth and nail. They raised the cry of monopoly against the New Haven, although at the same time they were trying to monopolize the field for themselves.

"I was traveling on the road one day when I happened to meet a representative of one of Boston's biggest banking houses. As a note issue was being contemplated by the New Haven, I talked with this man about the price of money and what rate of interest we should probably have to pay on the notes.

"A day or two later I was hauled up on the carpet by representatives of our fiscal agency and told in effect to mind my own business. 'When the New Haven wants money we will furnish it,' they said, 'and we don't need advice.'

"We won out on our own policy of expansion because we were in the right and because we had the power, but the fight had made too much noise. The public was aroused and demanded to know the facts. It was decided therefore that some one must be sacrificed, and I was the natural victim. I had borne the brunt of the attack because I was the man the public could see.

"Representatives of our fiscal agents made the necessary arrangements. My position was to be filled by Mr. Elliott. I knew this in February from friends in St. Paul. My own crowd was working behind my back. The Stockholders' Protective Committee was formed in Boston in the interest of the fiscal agents and dominated by them. It was simply a blind behind which my work was supposed to be investigated and condemned. As a matter of fact I was condemned in advance.

"While I was the operating head the house of Morgan absolutely dominated the New Haven policies. J. P. Morgan is dead, but the control is just as absolutely theirs today and the second generation is working hand in glove with the Boston Machiavelli.

PREPARE CURRENCY BILL FOR ACTION OF CAUCUS.

Four Democratic Members of Senate Committee Whip Measure Into Shape to Bring Before the Party Conference on Wednesday—Their Report Is in Harmony With Wilson's Demands.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Senators Owens, Shafroth, Pomerene and Hollis, the four Democrats who found it impossible to put the administration currency bill through the Senate Banking Committee, worked today on a report on the bill to be submitted to the Democratic conference of the Senate Wednesday.

The report to the conference will recommend the bill virtually as it came from the House, with minor amendments and changes of phraseology. The four Senators will endeavor to secure the signatures of Senators Reed and O'Gorman to the report. Reed and O'Gorman have opposed many features of the administration bill in committee and have sought to avoid action on the bill by the Democratic caucus. It is practically certain Senator Hitchcock, whose views differ widely from those embraced in the administration bill, will stand out to the end. There is some question as to whether the Senate committee will continue to struggle for an agreement, or will leave the entire matter to be settled by the conference. The latter course probably will be recommended by the administration Senators, but they may experience difficulty in inducing the other majority committee members to suspend work. The Republican members, at any rate, will continue efforts to perfect a bill and will report a completed measure to the Senate, where it is expected the fight against the administration bill will be long and sharp.

The Republican members of the committee have taken the stand, as expressed yesterday by Senator Nelson, that "if the President is spoiling for a fight, he can have it."

The Republicans will present a bill to the Senate which will follow the lines of the administration bill to some extent, but which will include amendments written into the House bill, tentatively, by the Senate committee. It was these changes that resulted in the deadlock which caused the calling of a Democratic conference. A small number of regional banks, less than four, owned by the public and controlled by the government, issuing a currency based on commercial paper and mobilizing the reserves of the banks throughout the country, will be the basis of the Republican bill.

Senator Reed of Missouri announced tonight that when the Senate committee meets tomorrow he would move that in future all of its sessions for consideration of the currency bill be open to the press. He said, furthermore, that he proposed to make an effort to have the newspaper men admitted to the Democratic conference Wednesday.

AMERICAN EMBASSY IS UNEASY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 9.—Government officials, foreign residents and the people of Mexico realise that the relations between this country and the United States are strained almost to the point of war and there is much discussion as to what Washington will do tomorrow.

John Lind, who represents the President of the United States, is ignorant of the intentions of his chief. If Gen. Huerta is anxious regarding what may develop he does not betray it. Although he has sent to the diplomatic representatives of the foreign nations a note which in effect is a defiance of Washington, he was conspicuous in the cafes about town long after the midnight hour and indulged today in relaxation in the company of his military friends.

In his formal statement to the diplomats, Gen. Huerta said it was now foreseen that the recent elections were void, as too few precincts had participated in the voting and that, therefore, the new Congress would annul the elections. New elections would then be called and he would continue his programme of pacification.

More uneasiness is apparent at the American embassy than at the National Palace. At the palace the opinion was freely expressed, not infrequently accompanied by sneers, that the United States would never intervene in Mexico.

AWAITS WORD FROM BRYAN.

Mr. Lind is fully cognizant of the delicate situation and awaits with keen interest word from President Wilson and Secretary Bryan, but today he received only assurances that the President was interested in certain developments and a request that he continue his observations.

Mr. Lind expressed the view that his waiting policy would not be continued for many days. It is known here that he has recommended that all diplomatic negotiations with Mexico be terminated.

At the American Embassy it is regarded as logical that Washington, perhaps tomorrow, will furnish vital developments in the relations between the two countries. This assumption is based on the Washington note to Gen. Huerta, in which Huerta is assured that refusal to comply with the American demands will result in President Wilson's applying to Congress for power to use the sterner methods and the threat to place a time limit on Huerta's conference.

It is considered that President Huerta's open note to the diplomats will make it impossible for Washington longer to withhold the exact character of Huerta's reply, which was made last week, and that this publicity will make some more definite steps necessary immediately.

OPINIONS DIVERGENT.

Opinion in Mexico is widely divergent as to what Washington's attitude will be. In some quarters it is thought that President Wilson may recommend neither intervention nor direct assistance of the rebels, by means of recognition of their belligerency, but that he may issue a note to the powers, setting forth that hereafter the United States will regard Mexico as a non-existing nation and repudiate all her acts.

Of these three courses the Mexican officials most fear, perhaps, the latter two, realizing that either would materially strengthen the rebel cause. Intervention, it is believed, by a majority of those in the capital—foreigners as well as Mexicans—would be a much more merciful and humane method of restoring order.

This argument is based by those who advance it on the assumption that the government would bring into the capital a force sufficiently large to defend it for many weeks, and the besiegers would include not only the elements of the northern rebellion, but thousands of adherents of Zapata, notorious for their cruelties and barbarism.

Although Mr. Lind appears not to have made much progress toward altering the opinions of the British Minister, Sir Lionel Carden, his relations with the German Minister, seem to be much closer. Admiral Paul von Hintze, the German Minister, was the guest of Mr. Lind at luncheon today.

FRENCH PAPER SEES TROUBLE.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Nov. 9.—The Temps, commenting on the Mexican situation, says:

"The European powers whose interests in Mexico are identical, should make it understood in Washington that humanity has nothing to gain through armed intervention of the United States. This would mean danger to foreigners, interminable guerrilla warfare, and still greater sacrifices of European interests. The placing of power in the hands of such Constitutionalists, as Henry Lane Wilson described, would result in worse anarchy than at present prevails."

WAR IS WAGED WITHOUT QUARTER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LAREDO (Tex.) Nov. 9.—Warfare without quarter with the opposing armies burning and dynamiting official and business buildings, residences, freight cars and other property has been waged at Monterey, Mex., between the defending Federals and besieging Constitutionalists. The unremitting fierceness of the struggle, particularly in the engagement of October 23 and 24, when the Constitutionalists occupied a large portion of the city, is pictured in Zig Zig, an illustrated weekly published at Monterey, copies of which reached Laredo today.

Many dead were left in the streets until a lull in the fighting should afford time for burning the bodies. A view of Cuauhtemoc street, near the National Railway station, where the conflict centered, showed an entire block destroyed by fire and cannonading, with numerous bodies in the ruins.

Gen. Miguel, whose residence was one of the finest in North Mexico, was burned to death when Constitutionalists destroyed the house by fire.

Constitutionalists captured the barracks of the First Federal Battalion and used it for an arsenal, but lost it when a Federal torpedo wrecked the building, killing many rebels. The north facade of the Governor's palace was shot away. The property loss was said to be enormous. The railroads claim their damage will amount to $7,000,000.

In the yards 658 cars, many loaded with merchandise, were burned. The round house and more than twenty engines were destroyed. The loss of life was heavy, but exact figures were not given.

DENIES REPORT OF RESIGNATION.

ALDAPE SAYS HUERTA WILL STAY IN OFFICE.

Gen. Trucy Aubert Is Arrested at Mexico City for Disobedience to Orders of War Department in the Attempted Relief of Torreon Before Its Capture.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Minister of Gobernacion Manuel Garza Aldape last night denied the report that President Huerta was thinking of resigning the chief magistracy of the nation in view of the existing circumstances. The minister also denied that Gen. Joaquin Maas, Sr., Military Governor of the State of Puebla, would be called to take the portfolio of war as a substitute for Gen. Blanquet. Regarding the reported intention of Foreign Minister Mohene to resign his portfolio, Minister Garza Aldape said that he knew nothing.

Campeche rebels who recently surrendered in the town of San Lorenzo are being concentrated by Federal authorities in the port of Champoton, where their arms are to be counted and collected and provisions issued to them, so that they may make the journey across country to their several homes. A telegram to this effect was received from Gen. Manuel Rivera, Military Governor of Campeche, yesterday. In it he says that rebels are very numerous but no exact count has been made of their forces. The government will receive this count in detail after they arrive at Champoton and sign formal documents relating to their submission.

Gen. Fernando Trucy Aubert, formerly commanding the Federal column at Hipolito, who arrived in the capital Friday night, was arrested yesterday afternoon and sent to Teresita Barracks, where he is being held incommunicado. The cause of the arrest of Gen. Trucy Aubert was not made public. However it has been learned that the charges made against him are that he disobeyed the orders of the Department of War when he was sent to Torreon to assist the Federal garrison there before the town was captured by rebels.

GEN. ANGELES IS DISMISSED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 9.—Gen. Felipe Angeles, who recently became identified with the Constitutionalists, has been dismissed from the Federal army. Gen. Angeles had charge of the Federal battery at the bombardment of the arsenal in this city in February.

For the first time in several years the saloons and gambling houses of the capital were permitted to open for business on Sunday.

HUERTA CRITICISED BY COVARRUBIAS.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Miguel Covarrubias, who recently resigned as Mexican Minister to Russia because he was out of sympathy with President Huerta's policy, arrived in London yesterday. He contributes a two-column statement on late Mexican history to the Daily Telegraph.

Senor Covarrubias declares the election of Francisco Madero to the Presidency was the glorious dawn of democracy in Mexico and that at present nothing could be more absurd than the idea of Mexico again submitting to a military dictatorship.

"Gen. Huerta," he continues, "perhaps will understand some day that the only possible method of governing is to act for the people through the people. A light has dawned and the democratic ideals, seen in their full effect at the very doors of their country, are deeply rooted in the hearts of the Mexican people."

He notes that the Madero and Carranza revolutionary movements have been more acute in the north than in the south—that is, in the region in contact with true democracy, and asserts that even if it were possible to establish a strong military government, such an enormous standing army would be needed that the total revenues of Mexico would not be sufficient for its maintenance. In fact, the only way to stop the revolutions which so seriously injure foreign enterprises, is to establish a true democratic government, and for this reason foreigners who, by their propaganda, favor an impossible government for Mexico, are jeopardising their most legitimate interests.

TATTOO MARKS CALL HIM HOME.

NAME INKED ON FOREARM RECALLS LOST MEMORY.

San Francisco Man Loses Identity from Blow on the Head and Wanders Through Many States Until His Mind Recovers Its Full Senses in Texas.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Wandering about from State to State for almost nine months, with a total loss of memory and without any knowledge of his name, family or residence, C. H. Mikelsen of San Francisco suddenly regained his memory on November 4 last in Galveston, Tex. Happening to look at his arm he saw his name tattooed on the forearm, and this incident served to dispel the cloud which had rested on his mind since February 15 of this year, when he was struck on the head by a heavy stove while working.

Last night Mikelsen, in total possession of his senses, arrived in Oakland and telephoned to a friend here. Mikelsen then came to the friend's house, and this morning the wife and child of the man who had been given up for dead were reunited with him.

While working for the W. F. Boardman Company, Mikelsen was struck on the head by a falling stove. The cut was treated and Mikelsen departed, presumably for home. When he did not arrive there that evening the wife informed the police of his disappearance and, although a State-wide search was made, no trace of the missing man could be found.

With his memory cleared, Mikelsen today told his wife that he wandered to Utah, where he worked with a construction gang. He next drifted to Montana and from there to Galveston, where on November 4 he suddenly regained his memory.

Eastern Railroads Await the Wage Increase Award.

Seventy Thousand Trainmen Affected by Issue.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The award of the board of arbitration in the wage dispute between the eastern railroads and their conductors and trainmen will be filed in the Federal Court here tomorrow. The members of the board are Seth Low, chairman, and Dr. John H. Finley, representing the public; W. W. Atterbury, vice-president of the Pennsylvania, and A. H. Smith, vice-president of the New York Central, representing the roads; and Lucius E. Sheppard, vice-president of the Order of Railway Conductors, and D. L. Cease, editor of the organ of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, representing the unions.

The award will affect all the principal railroads east of Chicago and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers, and if the demands of the men are granted, will increase their payrolls $18,000,000 a year, according to the railroads' estimates. Concerned in the award are 75,366 employees, of whom 19,903 are conductors and 55,363 trainmen.

The demands were arbitrated under the provisions of the Newlands act, which was adopted as an amendment to the Erdman act, when the conductors and trainmen threatened to strike, all other means of friendly settlement having failed. The men contended the cost of living had increased materially, and that wages paid in the East were lower than in the West and South. The railroads argued that the basic wages had always been higher in the West and that if the eastern wages were increased now the unions would demand a return to the differential and then come back to the East demanding another equalization.

GETS EXAMINATION QUESTIONS.

Chicago Reporter Asserts There Is a big Leak in the State Dental Board.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—A list of questions, said to be part of an examination set for Monday by the State Board of Dental Examiners, was purchased last night by a reporter, from Joseph C. Darling. He paid $50 for it.

In a statement, after his arrest, Darling asserted that he obtained the questions from Dr. F. T. Diamond, who was recently appointed a member of the State Board of Dental Examiners.

The reporter went to Dr. Diamond's office, where he told the member of the board he expected to take the examination in Iowa, and had been told that Darling "might give him a steer in the right direction."

The reporter later met Darling in the elevator in the building. They went to a saloon, where Darling said: "I can do everything except sign your license for you."

The reporter paid Darling $15 in marked bills. Later he paid him $25 more. Darling handed over a list of questions on anatomy, anesthesia and extraction, and oral surgery. He promised to get questions on chemistry and metallurgy later.

TO SEGREGATE PUPILS.

Chief Justice Olson of Chicago Court Would Give Private Instruction to Feeble-Minded.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 9.—Discussing a "constructive policy whereby the social evil may be reduced," Chief Justic Harry Olson of the Municipal Court of Chicago, who spoke today before the International Purity Congress, advocated the segregation of pupils in the schools and private instruction in special schools for subnormal children. The proper training of the feeble-minded child, before it reaches the age of twelve years, he declared, would reduce prostitution.

Only a small proportion of the inmates of evil resorts have passed the fifth grade in school, according to the speaker. He said many of them were feeble minded, or at least below the normal, according to investigations made in the morals court in Chicago. He would make the renting of houses for immoral purposes a felony. Ng Poon Chew, an editor and reformer of Canton, China, discussed "social and moral reforms in the new China."

Anthony Comstock of New York told the story of his life's battle against vice.

MESSAGE FROM WILDS.

Bottle is Picked Up Near Spokane Carrying Note From Hunter Lost In Northern Idaho.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SPOKANE (Wash.) Nov. 9.—Apparently a last message from a hunter, ill, despondent and lost in the wilds of northern Idaho, a note signed "R. Clay Stone," and sealed in a medicine bottle was found floating in the Spokane river here today by a fisherman. The note dated August 12, 1913, says:

"I am sending this message in this bottle. Should anyone find it have same printed or write to R. L. Robanatt, Havana, Cuba, which was his last address. I am sick and lost miles from anyone.

"This is a small stream. I have $150 on me, also my rifle, two bearskins and watch. Should I be found, give the money to poor. Send watch and rifle to my friend. Good-by to the world."

The bottle evidently thrown into one of the small mountain streams of Idaho, has been three months on its journey to Lake Coeur d'Alene and thence into the Spokane river.

PALACE "TO LET."

King Ferdinand of Bulgaria Seeks Austrian Support to Cede to Retain Throne.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Nov. 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Dispatches from Vienna indicate that the disastrous campaign into which Bulgaria entered after the quarrel with her erstwhile allies in the Balkan League, is likely to cost King Ferdinand his throne.

King Ferdinand, who is now in Vienna, is determined not to return to Bulgaria unless he has the support of Austria. He has been very unpopular in Bulgaria since the beginning of the war and it is stated that he has received many letters threatening him with death, while placards with the words "To Let" have been posted on the walls of the native palace at night. The monarch frequently absented himself from Sofia, sometimes days at a time at Abandina.

He has had several conferences with Count Von Berchtold, Austrian Premier, and has had an audience with Emperor Franz Joseph. It is stated that if his mission fails he will abdicate in favor of his son, Prince Boris, who, having been baptized in the orthodox faith, is more popular than his father.

COMMITTEE FIXES DATE FOR SUFFRAGISTS' APPEAL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Women, those who want to vote, and those who don't, will be heard on the suffragette question by the House Rules Committee beginning December 2. Chairman Henry announced the hearings today.

"The proposition on which the hearings is given," said Henry, "is the request of the suffragists that this committee make a favorable report to the House for the creation of a standing committee on woman suffrage."

Many anti-suffragists and suffragists regard the hearing as the great field day of the votes for women questions. Both sides will be presented by their ablest speakers and leaders. Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge of New York, who, as president of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, will marshall the forces of anti-suffrage is now in Washington and said:

"We are convinced that neither the Committee on Rules or the House membership favor establishment of a standing committee on woman's suffrage. There is no doubt that the Committee on Rules is opposed to woman suffrage and, when the members realize that the creation of a committee on woman suffrage would be an unfair encouragement of suffragism, they will not, I am sure, favor such a thing.

"My information is that the suffragists expect the committee to deny them what they ask. Moreover, the only reasons for the suffragist question for this committee is to make a fictitious showing of strength in the remote event of it being granted."

NEED MILITIA IN IOWA.

Mob of Oskaloosa Street Railway Strikers Beats Up Employees and Burns Several Cars.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OSKALOOSA (Iowa) Nov. 9.—All the men who have been used in an attempt to run the street cars here left the city today and no effort was made to operate the cars. The departure of these men follows the wildest night of disorder since the strike began. Last night a mob of a thousand men and boys held the police powerless while they seized two street cars and burned them and assaulted a number of employees. Six of these were seriously injured.

If you have weak lungs, you have reason to fear pneumonia, and should keep at hand a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.—[Advertisement.]

Says Dr. Brougher.

SHOULD INTERVENE ONLY AS AN ULTIMATE RESORT.

AT TEMPLE BAPTIST CHURCH last evening, Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher took as his subject for discourse, "Shall We Go to War With Mexico?" He deprecated hostilities that might be excited through unworthy motives, and said that intervention should be undertaken only as a last resort, when everything else has failed.

"Los Angeles, beautiful city as it is, with a magnificent population of intelligent Christian people, nevertheless, would not be a safe place in which to live if we did not have our police force," he said. "Churches and schools and institutions of culture are not sufficient to keep in check people who have not reached that sphere where life is controlled by reason.

"In our relations with other nations we should never be actuated by selfishness nor by material aggrandizement, but if it becomes necessary for our country to set at liberty the oppressed, as we did in Cuba and Porto Rico and the Philippine Islands, then if it cannot be done by moral suasion and reasonable arbitration, it ought to be done by force of arms.

"If Mexico cannot settle her internal difficulties, if she is going to jeopardize the life, liberty and happiness of innocent people, if the United States and foreign powers cannot help her to settle those troubles by moral suasion and reasonable arbitration, then it may be necessary for the United States to restore it to order, command respect for law, and hold it under a protectorate until a majority of her people rise to that plain of self-mastery where they can be permitted to exercise the functions of self-government."

A FEW FIGURES.

Which Demonstrate The Superiority of The Times As An Advertising Medium More Eloquently Than It Can Be Portrayed in Words.

The best criterion of the publicity value of a newspaper is the extent to which its columns are used. About this, there can be no doubt. It is indisputable.

Month after month, year in and year out, The Times prints more advertising than any other newspaper in the world, and leaves its struggling local rivals far in the rear.

	Lines
THE TIMES	1,340,700
Second Morning Newspaper	1,123,200
Third Morning Newspaper (The Penny Piker)	551,100
First Evening Newspaper	802,800
Second Evening Newspaper	728,100
Third Evening Newspaper	295,200

During the month named, The Times printed more separate classified advertisements than the other two local morning newspapers combined, and 5093 more than it printed during the same month of last year.

In promoting the interest of its patrons, in the esteem in which it is held by its readers, and in its size, The Times leads the world.

Gompers Tells Baptists of "Labor and Love."

Secretary Wilson to Attend the Sessions.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) Nov. 9.—The thirty-eighth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor will be called to order tomorrow morning by President Gompers. Preliminary conventions of the various departments were held today, when the work to be taken up by the federation was planned.

Many important matters will be taken under consideration on the floor of the convention. The first is the question of immigration following the opening of the Panama Canal. This was considered by the western labor immigration congress, which concluded a two days' session yesterday, and the recommendations of the congress will be taken up by the federation.

Another question which will receive much attention from the delegates is the proposed change in the form of the labor organization, several unions favoring industrial organization. This question was considered in the last convention of the metal trades department last week and was opposed by some of the leaders on the ground that it would involve the national unions in so many strikes that it would make their work ineffective.

WOULD ACCEPT.

Gompers, although not an avowed candidate for re-election, has announced that he will accept another term as president, if he is elected. It is believed, however, that a progressive effort will be made to defeat him. Frank Mitchell, second vice-president, has announced that he will not accept another term.

Tomorrow morning's session will be given over to addresses of welcome and the appointment of routine committees. In the afternoon the delegates and local labor organizations will march in parade led by a band of music.

MORRISON'S SERMON.

Many of the labor movement occupied pulpits in several churches today. Secretary Frank Morrison had charge of the purity Sunday service at the Seventh Baptist Church tonight, addressing the congregation on "Labor and Love," and James W. Wilkinson, president of the Blacksmiths' Union, spoke at the Universalist Church, on "The Church and the Labor Union Movement."

Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson arrived tonight by steamer from Victoria, B. C., to attend the opening sessions of the American Federation of Labor which will meet tomorrow.

He will be joined here by Commissioner of Immigration Caminetti, who is on his way to the Pacific Coast to inspect immigration stations at the various ports.

Blizzard on Lakes.

were and disastrous sea they had seen running on Lake Michigan in many years. From Evanston to South Chicago and Gary docks were wrecked by mountainous waves, filled-in land was washed away, bathing beaches left stretches of stone and small boats were heaped on shore or whipped against each other.

Through Ohio, Indiana, Western Pennsylvania and Southern Michigan snow and high winds that co-operated as fierce blizzards, made travel nearly impossible, delayed rail traffic and tore down miles of telegraph wires. Even in Georgia and Florida the thermometer tomorrow morning will show the freezing point. West and northwest of Chicago there was less suffering save in the Canadian northwest, where a new storm and cold wave, much more severe than the one engulfing the United States today, was forming, ready to drop southeast into the United States at the end of the week.

STRETCHES TO FLORIDA.

The cold weather today stretched uniformly southeast from Duluth to Tallahassee, Fla. Snow and a gale at the Sault Ste. Marie, a gale which laid shipping on the lake helpless from Green Bay to Gary, higher winds that destroyed telegraphic communication in Ohio, and growing wind with falling temperature southeast of Ohio, was the situation at midnight.

The forecast tonight added that this was to be followed over the same southeasterly track by clearer and warmer weather, then by a clear, cold spell, which tonight held White River, Can., at 6 deg. and Winnipeg at 8 deg. Just ahead of the next cold spell a day of rain in the Great Lakes region was forecast.

More than $150,000 damage was done in Chicago to docks and filled-in land. Hundreds of thousands of persons lined the lake shore and chattered in the cold all day watching the great waves that washed over the Lake Shore drive, made the outer driveway in Lincoln Park unsafe, left the German building in Jackson Park and the convent of La Rabida surrounded by newly-formed lakes, swept over a twelve-foot pier in Jackson Park, smashed pleasure boats and imperilled even the rock-ballasted Illinois Central tracks.

In Lincoln Park and near Fiftieth street, where millions of dollars' worth of newly-made land had been formed, the huge waves washed inshore and carried thousands of cubic yards of soil away. Capt. William Neilsen, superintendent of Lincoln Park, said $100,000 damage done near Fullerton avenue would set the work of park extension there back six months.

SCHOONER'S CLOSE CALL.

The schooner "The Boy," with Capt. W. Schlosser and a crew of seven men aboard, struggled through the rolling waves from Marinette, but could not make the harbor. Fearing a wreck, the skipper heaved out an anchor which held all afternoon, though the deckload of lumber was washed overboard.

The wind blew 36 miles an hour in Chicago and Pittsburgh, 42 in Ft. Wayne and 48 miles an hour in New York.

In Minnesota and at the Sault Ste. Marie, thermometers recorded 18 deg.; at Cincinnati and St. Louis they showed 28 deg. and at Pittsburgh 24 deg. Snow was reported at Marquette, Mich., Ft. Wayne, Cincinnati, Detroit and Pittsburgh.

Only one telegraph wire connected Philadelphia and New York tonight, and New York and Washington wires were routed through Birmingham and Atlanta. Chicago was cut off entirely from Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia. Telephone calls were accepted subject to indefinite delay if they ran into or crossed Ohio. Cincinnati was in connection with Chicago at midnight.

The steamer W. G. Pollock of Cleveland went ashore on St. Clair flats near Detroit; the Mary Elphicke was beached, but got off and into Detroit safely.

Train service near Pittsburgh was crippled. Wet snow froze to wires and tore them down for miles near that city. At Elkins, W. Va., fifteen inches of snow lay on the ground.

Los Angeles, with a maximum of 90, was the warmest spot in the entire country, being thirty degrees warmer than Miami, Fla., and thirty-two degrees warmer than New Orleans.

Snowdrifts fourteen feet deep are blocking trains on railroads centering in Cumberland, Md. The storm broke at Elkins, W. Va., at midnight on Saturday, and at 4 o'clock this morning it had reached a depth of five inches. About that time it started falling at Thomas, W. Va., and at dusk tonight nine inches of snow was on the ground and still falling. As the day advanced the wind increased and tonight West Virginia, on the border of Maryland, is in the grip of a blizzard. The snow quickly filled up the gullies and all the railroads are at a standstill.

STEAMER CELTIC HAS ROUGH TRIP.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—From the time she left Liverpool, the steamship Celtic, which arrived today, encountered rough weather. The Celtic's fastest time was fifteen knots an hour and for two days the big steamship floundered in the rough seas not averaging much more than six knots.

The steamship Lucia, which arrived today from Trieste, also reported severe weather. The decks were flooded, the hatches smashed and the cargo damaged. The Lucia was five days late.

The bad weather did not abate today and both steamships ran into a heavy fog and windstorm off Sandy Hook. In New York City a heavy windstorm accompanied intermittent rains and much damage due to broken show windows and dislodged signs was reported.

Telegraphic communication to points west and north of New York City was interrupted and in some instances suspended for some time tonight because of a heavy wind that accompanied the rain and snowstorm in the interior and blew down wires and poles. Western Union Telegraph Company officials said that the worst wire trouble was between Cumberland, Md., and Pittsburgh and between Buffalo and Chicago. Minor trouble was experienced in keeping communication open between New York City and points in New England.

SNOW FALLING IN ALLEGHANIES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CUMBERLAND (Md.) Nov. 9.—Snow has reached a depth of fifteen inches at Elkins, W. Va., and other points in the eastern Alleghenies in Maryland, West Virginia and Southern Pennsylvania. The wind is blowing a gale. Traffic on the Western Maryland and Baltimore and Ohio railroads is greatly hampered because of wire trouble and drifts. A passenger train on the Davis branch of the Western Maryland Railway is snowbound near Davis, while another passenger train is held near Dobbin by a freight train which is off of the track in a drift.

NAVIGATION STOPS AT DETROIT, MICH.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DETROIT (Mich.) Nov. 9.—A severe snow and wind storm prevailed over Lake Michigan and Lake Erie today, practically stopping navigation. Shipping of all descriptions has taken refuge in the nearest ports. The steamer W. G. Pollock of Cleveland was forced onto the banks of the St. Clair Flats canal. Her condition is not regarded as dangerous. The steamer Mary Elphicke of Chicago, which went ashore yesterday in Lake Erie, has been floated and has reached shelter. All local telegraph wires were affected tonight.

WIRES ARE DOWN AT PITTSBURGH.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 9.—A snow, sleet and wind storm crippled transportation and deranged wire communication throughout this section tonight. Ten inches of snow fell today, while the wind attained a velocity of forty miles an hour. Telegraph and telephone wires to New York, Columbus and Chicago were badly affected, although the telegraph companies succeeded in establishing makeshift circuits tonight. Cleveland was cut off from wire communication early tonight, and for a time it was impossible to reach Oil City, Titusville and points north of here by wire. Train service east and west of Pittsburgh was badly handicapped with through trains running hours late and local trains either held up at division points or annulled. The storm was especially severe in this city. Part of West Virginia and Eastern Ohio are believed to have suffered considerable damage, but attempts to communicate with these sections have failed.

KENTUCKY FEELS BLIZZARD'S POWER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) Nov. 9.—Accompanied by a high wind and low temperature, a snowstorm swept over a large portion of Kentucky today. At Middlesboro, a fall of six inches was reported.

AT THE HUB.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—The long overdue Hamburg-American liner Aragonia, concerning which considerable anxiety had been felt, crept in through the fog today. She had been 121 days on the voyage from Yokohama. The steamer was forced to put in at Aden on the Red Sea for repairs to leaky boilers.

GREAT LAKES SWEPT BY WIND.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BUFFALO (N. Y.) Nov. 9.—A severe storm swept the Great Lakes today. The extent of damage at lake ports and the loss of shipping was uncertain because of the almost complete prostration of both telegraph and telephone wires.

Lake Shore Railway officials reported their telegraph wires down west of Ashtabula and eastbound trains coming into touch with the local dispatchers' office from that point were from two to five hours late.

The Detroit and Cleveland passenger steamers cancelled tonight's sailing.

STORM CAUSES DEATH OF THREE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

UTICA (N. Y.) Nov. 9.—Three of the train crew were killed when a locomotive pulling a work train on the Raquette Lake Railroad ran into a tree which had blown across the tracks early this evening. A severe storm swept this part of the State late today and did extensive damage in the Adirondacks.

COAL LINER MISSING. IS LONG OVERDUE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MONTREAL (Que.) Nov. 9.—No news has been received of the missing Dominion coal liner Bridgeport, and it is feared she has been wrecked. Nine days have passed since the Bridgeport sailed from Sydney C.B.I. She should have been signalled thirty hours later from Fame Point, 325 miles below Quebec. It is now quite evident that the collier never entered the River St. Lawrence. The officers and crew of the Bridgeport numbered, as far as is known, forty-two. She is commanded by Capt. Olsen, formerly in command of the steamer Wacousta.

Pianos & Players Must Go

Come today and buy your piano while the big sale is on. We must move, at once, into our new factory at Van Nuys. The beautiful pianos on hand, we'll sacrifice, here, at the factory, rather than move them.

During this sale we're not figuring what a piano or a player piano cost. We're simply figuring this: "How quickly can we sell it?" In consequence, we're quoting prices that no other store has ever been able to equal; prices that will make it absolutely out of the question for any retail piano dealer to sell his instruments while this big factory-to-you piano sale lasts.

You've heard of cutting out the middleman's profits. But did you ever go directly to the factory and make your own selection from hundreds of instruments, pick out the one that suits you best, and then pay for it the same figure that a dealer would pay for it, and pay for it besides on easy terms, that a dealer could not command? We don't believe you've had that experience, and until you have had it you don't realize what wonderful opportunities can be presented to piano buyers.

There are scores of pianos here, which, under ordinary conditions, would bring $450 and $500. There are mottled walnut and mahogany cases. Their prices, during this final selling effort, are $167, $189, $196, $212, $240.

Take north-bound car on Spring St., marked "North Main St." Get off at Sichel St. and walk one block South, to the big factory.

time and is a large and potent factor in the whole situation. The Stockholders' Committee with all its imposing names, and with all George von L. Meyer's talk, is nothing more than a marionette wiggled from the back by the Boston Machiavelli.

"The operation of the New Haven and its physical condition have been declared by the public experts to be equal to the best in the country. The accidents which happened were not due to any defect in the road, but were due to the breaking down of the men employed, which of course, was wholly beyond my control.

"For ten years I have allowed myself to be misrepresented to the public because I knew that my hands were clean and that my conscience was clear."

Payment in Kind.

[Country Life:] In his annual report the medical inspector of schools in Berwickshire laments the decline of the system of paying farm servants in kind, because it insures them a good supply of wholesome, nourishing food. Where they are not paid in kind they spend their money in tea and bread, and they scarcely ever get milk, while the oatmeal which at one time formed the most important article of their diet is going out. The medical inspector traces to this cause the fact that, though Berwickshire school children are above the British standard in height and weight, 10 per cent. fall below the normal in nutrition. His report goes to confirm the opinion that on the whole, payment in kind is to the advantage of the laborer. At the least, it gives him a supply of food at cost price, probably less than cost price. A farmer in the South of England told us the other day that recently he offered his laborers an increase in money wages of 4 shillings a week in place of the cheap cottage and other indirect methods of payment, and after reckoning it all up they refused the offer. In these times of high prices they could not buy with the money the house accommodation and the food supply which are given as part of their wages.

GIRLS OF SCHOOL AGE

Need Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to Keep Their Blood in Good Order.

Girls in their 'teens are often troubled with thin blood, making the complexion pale, sometimes greenish, the cheeks thin, the lips colorless. There is shortness of breath after the slightest exertion, a general feeling of weariness and a disinclination to study or work. Sometimes a slight cough causes a feeling of alarm that the lungs may be affected.

There is one remedy that will surely correct this form of anaemia in growing girls and that is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The action of these pills in such cases is as direct and certain as that of quinine in malaria, as sure as anything known to the science of remedial medicine.

Every mother whose daughter is pale and thin owes it to her child's future to at once give her a course of treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Neglect at this time may result in a lifetime of misery.

Your druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Crew Mutinies.

Townsend sent a letter to the ship's agent here asking assistance. The letter did not give the cause of the mutiny, but the captain said he was ill when the outbreak came and that he and the mate were tied in their berths. They were later released to navigate the ship on a promise that they would return to the Delaware capes.

Because of stormy weather no communication could be had with the bark tonight. The United States Marshal at Odessa, Del., will go aboard her tomorrow. A revenue cutter will also reach the ship in the morning.

The Manga Reva was formerly the British ship Pyrenees. In 1900, while on a voyage from Tacoma to Europe, she took fire in the Pacific Ocean. After an exciting sixteen-days' run for land the ship was beached on Manga Reva Lagoon in the South Pacific. The wreck was sold at auction in San Francisco for $235 to Capt. I. E. Thayer, who fitted out a wrecking expedition and floated the ship in 1902, brought her to port, repaired her and replaced the ship under the American flag. She was given the name of the lagoon on which she had been beached.

AN ALADDIN'S PALACE.

Everything Is Done by Electricity in a Wonderful Hostelry in the French Metropolis.

[St. Paul Pioneer Press:] In the Boulevard des Italiens, one of the most elegant streets of the French metropolis, there is a marvelous hotel. It is called La Maison Electrique and is the result of the genius of its proprietor, George Knapp. It has the unique quality of not using servants of any kind. From porter, bell boy, chambermaid and waitress to bootblack, all the work is done and all the calls are answered by electricity.

On getting out of his motor car at the door, the arrival puts his feet on a movable carpet, which carries him to the hotel office. Here, instead of a key, he is given a magnetic combination which opens his room. His baggage is taken to his room in an electric hoist and dumped into a position in his closet.

The traveler ascends in an elevator which is furnished with a series of buttons containing the numbers on the various floors; he presses the one which corresponds with the number of his room and the car stops to let him off.

This hotel has no fixed staircases whatever. Everything is either elevator, moving platform or escalator; and the person who gets into one or finds himself standing upon the other does not have to move until he gets to the top.

Each room is furnished with boot-cleaners, and by pressing the necessary button one can get all desired toilet articles, from brush and comb to shaving soap and face powder. The buttons are arranged with reference to meals as well. Coffee and rolls, for example, can be had by pressing the button which has written over it the words, "Light Breakfast." Some of the other buttons read: "Wine," "Beer," "Breakfast," "Menu," "Hour," etc. By pressing the "Hour button a panel appears in which is marked the exact time of day. When a meal is ordered in this manner a door under the button opens presently, and a table is pushed forward with a tray on it containing the desired supply.

Each room has telephone, electric light, electric appliances for bath and massage, cigar lighters, etc.

Nor are there any waiters in the dining-room, nor "tips" required. The guest seats himself at a table, takes up the bill of fare, writes his order with an electric pen he finds at his side, and his order is carried automatically to the kitchen in the basement, where the "chef" does the rest—with the aid of electric buttons and the cook. The dishes are sent up to the guest by a dumbwaiter which buzzes, and he has only to press another button to have everything deposited in order before him.

Prosecutor Admits Vera May Know About Murder.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

KIEV, Nov. 9.—The Society of the Double Headed Eagle announces a memorial service for Andrew Yushinsky, "who was brutally tortured to death by Jews with the ritual object." The service will be held Monday in St. Sophia Cathedral, which stands within a hundred yards of the court where the trial of Mendel Beiliss, charged with the murder has been going on.

The student Golubeff, a member of the Black Hundred and president of the University Union of Student Monarchists, who figured prominently in the trial, calls upon all Christians "to pray for the soul of the martyr that he may forgive and be included in the 'community of saints.'"

BEILISS ILL.

At the evening session of the trial tonight the president of the court asked Beiliss if he desired to make a statement. The prisoner replied quickly:

"I should like to say many things, but am too ill and tired. I want to go home to my wife and children. You can see for yourself that I am innocent."

CROSS-FIRE OF COUNSEL.

The jury will consider a verdict tomorrow. Part of the sitting of the court today was devoted to replies by counsel to previous speeches, in accordance with the Russian legal custom, which permits replies and counter-replies without end. The prosecutor made a speech today describing M. Grusenberg, counsel for the defense, as a man catching at straws. He admitted, however, that the role of Vera Tcheberiak had been a strong one and that she had possibly participated in the crime.

In his speech yesterday, M. Grusenberg said he was convinced of the guilt of Vera Tcheberiak's band of criminals, adding:

"All roads of the evidence have led to Vera Tcheberiak and not to the brick works where Beilius was employed."

SOCIALISTS' FAIR PLAY.

They Howl Down a Member of Parliament Who Attempts to Make a Speech at Shoreditch.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The Socialists have adopted suffragist tactics and have decided to oppose all liberal candidates and refuse them a hearing at public meetings until James Larkin, leader of the striking Irish transport workers, who was sentenced to seven months' imprisonment at Dublin, is released.

The right Hon. Charles Frederick Masterman, M. P., was howled down today when he attempted to speak at the Shoreditch tabernacle. A small party of men kept up a continuous cry for the release of Larkin. The police finally were called to clear the church.

A demonstration was held at Dublin today by strikers in celebration of "the success of the Socialists in keeping the liberal candidate out in Reading. This had reference to the success of Capt. Wilson, the unionist candidate in capturing the Reading seat yesterday, when the Socialist, Butler, cut into the liberal vote.

TRIAL A TRAGEDY.

FEAR MASSACRES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—"The entire Jewish people in Russia is in constant fear of massacres as an outcome of this case," says the annual report of the Executive Committee of the American Jewish Committee, referring to the trial of Mendel Beiliss at Kiev on a charge of "ritual" murder. The case is referred to as "the most tragic occurrence in Jewish life for many years."

The report was submitted today at the seventh annual meeting here of the American Jewish Committee, a national organization, the purpose of which is "to prevent infringement in the rights of Jews in this country and abroad and to relieve them in case of distress and persecution."

The committee appropriated $5000 for the relief of persecuted Yeminite and Moroccan Jews and discussed at length the situation of Jews in Roumania and Russia.

Of the situation of Jews in Roumania, where demands have been made that persecution cease and the Jews be given equal rights guaranteed them under the Berlin treaty of 1878, the Executive Committee's report says:

"There are indications that this problem is about to assume a new phase."

The situation in Russia is dealt with extensively but the conclusion is reached that the condition of the Jews in that country "remains practically as hopeless as last year," while it is noted that "to the roll of usual horrors there has been added economic persecutions of the Jews in Poland."

That the Poles "in ruining Jews are also ruining themselves," is the committee's conclusion.

Suffragists at St. Paul's.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—[By Cable and A. P. Wire.] Suffragists made another demonstration today at the service at St. Paul's. At intervals they sang:

Nebraska Believes the Career of the Progressive Party Is Ended in That State.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OMAHA (Neb.) Nov. 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] When United States Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, elected as a "Bull Moose," deserted that party and issued a statement to Nebraska Progressives that the organization of the third party was a mistake and returned forthwith to the ranks of the Republican party, he dealt the Roosevelt forces in Nebraska a disintegrating blow. Some may return to the fold of the party whence they came and others may enter the Democratic ranks. It is believed to be practically the end of the Progressive party in Nebraska.

The break came when Senator Norris went to Massachusetts to campaign for the Republican candidate, Gardner.

As a fact there was little remaining of the Progressives in Nebraska even before Norris left the party. A year ago Omaha was the hotbed of the party, and a large vote was polled. The Bull Moose in Omaha and South Omaha is now in fourth place, being outnumbered by Socialists.

HOW CROPS ROB THE SOIL.

Nitrogen, Phosphoric Acid and Potash Found in Food Products are so Much Taken from the Ground.

A contributor to Farm and Fireside, the national farm paper published at Springfield, O., says that few farmers realize the actual value of the fertility of which they are continually robbing their soil. The article goes on to say:

"An acre of wheat deprives the soil of forty-five pounds of nitrogen, twenty-three pounds of phosphoric acid and thirty pounds of potash. On the market, nitrogen is worth seventeen cents per pound, phosphoric acid seven cents per pound, and potash four cents per pound. Therefore the actual money value of the nitrogen removed from the soil by an acre of wheat is $7.65; of phosphoric acid, $1.61, and of potash, $1.20, making a total loss of $10.46 per acre per year. If the farmer raises twenty acres of wheat per year for twenty-five years the loss will be $5,230.

"Each acre of oats consumes fifty pounds of nitrogen, twenty pounds of phosphoric acid and forty pounds of potash. Therefore, the market value of the elements consumed is $8.50 worth of nitrogen, $1.40 worth of phosphoric acid, $1.40 worth of potash, making a total of $11.30 worth of fertility per acre that is lost through the crop.

"In the same way an acre of corn will take from the soil $18.50 worth of fertility, provided both the grain and fodder are removed. If you have fifty acres in corn, $925 worth of fertility is removed each year. In twenty years you will have taken out $18,500 worth of the elements necessary to produce a good crop. In twenty years fifty acres of tobacco will remove $18,000 worth of the soil's plant-food; in the same time fifty acres of cotton will consume about $10,000 worth, and barley will use over $10,000 worth.

"Should you raise fifty acres of wheat, fifty acres of oats and fifty acres of corn for twenty years on your farm, the money value of the elements removed from the soil will be over $40,000. Is it any wonder, then, that the farms begin to wear out, when you fail to return those elements to the soil which are necessary to produce a crop?"

Machine Figures the Interest.

[New York Tribune:] A Hungarian citizen has invented an instrument which shows instantly the amount of interest due on any given sum for any period at any given rate of interest.

The instrument, which is made in the size and shape of a watch, has a very simple construction, and all that is necessary to operate it is to place the hands in the proper position on the dial and the exact amount of interest in each case is indicated on the face. The instrument is inexpensive and its usefulness is apparent. The inventor has applied for an American patent.

BLACKMAILERS SHOOT GUNMAN

Falls Riddled With Bullets but Returns Fire.

Affray Result of Scheme to Trap Outlaws.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OGDEN (Utah) Nov. 9.—Declaring to trap blackmailers who had again demanded money from him, E. Bristol and Leroy Eccles received threats of shooting. Deputy Sheriff special detective and gunman of Bingham, Utah, fell on a lonely road in the northeast part of Ogden at 4 o'clock this morning. He was riddled with bullets. The blackmailers had demanded that one of the prominent men bring $1500 in gold in a satchel.

Edwards was disguised in one of Eccles's clothing. It is believed the bandits recognized the disguise and opened fire on Edwards without warning. He returned the fire and was wounded. Though others were on the scene a few moments later the bandits made their escape. Edwards is now at a hospital in a critical condition.

HISTORY OF PLOT.

The shooting is the direct growth of a series of blackmailing plots, which have threatened residents of Ogden since the first of March last, Mrs. Thomas, a wealthy widow and builder of the Dee Hospital, and Mrs. Bristol, wife of the manager of the Ogden Portland Cement Co., both received letters demanding money, each to be delivered under certain conditions to be prescribed by the blackmailer. Response was made to their demand through a newspaper advertisement.

On April 8, attempting to trap the writers of these letters, two Pinkerton detectives, were sent with the money and a "fake" sack in addition to the scene arranged. Under cover of darkness the money was given to the mailers. Since then other letters were made through letters to Mrs. Eccles, widow of ex-Governor Eccles, and her sons, David C. and Leroy Eccles, to secure sums from the families. The demands were refused.

On November 1, the home of Leroy Eccles home was dynamited.

On November 4, Myers and Edwards was arrested and complaints were filed in the Federal Court charging him of sending the letters to Mrs. Bristol and one to David C. Eccles. On the evidence of similarity in the writing he was held to the federal grand jury and is now in jail.

Another letter in addition to the writing was received by Leroy Eccles on Sunday evening at 5 o'clock, acting on demands in the previous letters to leave tracks of bank notes wards was detailed the same plan.

The blackmailers claim to be responsible for the holding up of the Southern Pacific train near Ogden in 1911, the hold-up of the Overland Limited train at Five Points in 1911, the robbery of diamonds from Mrs. G. W. Culver, and the robbery of diamonds from Mrs. A. McLaren Boyle and Mrs. B. Wallen, in 1911.

PECULIAR SEA TRADITION.

Believed That No Man Is Dead Until He Has Become Neptune's Victim.

[New York World:] A peculiar English seafaring superstition or tradition that no man is dead until the name of Hugh Williams has become Neptune's victim.

This tradition has not been allowed to die at sea—a tradition based on one of the most remarkable and tragic incidents ever recorded in the annals of those who go down to the sea in ships.

The last and most recent instance of this immortality of Hugh Williams came to light when it occurred twenty-four years ago, on August 19, 1848, when a certain man was caught in a storm in the North Sea and went down. There were seven men on board and all were lost except two, who were saved. One was a nephew, and each of them was named Hugh Williams. Years afterward the relatives of the two legitimate men held a reunion in the interests of Aunt to celebrate the deliverance from what had been certain death.

But the superstition that Hugh Williams can become a victim is far older than the year 1848, a pleasure boat of the Thames collided with another boat and went down. There were seven persons on board, many of them children, and all were drowned except one, Hugh Williams, a lad of 17.

Another similar case occurred on the Menai, a ferry boat plying across the Straits of that name. In this craft went down. Seven persons were drowned and only one survived, an old gentleman named Hugh Williams.

A similar instance occurred at an earlier date. In 1785 a ship was wrecked on the Isle of Man and eighty persons were drowned. Only one was saved—Hugh Williams.

Religion and Science.

[Christian Herald:] Science declares that the Atomic theory is to grasp the problem of life with remarkable exactness and accuracy. "Oh, that's the doctrine of the Greeks," He smiled. "I thought and thought and thought and threes. They are the numbers I did not know it. They are the numbers of the gods—they find it everywhere. I did not know it was so old. The Africans claim to have given to something like it.

"The Atomic theory is the language and their people. They have evidently 'No blood, no made one of the Hugh Williams etymology. lish, they are all Hugh Williams. 'Blood, blood, blood.'

Not only can the Christianity be read fully. For instance, the lips of one of the Hugh Williams recently: "God is love," and in itself in the words

HISTORY OF PLOT.

The shooting is the direct growth of a series of blackmailing plots, which have involved residents of Ogden since 1911. In March last, Mrs. Thomas Bee, wealthy widow and builder of the Dee Hospital, and Mrs. Ralph Bristol, wife of the manager of the Ogden Portland Cement Co., both received letters demanding $5000 each to be delivered under heavy conditions to be prescribed later by the blackmailer. Response was to end their demand through a coded advertisement.

On April 8, attempting to capture writers of these letters, two private detectives, were sent with the money and a "fake" sack in addition, the scene arranged. Under cover of dark the money was given to the blackmailers. Since then efforts have been made through letters to Mrs. Bee, Eccles, widow of an Ogden millionaire, and her sons, David C. and Leroy Eccles, to secure sums from the families. The demands were refused.

On November 2, the threat of Leroy Eccles home was dynamited.

On November 3, Myron A. Stark was arrested and complaint was filed in the Federal Courts accusing him of sending the letters to the Bristol and Eccles families. On the evidence of similarity in the writing he was held to the Federal grand jury and is now in jail.

Another letter in different handwriting was received by Leroy Eccles on Sunday evening at 5 o'clock, demanding on demands in this letter. The wards was detailed this morning.

The blackmailers claim they are responsible for the hold-up of the Southern Pacific train near Ogden in 1911, the hold-up of the Oregon Short Line train at Five Points in 1912, the robbery of diamond rings from Mrs. G. W. Culver, and robbery of Mrs. A. McLaren Boyle, now held in B. Wallen, in 1911.

Believed That No Man by the Name of Hugh Williams Will Ever Become Neptune's Victim.

[New York World:] Among the English seafaring men there is a tradition that no man bearing the name of Hugh Williams will ever die at sea—a tradition based on one of the most remarkable series of coincidents ever recorded in the annals of those who go down to the sea in ships.

The last and most remarkable instance of this immunity of the Williamses from death at sea occurred twenty-four years ago. In August 19, 1889, when a coal barge was caught in a storm in the Solent and went down. There were seven men on board and all were drowned except two, who were picked up, one of whom was a boy named Hugh Williams. For years afterward the relatives of the dead men held a reunion on the anniversary of Annie's deliverance from what had seemed certain death.

But the superstition that bears Williams can become Nemesis to him is far older than that. In 1620, a pleasure boat of the day collided with another vessel and went down. There were twenty-four persons on board, most of them women and children, and all were drowned except two. One of these was Hugh Williams, a lad of fifteen. The other was a man named Hugh Williams.

Another similar case was that of the Menai, a ferry boat which used to run across the Straits of Dover. In this craft was caught in a storm and went down. Among the passengers drowned and only one was picked up was an old gentleman named Hugh Williams.

A similar instance is recorded as earlier date. In 1644 a vessel wrecked on the Isle of Wight and eighty persons on board. Only one was saved—Hugh Williams.

Religion and Science.

[Christian Herald:] Science declares that the Africans need to be taught the principles of Christianity with remarkable quickness, intelligence and accuracy. "Can they grasp the doctrine of the Trinity?" is the question. He smiled. "Everything is a matter of thought and observation," he answered. "They are logical thinkers. They are not stupid, as some people think. They are not dull. They are not know it. They grasp, comprehend, thesis—they find it everywhere. They did not know he was the Saviour. The Africans take to the Christian religion as to something he has long expected."

"The Atonement?" "The Africans understand the sacrifice of human blood, blood, blood. They are familiar with it. Not only can the Africans grasp Christianity readily, but they do so gratefully. For instance, talk to the lips of one of our young converts: 'God allowed his son to be crucified.' 'God allowed his son to be crucified?' 'Yes, he allowed himself to be crucified.' 'God allowed himself

A Large Body Guard.

[Baltimore American:] Marie of Luxemburg, 19 years of age, and independent sovereign of a diminutive state, embracing a thousand square miles, with a population of a quarter of a million, has lately developed the same sort of hobby as that for which Frederick the Great's father, King Frederick William I of Prussia, was so celebrated, namely, for securing the tallest men to be found on the face of the globe for his body guard. The Grand Duchess's army numbers, all told, 250 men, and she has just ordered that the minimum height for recruits should be increased from 5 feet 11 inches to 6 feet 3 inches, which surpasses the standard height of any army in the world. The tallest man of her army is a Colossus, who stands no less than 6 feet 8 inches in his stocking feet, being broad and stalwart in proportion, and the Grand Duchess has directed that every effort shall be made to recruit other men of as near as possible the same stature.

Red Cure: Laziness.

[Harper's Weekly:] Wire-grass is said to be both burglarproof and fireproof. In the first case, the wire netting embedded in its center cannot, it is claimed, be broken or cut noiselessly, so that entrance by means of doors or cellar coverings of this material by thieves is rendered difficult, if not impossible. Such glass is, however, more often employed for fireproofing than for other purposes, and it enters largely into the construction of elevator doors, partitions, windows, etc.

One expert, who has tested wire-glass up to 1700 degrees Fahrenheit, keeping it at this high temperature for half an hour at a time, states that at the first rush of heat the glass crackles, but that the netting holds it together, so that the flame cannot pass through. It will, it seems, hold flame up to the melting point, which is different in different kinds of glass, since some melt at 1000 degrees and others withstand 2000 degrees successfully. When a stream of water is turned on wire-glass that has melted almost to the running point, it immediately solidifies, so that it is a material well suited for elevator shafts, where a sudden rush of flame would crack ordinary glass and admit fire to all floors.

Ollie James's Beauty.

[Philadelphia Telegraph:] Senator Ollie James of Kentucky smiled the other evening when one of the party in a Washington gabfest questioned the justification of father in peevishly referring to his wife's mother. He said that it reminded him of an incident that happened in Louisville.

Husband and wife were away from home one day, according to the Senatorial anecdote, and the new baby was left in the charge of grandmom. During the evening an acquaintance called and saw the baby for the first time.

"And so this is the baby," said the acquaintance, patting him on the cheek, tickling him under the chin, etc. "How old is he?"

"Just six months old," smilingly answered grandma. "He was born on April 12."

"Six months! Just think of it!" reflectively returned the visitor, still examining the baby. "And how much he looks like his father."

HARBOR ITEMS.

Several thousand persons visited the port yesterday and many hundreds went aboard the U. S. warvessels South Dakota and Alert. The shipping was light and many steamers expected failed to arrive. The Pacific Navigation Company's steamers Harvard and Yale did a fair passenger business; the Harvard bringing 240 from San Francisco, the Yale came in from San Diego with 151 persons for this port and sailed for San Francisco with 185. The steamer Bear sailed for San Francisco and Portland with 200 passengers and 300 tons of freight. The Queen arrived from San Diego with a few passengers and sailed for San Francisco with a fair amount of freight and eighty-six passengers.

Three lumber steam schooners arrived, the F. S. Loop, from Tacoma; the Klamath, from Portland, and the Fort Bragg, from Mendocino. They brought 2,550,000 feet of lumber to various consignees. The Shoshone sailed for San Francisco and Gray's Harbor.

The Pleiades, bound for Balboa, by way of this port, has put back into San Francisco Bay for repairs. The Pleiades collided with an unknown steamer fifteen miles south of the Golden Gate Saturday.

The U. S. cruiser South Dakota will sail for San Diego today for target practice. Later the warship will go to Mare Island and into dry dock and while there have new propellers installed.

A strike is threatened today at Tacoma by all union laborers. The warehouse men demanded an increase in wages and it is reported that shippers have refused to agree to a raise.

Many improvements are being made at the wharves at Honolulu and Hilo and additional docks are to be built. The opening of the Panama Canal, it is believed, will greatly increase the shipping at the Hawaiian Islands.

Hazards of the Unmarried.

[Brooklyn Times:] If you want to live to a great ripe old age—get married. The Journal of the American Medical Association says that from twenty to thirty years the death rate among married men is 4.2, while among single men it is 6.6, from thirty to forty years the death rate among married men is 6, of single men 13. This is partly so, says the Journal, because those who have some physical ailment often do not feel free to marry. But that this is the main cause for the difference is disproved by the fact that widowers and divorced men have as high a death rate as single men. The same is true of women. Excepting at the age when maternity is common, women who are married live longer than those who are single. The widow and the divorcee have a higher death rate than either the single or married woman.

Guest Cleans Him Out.

P. H. Rucker, landlord, rented a room in his establishment yesterday to a man named Webster. The fellow was so good-natured about it that Landlord Rucker gave the stranger accommodations at No. 1547 West Eleventh street without advance payment. Emmet Doyle, 17 years old, has passed his spare time for seven years inspecting the telegraphed merits of the eastern ball players. He could call them by the pet names and had his favorites as much as any Gotham rooter. Greatly he desired to see one Tesreau, a pitcher, who came from the mountains of Arkansas. Yesterday he was about to have his wish fulfilled when he walked up to a vendor at the ball park and bought a bottle of soda. The bottle exploded and Doyle's left eye was closed by the swelling from a cut lid. He didn't go to the game.

GREAT GALLERY NOT FOR THEM.

California Art Club Ignores New County Museum.

Refused Consideration as a Unit; Retaliates.

"Should Have Had Charge of Opening," Says Wendt.

Pointed comment upon the fact that the California Art Club, comprising the majority of recognized artists in Southern California, is, as such, unrepresented in the newly-opened Los Angeles County Museum of History, Science and Art, brought to light yesterday the severely-strained relations between the club and the committee in charge of the art exhibits in the great building. Mrs. W. H. Housh, wife of the principal of the Los Angeles High School, is chairman of this committee. Edwin Wendt is president of the California Art Club and C. P. Austin secretary. As a result of the difficulty the club has declined to recognize the Museum of Art.

The committee, which was appointed by former Mayor Alexander, decided that suitable exhibits for the museum would be accepted, if such were applied, as an organization and in accordance with their plan, for space. This, its members said yesterday, was in response to a request to submit pictures. The club declined to exhibit as a whole, to have its exhibits hung together and under this exhibit subject to the rules of the club.

According to the artists, this request was refused and they were informed that they must submit their pictures individually to the jury, which was to pass upon them. This jury was composed of Bob Wagner, Elmer Wachtel, Nasmeim, J. Bond Francisco and Franz Bischoff.

The club promptly decided that it would not exhibit as a unit if it could not exhibit at all, but would make a display of its own. This decision culminated in the exhibit now at Blanchard Hall. As a result of the action of the club, it speedily developed that the jury system of selecting pictures for place in the museum would not produce the desired pictures and was forthwith abandoned. In its stead it was decided to hold a general exhibit and letters were sent to local artists asking them to submit pictures.

Many of the members of the art colony took an active attitude on the matter and declined to send pictures. Others contributed, not as an organization but as individuals. The hall was supplied by art works sent in for hanging in the matter," said President Wendt of the art club yesterday, "is that our organization should have been given charge of opening the art exhibit of the museum, representing, as our members do, the greater part of the artistic element of Southern California. In San Francisco, for example, we are so recognized and are exhibiting as an organization. Any further action in this matter will have to come from the board of governors of Exposition Park. There will be no attempt on the part of the California Art Club to compromise the difficulty."

The members of Mrs. Housh's committee disclaim any personal animus in the complication which has resulted in the principal art organization of this section refusing to recognize the museum. Their contention is that the club should have submitted its pictures in accordance with their ruling, in the same way as other competitors.

The California Art Club consists of about sixty members and includes nearly all the leading exponents of the brush and pencil between Santa Barbara and San Diego. The organization is seven years old and has devoted itself, at its own expense of money and time, to the education of the public to an appreciation of the artistic and beautiful, as well as to the exploitation of Southern California through the medium of pictures.

HOLE IN SEAT SAVES LIFE.

Would-be Self-Destroyer Uses Leaky Pants to Calk a Crack; Will Live.

Riley Carkeek had an old suit of clothes with no money in it, and a despondent disposition. Yesterday he decided to end his life. He took the old clothes, ripped them into rags and used them to stuff all the cracks and openings in his room. He put the top part of the trousers under the door, turned on the gas, got into bed and waited.

The gas came forth and Carkeek started forth. He would have gone forever but for the disabled trousers. When the gas began snuffing around the room, hunting an outlet, it nosed into the trousers. It nuzzled and squirmed through the packing until it came upon a hole, the cursed and much-abused hole in the seat of the trousers. Out the hole it went, into the hall, and the other occupants in the house at No. 314½ East Ninth street smelled the escaping fugitive and gave the alarm.

Carkeek will live, though he has no clothes to wear.

WORLD'S PEACE HIS MESSAGE.

AMBASSADOR OF THE GARTON FOUNDATION HERE.

Noted Englishman Calls War the Great Illusion and Says Europe Is Beginning to See It that Way. Balfour's Representative Says that America Holds Key.

Bernard Noel Langdon-Davies, M. A., of Cambridge University, who is in America as the representative of the Garton Foundation of London, arrived here yesterday. He preaches the doctrine that warfare is the "great illusion," and the message of peace which he brings to America he has already carried to many parts of Europe. He is at the Alexandria.

The Garton Foundation is named after the great London banker, Sir Richard Garton, who endowed it. By his side at the head stand the Rt. Hon. A. J. Balfour, former Prime Minister of England; Viscount Esher, permanent member of the Committee of Imperial Defense, and Norman Angell. In the English universities the policy promoted by the foundation is the establishment of what are called war and peace societies.

The Ambassador of the foundation made a name for himself as an all-around man when he was a student at Cambridge. He won the presidency of the Cambridge Union, the highest honor to which an under-graduate is eligible. He distinguished himself in athletics, especially in rowing, and took his degree with first honors. Since his graduation Langdon-Davies has been a teacher and lecturer.

Langdon-Davies can speak at first hand of the present situation in all parts of Europe in the light of the new ideas. His present tour is under the auspices of the American Association for International Conciliation.

The peace advocate has delivered sixty-one addresses in the principal cities of the United States since his arrival in August. He will speak at 10 o'clock this morning at the Throop College of Technology in Pasadena, and at noon before a meeting of the Women's City Club in Blanchard Hall. He will deliver an address at the University of Southern California at 9:30 o'clock in the morning and leave a few hours later for San Francisco.

"I always feel that I should explain why I came to America instead of staying at home and talking to Europeans," Langdon-Davies said last night at the Alexandria. "The answer is that the moral force of America, where the peace idea is so strong, and where European affairs can be seen in perspective, is invaluable for our campaign in Europe.

"Moreover, the United States, perhaps alone of nations, can today, if it chooses, declare that its public opinion is overwhelming on the side of sane, reasoned pacifism—of such an educational campaign as we are pursuing for the purpose of promoting an enlightened view of international relations.

"Such an attitude as we find in this great nation would probably turn the scale in Europe, but despite the strength of certain kinds of pacifism here, the policy of the United States seems ever to drift along the same stream as is steadily bearing European nations into the morass. That is why America matters to Europe.

"There is another reason for my coming to America, and that is to show why Europe matters to America. Whatever your fiscal policy may be or become, whatever new industries you may develop, whatever policy you may adopt in regard to armaments, one thing is certain—you are deeply and vitally concerned with the question of whether Europe spends her money productively or unproductively.

"America needs among the teeming millions of Europe, markets of all kinds. With your expanding population and your tremendous resources to develop that need must constantly increase.

"A few decades ago America was buying engineering machinery from Europe; today Europe is buying it from you. A few months ago, one might say, you were buying automo-

Cocaine Poisoned?

MIND'S CLOUDS CLEARED AWAY.

Mystery Woman of Glendale Hills Identified.

Husband Said to Be Nephew of Naval Hero.

Battered Flesh Points to an Ugly Experience.

The mystery surrounding the identity of the young woman found wandering on the Verdugo Canyon road near Glendale was cleared yesterday. In a lucid moment she said she is Mrs. Robert Evans of No. 145 South Beaudry avenue. Her husband is an artist and is said to be a nephew of the late "Fighting Bob" Evans, of naval fame. Her identity was later confirmed by Mrs. T. H. Lloyd, of No. 1025 West Twenty-third street, with whom she formerly resided and to whose home she will be removed this morning.

It was not until 4 o'clock yesterday morning that the young woman, who, according to the physicians of the Glendale Sanatorium, is suffering apparently from cocaine poisoning, sufficiently regained her senses to talk coherently to Officer J. W. Everett.

"Oh!" she cried, as she burst out weeping, "I know who I am. I'm Dorothy—Dorothy Evans—and my husband is—is 'Bob,'" she faltered and lapsed again into a semi-comatose condition. Reason again returned about an hour afterward and she was able to shed more light upon her strange wanderings.

"I live," she muttered, "at No. 125 Beaudry street, and I remember that I left home Friday, after 'Bob' and I quarreled. I worked as a retoucher in the photograph studio of E. F. Smith on Pasadena avenue, and I remember 'phoning him that I was not feeling well. Then I boarded a red car and I remember faintly that I rode in a wagon and an automobile. That is all. I can't even remember what 'Bob,' my husband, looks like," wailed the girl as she again lapsed into unconsciousness.

A few hours later Mrs. Lloyd arrived at the sanatorium, and an affecting scene followed.

"Don't you know me Dorothy?" she pleaded, but the dazed girl shook her head wearily. A few minutes later the light of reason returned, and raising her head from the pillow, she whispered:

"Yes, I know you; you were very kind to me. But I don't know your name, and I can't think where I have seen you. But you had a little kitten and his name was 'Hongkong,' and when he died, we were both very sad."

TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

Further efforts on the part of the hospital and police authorities to glean information as to her wanderings during Friday night were futile. There were marks and bruises upon her shoulders, arms and hips, but whether these were caused by her falling over rocks in her bewildered

Miss Frances Alice Kellor,

One of the principal authorities of the country on immigration, who will arrive here tomorrow for a one-day stay during which she will make suggestions for meeting that phase of future canal problems.

From Her Experience.

LITTLE SISTER OF THE ALIEN COMES TO TEACH.

ONE of the most remarkable women in America will arrive in Los Angeles at 8:35 o'clock tomorrow morning to give us some suggestions from a wonderful fund of experience on the way to handle what is shortly to become one of our gravest problems—that of handling immigration. Miss Frances Alice Kellor, chief investigator of the Department of Labor of the State of New York, general director of the Inter-Municipal Research Committee, fellow of the College Settlements Association, member of the Committee of Fourteen of the New York State Immigration Commission, and of the New York Research Council, besides being the author of half a dozen works on sociology and immigration, is the woman.

By virtue of her office in the State Department of Labor Miss Kellor has entire charge of the Bureau of Industries and Immigration, whose work is the protection of immigrants from those who would take advantage of their ignorance of our language and customs to exploit them for gain.

In the first year of her appointment she secured many legislative reforms bearing on immigrants, and for the first time definitely outlined the policy of the State toward entering aliens. From her own means

BLANKET RATE VIA TROLLEYS.

Pacific Electric Freighters Require Reciprocity.

New Ruling Will Save Large Sum to Shippers.

Subtracting from $750 to $1500 a day's income to hand to the ultimate consumer may not have the earmarks of good business judgment, but traffic officials of the Salt Lake, the Santa Fe and the Southern Pacific say that it is at least in the case of the roads which they represent.

The salient facts in this at present largely a hypothetical case of altruistic subtraction may be set forth in brief. On or about January 1, provided the Interstate Commerce Commission gives its expected sanction, the three Southland steam lines will make all blanket commodity rates applicable, without further charge, to and from all stations on the Pacific Electric.

In other words, the Pacific Electric's present charges of from $15 to $20 for the handling of each loaded car to or from steam line connections will be eliminated, or rather absorbed as part and parcel of the steam line's rate quotations.

SOME BUSINESS.

As from fifty to seventy-five cars daily are received and delivered by the Pacific Electric, the daily saving to shippers through the new order of things may be readily figured out. Say fifty cars at a saving of $15 each, $750, or seventy-five cars at $20 each, $1500. Computing in larger terms, in a year at the lower delivery estimate the shippers of the Southland are going to save, in round numbers, $250,000; at the higher rate, $500,000.

As for the good business judgment evidenced by this latest proof of increasing relations of amicability between the Pacific Electric and the steam lines, the word of General Traffic Manager Wann of the Salt Lake is proof positive.

LARGER DIVIDENDS.

"Irrespective," said Wann, "of the growing desire which the common carriers are evidencing of pleasing the shipper, the fact remains that unless blanket charges are made applicable to and from all Southland points the steam lines will be compelled in self-preservation, due to continued expansion of traffic, to build into the districts now served partially or exclusively by the Pacific Electric. Needlessly to say branch lines cost money.

"Furthermore, bettered service begets dividends. The Salt Lake and the other steam lines wish to see increased production and consumption

AUTO CLUB MEMBERS ALL SPECIAL SPEED OFFICERS.

Great Organization Gets Behind Movement to Halt by Drastic Means Daily Menace to Life from Reckless Drivers, and Every One on Its Rolls Will Be Instructed to Co-operate With the Police.

OFFICIALS of the Automobile Club of Southern California announced yesterday that the organization will augment the traffic squad of the city with 4500 special policemen, and the speed officials of this and San Diego county by a proportionately large number by asking its 8400 members to act in conjunction with the regularly-constituted authorities in the city and county to stamp out the alarming amount of reckless operation of automobiles.

The members of the auto club represent about 12,000 of the 30,000 cars in the county, and 4500 of the members are residents of the city. It is estimated that 40 per cent. of the owners of automobiles in San Diego county are members of the club. As the number of willful violators of speed regulations is small in proportion to the total number of operators, it is hoped by the officers of the club that the proposed ordinance licensing the drivers of automobiles, and providing for revocation of licenses for violation of speed laws, will have a salutary effect, especially when its enforcement is looked after by the army of sane drivers and owners represented in the membership of the club.

TO EVERY MEMBER.

Miss S. C. Geary, secretary of the auto club, said last night that the club has always stood for sane driving. "There are 21,000 automobiles in this city and the number is increasing rapidly," she said. "The police force is not adequate to properly handle the situation, and every member of the Automobile Club of Southern California will be asked to co-operate with Chief Sebastian's men and the county officers to bring an end to the driving of machines with utter disregard for human life, which has become such a scandal in this city recently. The new State law going into effect January 1 will remove one source of trouble, in the provision that an automobile license and number do not follow the car in case of sale or trade. Under the present law, identification of an offender by the license number is sometimes impossible, because the number is entered in the name of the original owner of the car."

Fred L. Baker, president and manager of the Baker Iron Works and president of the automobile club, said last night that he favors any reasonable legislation which would penalize an offender against public safety, especially anyone who operated an automobile while under the influence of liquor. "It is time the club took action in the matter," said Baker, "and I have no doubt the membership will be a unit in assisting the police force to weed out the small but dangerous percentage of incompetent and criminally-careless drivers of autos."

VIOLATORS EXPELLED.

Horace G. Miller, a vice-president of the Union Iron Works and second vice-president of the auto club, said the position of the club on the upholding of law and regard for human safety always had been a strong one. In a few cases when members had been proven flagrant violators of the law, they have been expelled. "I am in favor of such legislation and regulation," said Miller, "as will correct the evil complained of, and will not at the same time unduly and unnecessarily restrain the great bulk of automobile owners who are careful and conscientious drivers."

Edward G. Kuster, attorney for the automobile club, was present when the traffic regulation bill was being discussed in committee at Sacramento, during the recent session of the State Legislature. "Before anybody could say anything in favor or against that section of the bill providing for the licensing of automobile drivers, the committee rejected the section," he said. "Personally, I am in favor of such a provision and such an ordinance as City Attorney Stephens proposes."

PICTURES FATE OF THE SLAYER.

Larson Says Stretched Rope Should Be Penalty.

Conjures Grewsome Vision to Haunt Guilty One.

But He Denies He Killed Wife in Verdugo Hills.

Discussing crime in general and murder in particular, Louis Larson, accused of having slain his wife in the Verdugo hills on June 22, concluded yesterday that two punishments should come to the guilty person.

His rest should be broken forever but he grew depressed over the possibility of that scamp of a tramp.

Then he refused to talk further. He pointed to the open door and remarked that it was cold. Jailer Gallagher, steaming in his shirt sleeves, said that it was a little chilly, the thermometer being slightly under 100.

Larson is quite gleeful at his logic. He wanted to prove it, and when he was being taken to his cell he stopped to test the scales. He crawled off triumphantly and said: "See, I hain't lost no weight." And he hasn't, so the jailer says.

Louis A. Larson,

PUMPS OUT THE POISON.

Surgeons Save Woman's Life After She Attempts to Commit Suicide for Secret Cause.

Mrs. Daisy Adams, 26 years old, insisted yesterday that she was going to her death with bichloride of mercury tablets in her stomach and a secret in her heart. She was saved from both by an opportune stomach pump.

With her husband, James Adams, the woman lives in an obscure lodging place at No. 516 South Figueroa street. She believed she had ample cause for taking her life, she said, so swallowed the mercury tablets. She refuses to tell the reason. Dr. H. Sugarman was called.

by the face of the victim coming before him with all its horror and tragedy; and when the jurors have pronounced him guilty he should be hanged to a scaffold high.

But if only circumstantial evidence is presented against a man, then never convict him, argues the barber. The possibility of his being convicted on the circumstances of the murder has broken the sullen silence that has made Larson the most undesirable of inmates in the County Jail.

Today he faces trial in Judge Craig's court. On several juries he was a member and once on his judgment alone a jury was swayed in San Francisco to convict a man charged with a Federal crime. Since he has been behind the bars in the County Jail he has been thinking much of his jury service. He seems frightened at the thought of the circumstantial evidence against him being presented to a jury.

Under the most severe grueling, through all the strategies and unpleasantness of the "third degree," Louis Larson, barber and suspect, has never admitted guilt. Rather, he would advance strange theories to explain all the dark circumstances and do it all with a blink of his sullen and stupid eyes.

But Louis Larson, juror of the past, was discussing the case incidentally yesterday while talking about crime in general.

Dismissing himself, of course, as being innocent of the murder that was so atrocious in its brutality and cruelty, he was asked what he thought should be done with the guilty man.

His defensive sullenness disappeared for a time. All the cunning shiftiness left him as he talked about his experiences as a juror.

"Well, mister," he said, "if the guilty man is found he ought to be punished; yes, siree, punished to the full extent of the law. Whenever he lays down the face of that there woman ought to jump before him. Then if the jury agrees that he is guilty of such a murder, he ought to be strung up. Stretch his neck, I say; the higher the better, and all hell for his future.

FIVE WITNESSES.

"But if it's circumstantial evidence—" and here with a snap he changed, his eyes grew sullen and defiant again and he went on to declare that no one should be convicted unless there were five eye-witnesses at least present, each upholding his hand at the time they witnessed the crime, and swearing to tell the truth.

Once he lost his control as he talked. He was discoursing reluctantly on several phases of crime that had been suggested. Then he was asked:

"Larson, if there had been a tramp lying in the underbrush near the trail in the Casa Verdugo hills that Sunday and he had been asleep and he had suddenly been aroused by the cries of that woman and had looked up in time to see a man beating her with a beer bottle, and had been afraid to notify the police after the man fled because he had an instinctive fear of the authorities anyway, and at last returned and identified you as the murderer, would you be willing to be convicted and pay the penalty you suggest?"

"Tain't possible," he said. "Tain't noway possible. There couldn't been no man there, nohow. Tain't possible." And then—"of course I don't know, but it don't seem possible."

He was troubled at the possibility. It was a new conjecture for the sullen man of the cells to ponder over. He is not a pleasant person at any time, never amiable to his keeper;

HONOR MEMORY OF HERO GONE.

BRAVE WIRELESS OPERATOR IS NATIONALLY NAMED.

Y.M.C.A. Frames Secretary of Commerce Redfield's Letter Memorializing Youth Who Sank With the Ill-Fated Ship California, Faithful at His Post to End.

A letter from Secretary of Commerce Redfield eulogizing Donald Campbell Perkins, the hero of the steamship State of California, and a graduate of the Y.M.C.A. school of wireless telegraphy, who gave his life that others might be saved when the ship sank in Pacific waters recently, will be framed, together with a photograph of young Perkins, and hung in the lobby of the Y.M.C.A. by order of the board of directors and the board of management. A copy of the letter also will be sent to Perkins's family. In addition, a bronze tablet to Perkins's memory will be placed in the Y.M.C.A. lobby by students of the wireless school.

In presenting the letter to the board of directors, General Secretary Luther of the Y.M.C.A., to whom it was addressed, said:

"In the life and death of this young hero we have an unparalleled example of the highest qualities of manhood—the qualities that this institution seeks to instill in the men and boys who come within the circle of its influence."

Secretary Redfield's letter follows:

"The School of Wireless Telegraphy maintained by your institution is honored in having as one of its graduates Mr. Donald Campbell Perkins, first radio operator on the steamship State of California, who went calmly to his post when the vessel struck and stood there facing certain death, sending out the distress call continuously during the few minutes that elapsed while the vessel was sinking, and went down with her and was lost.

"The evidence shows that Mr. Perkins was off duty at the time of the disaster and that he presumably could have saved his own life if that had been to him the supreme thing. He went, instead, back to his post, sent his subordinate away to assist in getting out the boats, and remained himself, like a faithful soldier, at his station.

"The brief story of his self-sacrifice should be high among the honored traditions of your institution. It shows that there are heroes of peace as well as of war, who without the inspiration and excitement of battle, can face death with a quiet mind, fearlessly doing their duty to the end.

"The Department of Commerce that issued Mr. Perkins the license under which he served thinks this brief tribute to his memory due to the institution that taught him. Very truly yours, in Southern California and the one best way to foster both is by bettered service or decreased rates. Therefore, why not cut the high cost of living in part by advantageous rates and sow the seed for more tonnage for the common carriers.

"Getting back to the first proposition—more tonnage means more rail facilities. The Pacific Electric has lines of good service throughout a large territory radiating from this city. Therefore, by bringing it into the circle of common carriers by joint freight rates all steam lines obtain valuable feeders without money outlay for branches."

An application for joint rates has already been made to the Transcontinental Freight Association by the Southern Pacific and the Salt Lake, with the Santa Fe promising similar action. The matter will be taken up with the Interstate Commerce Commission and allowing for the usual thirty days' publication provisions, the rates should be effective within forty or fifty days.

ICED EGGS DEAR AT THE FIGURE.

PROTEST AGAINST REFRIGERATION CHARGES TO BE HEARD.

Railroad Commission to Give Heed Today to Southern California Complaints—Southern Pacific Depot Plans to Come Up for Consideration—Other Matters.

Southern California, with bills of complaints revolving around various things from the proposed Southern Pacific station through the list to cotton and eggs, with a few applications thrown in as good measure, will monopolize the attention of Commissioners Edgerton and Gordon of the State Railroad Commission during the week beginning today. All hearings will begin at 10 a.m., in the Supreme Court rooms in the Bullard Building.

Attacking as unreasonable the present charge of $45 a car for the refrigeration of eggs in transit between this city and Petaluma, the Klein-Simpson Fruit Company, through duly accredited representatives, will appear before Gordon today asking that the Santa Fe be compelled to allow the company to do its own refrigeration and further, that the railroad be prevented from exacting more than $15 for the rental of a car.

In twin hearings before Edgerton tomorrow, the Southern Pacific's depot plans will come up for approval on application of the company and for disapproval on complaint of W. H. Daum and others. Daum and the others include the Los Angeles Railway Corporation, the Pacific Electric and the City of Los Angeles in the list of defendants. The complaints in this case desire the elevation of the Southern Pacific's tracks.

While Edgerton is conducting this hearing, Gordon will hear the application of Mrs. Mary E. Backus of this city for permission to sell the Backus water plant on the family property at Eagle Rock to the Eagle Rock Water Company. The consideration is in the neighborhood of $7500.

Gordon will also preside at the hearing Wednesday of the application of William G. Henshaw of the Crescent City Railway for authority to construct crossings over the Southern Pacific tracks at Bloomington.

The following day, J. J. Chappell's complaint against the Southern Pacific's charges for the transportation of cotton between Imperial Valley points and this city and Oakland will be heard by Edgerton. This complaint is generally considered the opening gun in a fight to make this city and Oakland export ports for cotton to the Orient and Australia.

Friday, Edgerton will hear the application of the Angels Flight Railway Company for authority to purchase the Angels Flight Railway. This is really a plea for the modification of a previous order of the Commission so as to permit the issue by the purchasing company of $100,000 in capital stock in lieu of $40,000 in six per cent. bonds and $14,000 in capital stock.

HOW TO USE "WINDOWS."

Postal Authorities Issue Instructions as to the Use of "Look-out" Envelopes.

Regulations concerning "look-out" or "window" envelopes were issued by the postal authorities yesterday. They are as follows:

The so-called "window" envelopes, having an opening or a transparent panel in the front through which the address upon the inclosure is disclosed, are becoming very generally used by the business world, and after July 1, 1914, are mailable only under the following conditions:

All window envelopes shall bear the return card of the sender; otherwise, when deposited in the mails, if the sender's address is not known they shall be sent to the Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General, Division of Dead Letters. This is in line with the fast-increasing policy of the Postoffice Department to require on all mail matter the name and address of the sender, as well as that of the addressee, which would practically eliminate all the work of the dead letter division, or afford delivery either to the addressee or, if the mail is incorrectly or insufficiently addressed, that it can be returned to the sender at once.

The window shall be parallel with the length of the envelope, and to allow space for postmarking and for changes of address, it shall not occupy any space within 1 3-8 inches from the top nor within 3-8 of an inch from the bottom or ends of the envelope.

Windows shall not be colored and shall be made or treated so as to be as transparent as possible; but windows slightly discolored by the oil used to make them transparent shall not be considered as colored.

Window envelopes which do not conform to the above requirements shall, when deposited in the mails, be returned to the sender, if known; otherwise, they shall be sent to the Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General, Division of Dead Letters.

If the matter inclosed in window envelopes is not folded so as to expose the complete address through the window, or the address is not printed or written legibly, the envelopes shall be laid aside for treatment after disposition shall have been made of other mail. If the addresses cannot then be read, the envelopes shall be returned to the senders, if known; otherwise they shall be sent to the Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General, Division of Dead Letters.

SEVEN MEXICAN CONSULS IN BUT TWO YEARS HERE.

The procession of Mexican Consuls,

In this city. Senor Orci, the incoming representative of the turbulent republic, is the seventh since the abdication of President Diaz.

WITH the temporary retirement, on a vacation from duty, of Senor Pena y Cuevas, local Mexican Consul, and the accession to his place of Senor Juan R. Orci, the frivolous suggestion has been made that there be organized a Society of Former Mexican Consuls to Los Angeles. If they all joined who have attained that distinction within no more than the last two years, there would be six charter members, and there are plenty of societies without a bigger list than that to start with.

Antonio Lozano.
Arturo Elias.
Martinez Baca.
Jesus Lozano.
Fernando Baz.
Pena y Cuevas.
Juan R. Orci.

Seven—count 'em—seven. Finnegan never did any better. In nearly every case the decapitation—officially—of one consul and the succession of another has reflected some phase of the kaleidoscopic rows below the border. Antonio Lozano was the original Diaz man. When Diaz fled Arturo Elias, a friend of the provisional President, De la Barre, stepped into office. Elias gave way to Dr. Baca for political and other reasons. Baca quit because the Mexicans here protested vigorously against having him represent them, alleging that he was not in sympathy with their interests. Jesus Lozano is a brother of Antonio, but he did not last as long in office. Baz succeeded him and gave way almost as quickly to Pena y Cuevas. Now, temporarily at least, Juan R. Orci is Consul. It is given out that Cuevas and his family are returning to Mexico City on a vacation and that he will return here in about two months.

With the record of two years of Mexican Consuls in mind, students of local Mexican politics aver that a lot can happen in two months. It is recalled that Cuevas announced himself, at the time of his accession, as a strong partisan of Felix Diaz, whom he declared would be the next President of the republic. It was reported then—this was last April—that under such conditions Cuevas would have a place in the Diaz Cabinet.

These things are not taken into consideration by frequenters of the Plaza as necessarily meaning anything—they are simply recalled as interesting history.

BOOTS SISTER-IN-LAW.

First Shoots at Her and Then After Knocking Her Down Stamps Heels in Her Face.

A boot heel in action did more damage in the Gropodi household yesterday than a battery of three guns. Joe Gropodi, along with a boot heel, armed himself with a small revolver and went to the home of his brother, Pete, in Eagle Rock Park. The two had fussed about some money matters when Joe was fired from a grading job.

Joe opened Sunday morning's greetings by knocking Mrs. Gropodi down when she came to the door. Then he drew his weapon and shot four times.

Mrs. Gropodi was not out-weaponed. She snatched a long-nosed shotgun off the wall, where it had hung for many a month, and opened fire. The gun was intended for chicken thieves and prowling dogs. Of course, Mrs. Gropodi aimed hurriedly, but the gun played true to habit by shooting ten feet above the target.

Then Joe struck Mrs. Gropodi down, after throwing his worthless revolver away, and stamped her with his boot heel.

Up rose Pete Gropodi, husband of the stricken woman, and sallied into the room with a third gun. He shot the round of the chambers, and then threw the gun at his brother, Joe, who was hot-footing it down a trail. The Sheriff's party chased Joe without capture. Mrs. Gropodi is severely injured.

SAVES HER BABY.

Woman Knocked Down and Badly Hurt by Car Step But Infant In Her Arms is Uninjured.

After alighting from a street car at Adams and San Pedro streets last night, carrying an infant, Mrs. Mabel Crossman, No. 513 East Twenty-fifth street, was struck by the rear step and knocked to the pavement. The injured woman was taken to the Receiving Hospital where she was found to have sustained a possible fracture of one rib, a contusion above the temple and numerous cuts and bruises. In addition to a possible fracture of the jaw.

Mrs. Crossman was unconscious when picked up but in falling had protected the baby. Neighbors who learned of the accident took charge of the baby until Arthur Crossman, an employee of the Los Angeles Creamery Company returned home. Mrs. Crossman will recover.

BETTER THAN EVER.

Standard's Big Fullerton Producer Has Already Yielded Nearly Hundred Thousand Dollars in Oil.

The Standard Oil Company's well on the Emery ranch in Fullerton field has now produced about $90,000 worth of oil. The well has averaged about 10,000 barrels a day since it came in, some ten days ago, and has, consequently, already yielded about 100,000 barrels.

Last week on certain days its output ran over the 10,000-barrel figure. Thursday, for instance, the production was figured at 13,000 barrels. Toward the end of the week the output appeared to be increasing. This has been the case with several of the older Emery wells.

The month of November promises to record another heavy over-production of oil in the State, as the Standard has also rehabilitated gushers Nos. 6 and 10 on the McNee lease. They were, at latest advices, yielding an aggregate of 15,000 barrels a day. The Standard Oil Company's total production in the State is now close to 60,000 barrels a day, or considerably more than one-fifth of the entire output of California.

The company is drilling several more wells on the Emery lease. On an adjoining lease, the Murphy Oil Company about a week ago, brought in a 1500-barrel producer. This well offsets one of the older wells on the Emery lease, which are a mile and a half to two miles distant from No. 7, the big gusher.

Oil men express the belief that the territory on which the Emery lease is located is the best so far discovered in the State. The oil is very high gravity, and every well which the Standard has brought in, and nearly all which the Murphy has finished, have been of the gusher type.

AUTO HURLS THEM ONE HUNDRED TWENTY FEET

WHILE speeding in an automobile at the rate of over a mile a minute from Imperial to El Centro early yesterday morning, W. J. Duggan, a clothing salesman in El Centro, said to be from Los Angeles, was instantly killed and G. B. Kelly, W. J. Moore and A. J. Sparr seriously injured, when the auto hit a bridge over the irrigation canal.

It was also reported that T. Delaney, a Los Angeles newspaper man, was killed, but later reports and investigation at newspaper offices tend to show this is erroneous. The name of W. J. Duggan, clothing salesman, is in neither the telephone or city directories.

The car was owned by Kelly and was driven by Fred Wallace. In the front seat with him was E. C. Keene. The four men in the rear were catapulted 120 feet through the air. Wallace and Keene escaped with nearly a half-mile before they came and noticed their companions missing. They became of turning to the scene of the and took the men and carried them Thomas Hospital.

Duggan's skull had been crushed and death was practically instantaneous. Sparr was found to have internal injuries were also found to be suffering from inquest was held over the body of Duggan and Keene before the Coroner struck a hole before the bridge and the automobile was secured their liberty.

ELL'S COMING SURE AND SOON.

In Figment or Figure, Says Fiery Kentuckian.

Who Love No Bar to It, Evangelist's Dictum.

Topic of Interest Discussed in Many Pulpits.

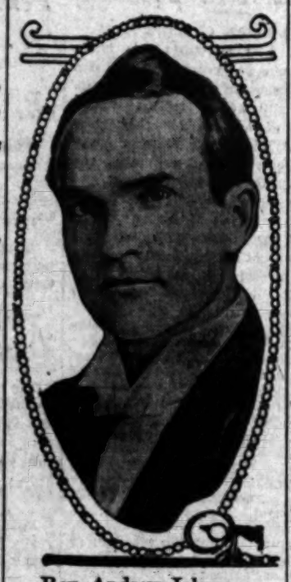
A specialist, not of velvet, was seen into the face of some teacher of a so-called modern theology by Rev. Andrew Johnson, Kentucky evangelist, with his flat-footed declaration last night to the congregation of the First Church of the Nazarene that eternal punishment is no figment of the imagination or figure of speech, but a stern reality that is coming soon for the transgressor. He hurled out the latter's chief belief here with the statement that a punishment is not incompatible with the theory of a great divine and merciful.

Johnson said that a fair and unbiased examination of the Scriptures warranted the conclusion that there is sure and final punishment reserved for all who live in the willful practice of sin and die in a state of impenitence," he said. "As a moral and intelligent being, man is amenable to his Maker and is judged at the great accounting to his works and either be awarded eternal life or banished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord. Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.

"As moral Governor of the universe a penalty to the violation of His laws. The very integrity of the divine government demands that all law breakers shall be punished. Hell, we may say then, is the great penitentiary of the universe where moral criminals and sinners are incarcerated for the full sentence of eternity. Sin has piled its symbols high south of hell to warn the world away. The New Thought cults and false theories of Universalism, Annihilationism, Russellism, Universalism, Christian Science may affirm that God, the loving Father, is too good to send His children to the bottomless pit of a vehement hell. These false theological dogmas, however, fail to change the fact that all are not children in the spiritual sense of the word. We are not God's children in the lofty and Scriptural sense of the term unless we have been born again.

"The common objection against the punishment that God is too merciful to be easily invalidated. Mercy can't save. If it could the love of mother would save the sinful son and the erring daughter. The fundamental tenet of divine justice and eternal punishment rests out in the clear light of reason, philosophy, revelation and experience is far from cruelty or mercy. The accumulated sins of a life time, the consequence of evil choice, the crystallization of sinful character, the stings of an awakened conscience, the ghosts of misspent opportunities, the loss of eternal bliss, bitter remorse and woe will constitute the punishment hereafter.

"There is but one avenue of escape from the impending doom: there is but one name under heaven whereby we must be saved and that is the name of Christ Jesus."



Rev. Andrew Johnson,

The Kentucky evangelist, who told his congregation in this city last night that there is a real hell and that it is coming, sure.

REV. LEON TUCKER.
FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.
"CHILDREN OF GOD THROUGH CHRIST AND NOT BY LAW.

The First Baptist Church the pastor, Rev. W. Leon Tucker, spoke this morning on "The Purpose of the Law and the Power of the Gospel," which he said in part:

"The great dispensations are represented in John 1:17—the contrast of law and grace. The greatest of Old Testament men, the head of one, and Christ, the incomparable One, the Lamb of the other. The book of Hebrews characterizes these two dispensations as follows: The law is a ministration of servitude and slavery, a schoolmaster, the dispensation of shadows, is the place of fatherhood.

"Under the Jewish law of ten commandments or its law of ceremonies there was no power to save anybody. It was a ministration by the law. All the law can do is to bring a knowledge of sin: it has no power to impart salvation; it is powerless to deliver the spirit that is under condemnation and would be free if it knew anything about liberation.

"The law is called a schoolmaster, but I do not mean what that word usually means. This was not a severe or unfeeling schoolmaster as masters usually are, but one, a slave perhaps, who was sent to take the children to school, having strict supervision, using the rod freely when necessary, keeping them in order, holding them sternly to their studies and in fact treating them in slavery. This supervision continued until they reached the age of the child's home. Here the slavery ceased, for they were received into their father's house as sons. Then they came to their majority and received legal release from all tutors, never again to return. Thus we have a wonderful picture of the province of the law. It was to control the sinner until the regenerating Spirit of God he is made a child of God by a transaction which is effected legally in His sight, the sinner is liberated.

"The children of God by faith in Christ, not by the works of the law, but not by works of law, is Christ. When that faith became of age the schoolmaster was always beating him and chasing on that day. There is no longer under his tutelage, the sinner in Christ is free from the law's claims.

"Under the law, O happy condition, there is remission: the sinner is forgiven and bruised by the law, but is welcomed as one for all.'

"The Christian is free from the law, not lawless. He is under an outward law restraining by an inward law of love. The old law of sin and death could not get at him. The law is within and without. This new law is the law of life in Christ Jesus, which made us free from the law of sin and death. The new law works only in those who are in Christ Jesus, upon whom there is no condemnation. Faith in Christ permits us to sit in the Father's house and there is no entrance into the family apart from faith in Christ.

"The Fatherhood of God the Bible talks about is on the basis of the regenerating work of the Holy Ghost."

REV. W. L. Y. DAVIS.
WEST ADAMS M. E. CHURCH.
A PASTOR'S ADVICE TO GIRLS; HOW TO LIVE AND WHO TO LIVE WITH.

"My Girl" was the subject of the second sermon in the series on "Home Folks" preached at the West Adams Methodist Episcopal Church last evening by Rev. W. L. Y. Davis. He said in part:

"Girls, be as intelligent as your brothers. Learn as much as they about bugs and atoms and dialectics, and then with your universally-recognized ability for talking, you will succeed.

"Learn to play the piano—some! Learn to play the piano, so that in the eventide you can draw the family circle inward; but when the basket of socks is not darned, then do not play the piano.

"If your mother is out in the kitchen washing dishes, then do not play the piano. Your mother may be foolish enough to permit it, but remember that no young man ever likes to hear piano music in the parlor by the daughter with a knife and fork accompaniment on the dish pan for a drum in the kitchen by the mother.

"Learn some French; but do not learn so much French that you cannot talk English in America afterward. Learn some botany, at least enough so you will know how to skin a potato in the kitchen. Learn to sew. That needle has an eye that is never shut. I am not sure but what it has done as much execution in the world as the man's sword.

"Keep the dew of purity forever on your life. That is the matchless charm of womanhood. It is like the flour on the moth's wings; it is like the down on the peach's cheek; rub it off and it is gone forever.

"Who raises the high standard for womanhood? The man does that! Who lowers the standard for manhood? The woman does that! If you do not want the double standard, stop it!

"Second-hand girls are in less demand than second-hand clothes. If you want to look as if you had been buried and dug up, just become a second-hand girl.

"Marriage is no joke! I know it is so tangled up with pink ribbons, and old shoe-strings, and cow bells, and coarse remarks, that it is hard to realize on the fact.

"Two young people agree on stars and moonshine and kicking their heels together all night on a waxed floor; but they have never compared ideals. Certainly marriage is a lottery—to them. And they usually draw blanks!

"Think of living with it all the days of your life! Think of kissing it every morning before breakfast. Think of introducing it among all your friends. Every now and then you see a fine, brainy woman coming around with it. She looks inexpressably weary from dragging it around. Even if it does have a diamond set in it, do not marry a pin-head!

"And I have seen some brainy men coming around with it, too.

"Do not marry for position. Do not marry a chair at the head of any table. Never marry anything you can sit on. What do you want with a mahogany husband?

"Do not marry just a dress suit, either. They come cheaper over at the tailors, and you do not have to take what is in them.

"Never marry a man to reform him. Except Divine power save a man, you had better not take the contract.

"Piety is essential in a girl. An irreligious woman is a monster. The roughest, coarsest man demands that a woman be spirituelle. A man may not be an angel himself, but he wants his wife and daughter to be. And what he wants them to be is what he really believes in, and what he would be himself, were he stronger!

DR. SHAW.
IMMANUEL PRESBYTERIAN.
CHRIST WAS NO IDEALIST BECAUSE THERE WAS NOTHING HIGHER FOR HIM TO LOOK TO.

Dr. John Balcom Shaw preached yesterday in Immanuel Presbyterian Church, choosing for his theme in the morning "The Man Without an Ideal," taking for his text St. John VIII:29.

Among other things he said:

"The man without an ideal' is the way a distinguished preacher recently characterized Jesus. At first the statement startled me. I found myself resenting such an idea. But I had learned to respect the man who gave utterance to it, and did not dismiss it peremptorily, but took it under advisement, with this result, that I came fully and heartily to agree with him. And this was the process that led me to his position: What is an ideal? Two things: First it is a standard. In this case a standard of character or action, to which one aspires and which he seeks to attain; and, again, by ideal we may mean the opposite of the real—that which we admire and desire but which we have not realized. Jesus could not, did not have ideals in either of these respects. His character and conduct were perfect. There was nothing higher or better for Him to attain to. He did not look up to any one; all must look up to Him. He was Himself the final standard. His word to all was 'follow Me.'

"This, I am aware, claims for Him entire holiness. It puts Him in a class by Himself; it gives Him a name above every name; and if we can justify that classification, it gives Him the throne and makes Him indisputably divine. Can that position be held? I believe it can. There are three proofs of the sinlessness, the perfectness of Jesus.

"First—His own self-consciousness. Godet once said that Christ was His own best witness. What He believed Himself to be, was conscious of being, goes a long way to establish His divinity. He was never conscious of sin. 'The prince of this world cometh and findeth nothing in me.' 'Which of you convicteth me of sin?' 'I do always the things that please Him.' No one else who was sane ever held such a clear, positive consciousness of innocence.

"Second—The record He left behind Him attests this claim. His biography is faultless. There is nothing in it we would change. No one can improve upon that life. The Norsemen called Him 'the White Christ.' Sidney Lanier defined Him 'the crystal Christ.'

"Third—The impression He made upon His associates and contemporaries. He ate, slept, traveled, lived daily with the twelve. What did they think of Him. John said of Him: 'He was manifest to take away our sin and in His is no sin.' Peter's estimate was, 'He did no sin neither was guile found in His mouth.' The author of the Hebrews affirms, 'Who was tempted in all, points like as we are, yet without sin.' And all of them were constrained to worship Him. Blessed be God, though the church is made up of weak, erring men, its founder, leader and head was perfectly holy.

"What a character, therefore, have we to set before the world. What a gospel to preach. What a salvation to offer. What a confidence to cherish. What a victory to anticipate."

DR. CARTER.
A POSITIVE CHRIST LIFE IS THE BEST SAFEGUARD FOR OUR YOUTH OF TODAY.

"The Young Man's Birthright" was the topic of the sermon of Dr. C. M. Carter at the First Baptist Church last evening. This sermon was particularly to young men. He said in part:

"Every young man has a born right to health of body and freedom of soul. Only misfortune or sin can rob him of these. The Declaration of Independence says that every man has the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness,' but no error is more misleading than 'the pursuit of happiness.' The one who pursues happiness never finds her, never catches up with her; happiness is the most heartless flirt that the world knows. Pursue her and she ever eludes you; ignore her and she walks by your side.

"But every young man should earnestly desire health of body and freedom of soul. The Bible says, 'Stand fast in the liberty wfth which Christ hath made you free.' Health of body and liberty of soul belong to the one who follows the teachings of the word of God.

"Physical ill health and soul slavery are the lot of too many young men today. Satan binds his captives today. The lines of attack which satan follows upon the young men today are many. One is gambling. No more fatal fascination than in gambling in its various forms; the gambler is a slave. Intemperance is another weakness that destroys health of body and enslaves the soul. Sensuality is another fearful master of too many young men. One-seventh of the people in the United States are tainted by the diseases of sin, and one-fourth of the people in France. Nature afflicts a frightful penalty upon those who violate her laws of purity and self-control. There are probably 100,000 people in the city of Los Angeles today who are suffering either from their own guilt or the guilt of others from diseases that have been the results of sinful indulgence. And these sins not only destroy the health, but wretchedly affect the mind and soul.

"Never has parental watchfulness been more needed than today. The father who does not enforce obedience on the part of his children by his own strength of character and moral uprightness will pay the price.

"A positive Christ life is the surest safeguard for the young man today. It is a supreme error to suppose that religion hinders the highest success. 'Blessed are the meek for they shall inherit the earth' is a law of business as well as the spiritual life. The business man whose great purpose is to serve humanity through his business is following the law of his highest nature and the surest earthly success.

"Every young man who develops low ideals has failed. Every young man who develops within almself an earnest soul, unselfish character, and the love of his fellowman, has made a pronounced success. Real success is not measured by money, but the chances are largely in favor that the young man who develops within himself the very noblest nature will also win a fair proportion of the things of this world. Self-respect is one of the world's greatest treasures, and the young man has succeeded who has won his own self-respect. And this will be by living the best life for the good of man and to the glory of God. This is the life that Jesus offers to every one. The freest life in the world is the one that is surrendered to God."

REV. W. E. TILROE.
BOYLE HEIGHTS M. E. CHURCH.
THE HOUSE IS MAN'S CASTLE, HIS TEMPLE OF FAITH AND HIS HOME.

"Hats Off" was the subject of Dr. Tilroe's sermon at the Boyle Heights Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday. He said in part:

"Jesus says His people are not to talk down to the world. They are to talk up. Real ministry is bareheaded. Here is the temptation of organic greatness, of a religion endowed, of a long record, of rank and standing among men. They make it so easy to talk down. Maybe that is why the King delays His coming. They who should know better have not learned to talk up. 'Hats off' has been a hard lesson.

"Of course, the house is not the house. The man who says he reads his Bible just as it is written takes a big contract. Lumber, and brick, and mortar, and nails, are small affairs. The house is what the house holds. We have been right wise for once and actually named that wondrous thing, the household. Jesus says it is worth while and I am to salute it. There is that in every house which says, 'hats off.'

"Every house stands for humanity. We call it a castle, for it holds a king. He may be yellow or black or brown or white or washed out or faded, but being a man is of royal blood. At the lowliest he is immeasurably beyond any brute, he is master of all physical things, he is immortal, he is made in the image of God, he may be worthy to judge angels by and by, the only comparison for him is to say, with the scriptures, he is a little lower than God. The glory of our modern age is that it sees the quick and certain insurrection of man. Up from the grave of slavery, of feudalism, of industrial competition, of war, of drunkenness and lust, of ignorance and poverty, and of the rule of Kings, he is coming to his own. The empire of the earth is at the bidding of this common man. Long centuries ago Jesus of Nazareth saw the gleam of its rising and bade us give glad welcome. That a man is about is quite enough to call us to uncover.

"Every house holds a home. 'There is no place like home.' The hermit is an abnormality and is generally insane. Monasticism was at once a farce and a tragedy. The evil of the amusement rage is its assassination of the home. That the saloon, the bawdy house are always at the throat of the home is enough for their final and inevitable undoing. Every house is a recognition of God with whom it was wisdom that no man should be alone. It should be 'hats off' wherever the home is sacred.

"Every house holds a particular privilege. Just at this time the preachers were to go only to Jews. Later Samaritans and Gentiles also were included. Always every house stands for something of its own. It shuts itself in and also shuts the world out. And both are well. God does things for families, and tribes, and nations, and races, and places, and times that he does for no other. The planet is poorer by every neglected house. Should no mute inglorious Milton be buried in it some possible immortal companion of the Great God is surely there. 'Hats off,' at every door.

"Every house holds a great hope. The dreams of wealth and power and delight are often vastly worthy, but beyond them all is the near vision of eternal life. If the peace of God shall enter it is priceless. They that turn many to righteousness shall shine as the stars forever and ever.' Beyond all glory of purple and gold Paul wishes the King and all his court might be as he was, except his bonds. A mighty destiny may be inside the lintel and the wise stand open to the air.

"Every house holds a terrible fear. If it be unworthy the peace of God will pass it by. If it shall not receive the bright angel of good words, a day is coming when it shall be better for the land of Sodom. Opportunity is a creature of ready wing. The flight of opportunity is doom. The very dust of its feet is pearl and diamonds. It is a solemn thing to stand alone. Perhaps that man must choose, is his highest function. At the parting of the ways we linger in reverence. There is so much beyond. Hats off."

DEAN M'CORMACK.
ST. PAUL'S PRO-CATHEDRAL.
THE ETERNAL GOD IS A DWELLING PLACE THAT IS BUILDED ON ROCK.

At St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral yesterday, Dean MacCormack preached on the text, Dueteronomy XXXIII:27 "The eternal God is thy dwelling place and underneath are the everlasting arms." He said in part:

"The speaker is not repeating, parrot-fashion, what some one else has said. He is not attempting to bind upon the hearts or consciences of his readers, a truth that he had discovered in the pages of some sacred and ancient literature. He could say without the slightest fear of contradiction, the eternal God is my dwelling place, because that, experimentally, had been burned in upon his soul and had become a settled conviction of his life. What a wealth of meaning and suggestion there is in that word 'dwelling place.' Amid the shifting and uncertain conditions that beset God's ancient people, nothing was permanent and stable.

"Always, everywhere, if they but view it, the eternal God was their dwelling place that meant that their abiding place was a permanent and substantial thing. A house, if you please, founded upon a rock. And though the winds might blow and the floods come and the rain descend and beat upon it, yet it would stand, because it was founded upon a rock. The eternal God is thy dwelling place. Hebrew poetry has a characteristic which, so far as I know, is not found in the literature of any other people. The peculiarity is this, that the thought of the writer, invariably, is presented in couplets and the last line, without exception, reproduces the idea of the first. Our text is as good an illustration of this fact as any that we can find.

"It begins with the statement, 'the eternal God is thy dwelling place,' and that thought is duplicated in the line which immediately follows. 'And underneath are the everlasting arms.' Of course, the last is not quite the same as the first. It seems to have taken the suggestion of the first, and to have carried on upwards, on the road to perfection.

"In the first the speaker seems to rest his hopes for earthly satisfaction, upon an institution and a principle. But men have found out by experience that these things have serious limitation. When they have done their best they leave you with the feeling that there is something lacking. The second line bids us come for the satisfaction of our sorrows, to a person. It is in this that the writer rises to the highest points of genius, and inspiration. He bids us lift our eyes, not to some cold embodiment of comfort enshrined in a principle, but come, with all our difficulties to a person, for underneath are the everlasting arms."

FIRST UNITED BRITHREN.
A CURE FOR OUR SOCIAL DISEASE IS THE CRYING NEED OF A MODERN DAY.

"Jesus Christ's Prescription for Social Health," was the theme of the sermon at the First United Brethren Church by Dr. John Albert Eby. His text was taken from Matt. V: 27-32, the sermon being the fifth in a series on the Sermon on the Mount. He said in part:

"The purity of our external relations depend upon our own personal freedom from spiritual disease of the heart. Therefore, any attempt to cure the present terrible epidemic of social impurities must be aimed at the seat of the disease. All other methods and prescriptions are but treating the symptoms with no hope of final social health.

"Social purity among the Hebrews of the time of Jesus Christ was much more marked than among us in this latter day. And yet, Jesus rebuked them severely for violations of the social code of morals, which He proclaimed. The conditions today are simply frightful. No wonder the question is the biggest one before our country, and all the world today. Reformers, educators, parents, police authorities, doctors, ministers, employers, politicians, and the great public are tremendously moved by the situation as it actually exists in our very midst. All other vices are tame as compared with this ravening wolf that destroys his hundreds, while drunkenness and other vices are destroying their tens. The social vice is the most subtle and deadly sin of our time. Other sins pale into insignificance when this monster lifts his head. If this race fails in the tests of the twentieth century, it will fall because it has refused to keep the natural and divine commission for social purity. The whole social fabric is rotten to the very core. Not because every man and every woman is polluted, but because the rising tide of social pollution has engulfed us until none can escape its blighting effects. The disregard of the ordinary demands of personal decency make it dangerous for a person to enter any of the social relations which are so fundamental to the future welfare of the race and the comfort and happiness of the present generation. The percentage of impure young men and women is appalling to those who are in a position to know.

"Jesus taught that these most sacred relationships were of the heart and therefore spiritual. Education, physical science, and ordinary caution from fear of physical contamination will not reach the result. The mind must be pure. The soul must be a sacred shrine. The social contracts must be more than civil. Marriage is in some sense a holy sacrament. God and nature and experience have marvelously proven it to be so. When this sacred relation becomes no more than the legal agreement that two parties will live together, under certain conditions and certain mutual promises, all more or less superficial, then marital chaos and social delinquency will be rampant, as it is becoming in our day. Marriage demands the heart. Marriage demands a religious foundation. When marriage is entered into with no sense of divine change from twain to one flesh, when the religious character of the marriage contract is tabooed, then we have opened the floodgate of social chaos and immorality that will prove a veritable scourge to society. Irregularity and deformity here are to be dreaded more than any physical deformity that could befall one. The gouging out of eyes, or the cutting off of arms are as mere trifles as compared with violating these sacred and divine responsibilities.

"We must make our youth to respect the divinity of social instincts. The sex relations are sacred and only the vile and uncouth will prostitute these holy prerogatives of boys and girls, men and women. A young man should be taught from his babyhood to respect the purity and absolute virtue of the young woman. Any one but a fool will be impressed with the holy character of these divine commands for self control and unstained purity in our sex life. The teaching of sex hygiene may be a good thing under proper conditions in our public schools, parents may help much by proper teaching and caution, but it will all fail of the point if the religious and heavenly character of these earthly relations is not emphasized. Human, physical purity in the sex relations, is impossible except with this notion of the authority of the Creater to prescribe the laws governing the exercise of the sex powers."

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH.
THE MESSAGE TO MEN WHO FAIL IS TO TRY AGAIN AND TRY HARDER.

At the First Christian Church yesterday, Rev. Russell F. Thrapp delivered a "Message to Men Who Fail." He spoke from Luke, chapter five, verse four: "Launch out into the deep and let down your nets." He said:

"This is a vivid picture. Jesus preaching to a great multitude from a boat rocking gently near the shore of the Sea of Galilee. Men pressed upon him to hear and to be healed. Peter and Andrew listen intently to the sermon. They had fished all the night before and caught nothing. They are discouraged. The text was addressed to them. To the men who toil and suffer failure and defeat through no fault of their own. Many such there are today who fall out of the race, unable any longer to keep step with the feverish pace of the multitude. May this message fortify you against whatever fortunes tomorrow may bring.

"Notice the dangers that threaten men who fail. It dimmed their vision. The bay was full of fishes and they saw them not. Last night's failure discouraged them and dulled their perceptions. Failure blurs the vision. Opportunities pass by in shoals and we never see them.

"It made them doubt the value of their occupation. Better go at something else, was their thought. What is the use trying longer. Elijah thought the same and was ready to give up. The work yonder seems without difficulty. But close range will show as many weak places as in our own occupation.

"It warped their judgment. They clean nets when they should be catching fish. Their failure impels them to do the wrong thing. We idle away time in dreaming of better days that never come, while past our door sweeps on the stream of privileges.

"It dissipated tomorrow's hope. We toiled all night and caught nothing. Why go now? The memory of yesterday's defeat takes all the iron out of the blood, and strength out of the hand. Do not handicap yourself with memories of a past, gone forever.

"'Launch out and let down your net,' said Jesus. Translated into the language of the day, this means 'Try again and try harder.' History and individual experiences teach that empires were won after defeat. Discouraged men, try again in the same place! The place of failure can be the ground of victory. Say not that yonder task is better fitted for your effort and more suited to your ability. Your richest harvests lie nearest. Failure can be retrieved. Best of all, sin can be forgiven and a new life begun."

DR. LOCKE.
FIRST METHODIST CHURCH.
HONEST LAWYERS SHOULD NOT DEFEND GUILTY PERSONS OR INSTIGATE LITIGATION.

Dr. Charles Edward Locke, at the First Methodist Episcopal Church last evening, preached on the subject, "The Best Lawyers in Los Angeles. Is It Right to go to Law? Is the Jury Trial Fair and Just? Can a Man Be a Successful Lawyer and Be Strictly Honest? Is It Right for a Lawyer to Defend a Client Whom He Knows to Be Guilty?" His text was: "Go, and do thou likewise." Luke x:37.

Dr. Locke said in part:

"The root idea of law is that which is fixed and set. It is 'a rule of action prescribed by authority.' 'Laws' are, therefore, 'rules of conduct which we are morally bound to obey.' The beginnings of law are found in habits and customs.

"Is the present jury-trial system a success or failure?

"The objection to the jury as now constituted is that 'the law allows only fools who have no opinions to be jurors;' that men are entrusted with the most sacred decisions which involve human life and personal character, who often have not initiative enough to read the papers and to familiarize themselves with the chief matters of interest. The most competent men are able to avoid jury responsibilities, and a certain class of hangers-around virtually beg the court for the privilege of acting as jurors, who have no fitness for such sacred responsibilities.

"It seems to us, however, that the root principle of a trial by jury is correct and that if wisely administered it is a great safeguard of personal rights. The system needs to be promptly corrected of all its abuses. The most intelligent men should be called to this responsible task, and the so-called 'criminal lawyer' should be peremptorily eliminated.

"Some lawyers have a reputation for winning their cases whether their clients be guilty or innocent, because of their hypnotic ability. They are expert actors, and, with ignoble skill can unduly influence the judgment of jurors by an appeal chiefly to their feelings.

"The purpose of the trial by jury is not to defeat the ends of justice; and, yet, under the present system many lawyers, for a good fee will knowingly seek to prejudice a jury in favor of their guilty client, and secure his immunity and freedom when he should be promptly and drastically punished.

"I think we should retain the jury trial if it is possible to divest it of many of these abuses, which have grown up about it, and which make it today in many cases a tragical travesty of justice.

"In all criminal trials the fees paid to lawyers should be a stipulated amount made public to the world as campaign expenses are now exhibited. This would eliminate the danger of unduly affecting the mind of the lawyer himself. The possibility of a large fee might have the effect of unwittingly bribing even the lawyer.

"The profession of the law is as sacred as the profession of the gospel—the law and the gospel are of divine origin. A dishonest lawyer is, therefore, a hideous contradiction. A dishonest man cannot be a good lawyer—he is a culprit and criminal; and a lawyer by virtue of his vows and his responsibilities cannot be hypocritical and unprincipled.

"Of course, a good lawyer will not seek immunity for a guilty client. The law allows to every accused man a legal representative, but when such an attorney carries his representation into a zealous defense of the man whom he knows to be guilty, then that lawyer becomes particeps criminis with the guilty man whom he is seeking to shield, and the goddess of justice is villainously betrayed by one who has sworn to gallantly protect her spotless skirts from defilement.

"Is it right for people to go to law with each other?

"No, only as a last resort. Nearly all differences can be amicably settled by men who have accepted highest Christian ideals without resorting to the courts. The best lawyers today are busy trying to adjust the differences of their clients, and a lawyer should have a larger fee for keeping us out of the courts than for encouraging long and bitter and expensive litigation."

How Some Wages Are Raised.

[Mobile Register:] Systematic agitation and publicity are sure antidotes for conditions of evil. A report of the "Vice Commission" of the Illinois Legislature, which first showed the conditions of working girls and the beggarly wages they receive, states that as a result of the investigation the wages of 100,000 girls have been increased in seven States, and thirty-four States have taken immediate steps toward bettering the working conditions of female help.

HER HONORABLE INTENTIONS.

Mrs. Pankhurst declares the policy of the English militants is to kill the Liberal party. If that is all Great Britain may rest easier in its mind. The general impression had been that the ladies intended to kill all of the Liberals.

DANGEROUS.

Now that a man has been fined for looking at a pretty ankle through a slit skirt, men will please walk the streets with their eyes shut, or else use blind bridles. There is positively no other way, under modern styles, of keeping out of jail.

A BITTER TONGUE.

Some persons would think that former President Taft is growing cynical, pessimistic and vitriolic. Nothing of the sort. When he remarked that Sulzer and Thaw would make a great ticket for the Progressives in their next national campaign he was simply demonstrating that a man may be fat and still possess a sense of humor.

A BIG ADVANTAGE.

The real estate board of Riverside county will open offices in Los Angeles with the hope of diverting their share of the tourist business to that interesting section. This city, as the capital of the south, offers neighboring counties a choice field for such enterprise and they are heartily welcome to send us their boosting agents. There is business enough for all of us and when one county will not suit a visitor he may find exactly what he wants in another.

A RARE ARTIST.

Frank La Forge did not need his last visit to this city to establish his reputation with music lovers of Los Angeles. For many years he has been recognized as the most sympathetic of accompanists. Last year he came with Sembrich and this year with Alda. In his own compositions he was delightful, especially as many of these were played here for the first time. Only a genius for accompaniment could follow a great singer with the intimacy of La Forge's touch.

CLEARING THE ATMOSPHERE.

Vincent Astor has picked a winner. Her mamma advises it, and when a woman finally consents to be the mother-in-law of so many millions she is likely to stick to the bargain. It is good to have this young man settled for life. It removes him as the objective point of many maidens and gives the other fellows a chance. The New York matrimonial market has been at a standstill ever since Vincent became the greatest catch of his city. Now that he is safely mortgaged the stock of other eligibles may be expected to advance.

CAESAR'S MATINEE.

J. Caesar seems to be popular with Los Angeles women. Every seat for Faversham's Thursday matinee was sold in advance. This is a great Shakespeare city. It has been claimed for Los Angeles that it contains more qualified students of the great English playwright than any other city in the world. It also numbers many high authorities on this subject. These students are largely among women, which accounts for the popularity of such matinees when the evening performances are often slighted. Such men as Dobinson and such women as Mrs. Galpin leave a permanent influence upon a city.

OUR AUDIENCES.

The Woman's Orchestra of Los Angeles, under the management of L. E. Behymer, and with Henry Schoenefeld as its new conductor, will give three concerts in the near future, in addition to one which is to take place at the Gamut Club auditorium Thursday evening of this week. For this purpose thirty citizens have given them a deficit guarantee of $1500, and an equal obligation has been assume by Mr. Behymer. We do not blame the organization, which is now entering its twenty-second season, for endeavoring to protect itself against actual loss. Long experience has demonstrated that the best musical attraction possible can hardly hope for an even break in its expenses here, and it is quite enough that these young women should give their time for the weekly rehearsals the whole year through, without making their concerts cost them money.

A CHANCE ACQUAINTANCE.

A gentleman in this city is much perturbed because a lady who claims to be his deserted wife is looking for him with a particularly large gun of cruel bore. Killing people is not always the best way of settling up, but it takes a dose almost as definite as death to even up some scores between husbands and wives. It would be a shocking thing if all the married people in the world told each other the exact truth for a few weeks. Not so many homes would survive the test, but those that did and that stuck to it afterward would be like little patches of heaven. Once in a while husbands and wives really get acquainted as if by accident. The least thing may let down the windows of the soul and they look at each other in amazement. Sometimes what they see brings them new gladness. They may never speak it again, but they will never forget. At other times the revelation hurts the heart like a great sickness and they set about with silence and soft steps in cure of love's wounds. Thus it happens that sight means an enriched life, even though it come with a great price.

PRISONS, SCHOOLS OF CRIME.

Each man and each woman is a potential lawbreaker. Under the tremendous pressure of circumstances the most honest and conscientious may commit some act that is written on the statute books as criminal. Hundreds of persons are going to prison every day for doing exactly what you and I would have done had we been in their position, and they are no more "natural criminals" than you and I would be if in a moment of terrific anger, of artful temptation, of somber despondency, we had impulsively broken a law. The act of a moment should not wreck the prospects of a life.

"Not one out of each hundred persons who, after a verdict or a plea of guilty, first stand before the bar of justice to hear judgment pronounced upon them, is at heart a criminal." Such was the startling statement made by Attorney Walter C. Fisher in an able, burning article on our State prisons appearing in The Times on Sunday morning. But far more startling, and far more to our shame for tolerating a penal system that we know to be not only inefficient but cancerously corrupting, was Mr. Fisher's vivid presentation of the manner in which we drive those who are not criminals at heart to be schooled in crime by the degenerates, the perverts and professional villains of our State prisons—criminals who, in all probability, learned to despise the law and perfect their noxious skill in other prisons and jails where they had been hurled, with never an opportunity to make men out of themselves.

A young man sorely in need of funds steals a small sum. He has been law-abiding up until that time. He was weak for a moment—and was caught. How many men have grown to manhood without stealing something? A few. The young man is arrested, branded before the world, before his friends and family as a thief, sent to the penitentiary. Why? So he won't be able to steal during the term of his imprisonment? Not so; he is sent there for punishment—to strike fear into his heart, the same as men were flogged and beaten for stealing in other days. For one hour he was a thief. As a result he is thrown into a walled and guarded den of hardened criminals who treat murder flippantly; who imprecate the law and society; who boast of their crimes; who inflame the young man, from whom the law has taken self-respect, to hatred; who teach him the art of crime; who initiate him into the secrets of the underworld. The young man does his "time." He goes out a marked man, wearing a convict's suit. He knows the obloquy of shame is upon him and of all the thoughts in the world that of reformation is furthest from his mind. He is now a criminal, a graduate from our great educational institution where crime is scientifically taught by the greatest criminals in captivity. The result is that the State has to reckon with a desperate, skilled, cunning man, who counts no costs and holds society as his lawful prey. He gambles his liberty against what he can take by force or thievery.

When the police discover one of those creatures that the newspapers call a "Fagin" running a school for crime outside of the prison there is a great sensation. Apparently the law objects to competition in schools for crime. The police, the courts and all the others connected with our punitive system hurl men indiscriminately, for the violation of certain prescribed offenses, into prison where the most adept Fagins in existence are the tutors—and then the police, the courts and all the rest of us wonder why crime does not decrease.

The average man who commits a crime has no knowledge of his responsibility to the State. He only knows that it is "against the law" to do certain things. He has never been taught that those things are prohibited because if they were allowed this thin and ragged fabric we call society would go to pieces; that he is a part of that society; that those laws protect him from the depredations of others, and that it is only by exacting a strict observance from all that the peace of society can be maintained.

Society, on the other hand, makes no noticeable differentiation between criminals. Anyone who fractures a Legislature-made law has to face a Legislature-made punishment. Most of those punishments demand imprisonment. In prison the culprit is treated like a wild animal, watched over with loaded weapons, made to believe that he is a dangerous creature, locked up with the vilest men that a vile penal system can manufacture, made to eat, sleep, work and talk with such men. Outside of penitentiaries we recognize that environment plays an inevitable part in shaping a man's thoughts and character. Inside the penitentiary such knowledge is disregarded.

If the State of California were deliberately trying to manufacture criminals it would maintain Folsom and San Quentin on much the same principle and operate them in practically the same way as it now does. The State would gather the most desperate and skilled law-breakers and confine with them young men and older man who, in a moment of weakness, had shown themselves capable of committing a crime. Facing such a condition we have no cause to wonder why crime does not more consistently decrease.

The Original In-Come Tax.

THE EUROPEAN PRESS ON MEXICO

The attitude of the London press with respect to President Wilson and the Mexican situation, while distinctly friendly to the United States, is not altogether free from caustic though courteous criticism of the President. The Mail says:

"It is characteristic of President Wilson that ennobling the memory of the great Quaker pacificist should have succeeded in making him reveal his thoughts.

"President Wilson is an idealist whose singular sincerity, honesty of purpose and loftiness of mind command respect for the doctrine he proclaims, but British foreign policy is usually guided rather by practical considerations.

"Our interest in Mexico is the interest of the peaceful trader. We have recognized the existing government, which is rather less bloodstained than that, for instance, of Gen. Diaz.

"Public opinion in Europe, for which the President's doctrine possesses only an academic interest, recognizes the high ideals from which it is derived, but it is to be feared that the moral indignation of a section of the American press against Huerta's 'bloodstained dictatorship' springs from the same source as those which inspire President Wilson."

The danger in the Mexican situation is that which is always found where idealism mingles with politics. Idealists seem fated to stir up trouble, and their idealism, if only for its transparent honesty, is more deadly in its effect if there are forces behind it which are by no means idealistic, but are only seeking to use it to serve their own earthly ends.

The intimation of the Mail is that those who would expect to profit by a war with Mexico have encouraged and guided the President in refusing recognition to Huerta and demanding his resignation as the course most likely to bring about war.

The London Times positively affirms that no friction has arisen in any direction between the British and American governments over the Mexican situation. On the day after the Mexican election its editorial utterances as transmitted by wireless to the New York Times were as follows:

"We have no sort of political interests in Mexico other than those which we have in any other foreign state in which our financial and commercial interests are large. It is no concern of ours by what men or what party the government is carried on. It does concern us, for the sake of our trade and our capital invested there, that the government should be able and willing to preserve some measure of order and justice and maintain a regular and stable administration. That is the limit of our interest in the internal affairs of the republic. It is nothing to us whether any of the candidates in yesterday's contest, or whether Gen. Carranza of the Constitutionalists, or one of his adherents, be the man who bestows these elementary conditions of peace and public security upon the inhabitants. We did not acknowledge Huerta as acting President from any predilection which we entertain for him, nor does our recognition imply approbation of his method. We acknowledged him simply because he appeared to us to be the de facto acting President; because we thought, in common with most other powers, that recognition would tend to the restoration of orderly government."

In comments made at the time on President Wilson's Strathmore speech The Times, while not questioning the elevation or sincerity of the sentiments with which the President supports his view of the position, questions how far they may be practical politics. It says that it does not believe a government can be established in Mexico in accordance with Anglo-Saxon ideals.

The Berlin press says that Germany does not care whether the President of Mexico is named Huerta, Diaz or Gamboa. She cares only that the President shall be a man of sufficient authority to put an end to the intolerable turmoil that has prevailed there for the past two years and she looks upon President Wilson's policy hitherto as ineffective and unpromising.

The Osservatore Romano, the Vatican organ at Rome, commenting on the Mexican situation, says it is becoming graver daily because, in addition to a possible conflict between Mexico and the United States, there is also a threat of British intervention.

La Discusion, a Havana newspaper, publishes a communication from Emetrio de la Garza, a supposed messenger of President Huerta. De la Garza says:

"The President of the United States, who has done so much harm through his ultra-moral Puritanism, who does not understand the case of Mexico except from the books of his library and the reports of Yankees, and who has besought us to hold these elections, now represents that the United States government will not recognize the man who is designated by the elections to be President."

Whatever the outcome may be, it looks now as if President Wilson had tangled the United States up in Mexican affairs in a way that may unhappily result in war.

A NOTABLE STUDENT GONE.

A great light has passed from among men in the death of Sir Alfred Russell Wallace, the London scientist. He lived to be 91 years of age and was active to the last. For more than half a century he was one of England's rarest scholars and was indefatigable in research.

Perhaps he never wrote anything that appealed more to the imagination than his curious and speculative astronomical work entitled "Man's Place in the Universe." We hardly think the book carries any other weight than the author's name. It appeals to us simply as an amazing theory worth considering as something vastly entertaining, but which could not very well be proven.

It was Wallace's view that the earth is the only planet inhabited and that there is no organic life, as men understand it, on any of the fixed stars. He drew this conclusion from the fact that the earth is central in the zone of the Milky Way, and therefore may be the only orb where the exact escape of hydrogen has permitted the land to appear, where the elements are rightly apportioned for the production of life-sustaining air, and where there is such a thing as a temperate zone of climate. He figured that the universe has its zones as has the world, and that ours is the only world which is well within this temperate zone of all worlds. In an attempt to sustain this theory he offered the fact that there is no oxygen in the sun and that there is some deficiency of vital elements in all meteoric substances. This puts a large responsibility on the shoulders of man and gives him an importance that he does not like to assume, for all of his lordliness and vanity.

No, this reads like a fairy story to us, rather than the mature offering of a man who was the contemporary of Darwin.

Wallace grew slightly pessimistic in his old age, coming to agree with Solomon that many books are a weariness of the flesh. A year ago he remarked that there had been no advance in intellect or morals since the earliest days of Egypt. On this point we may agree without disparaging modern effort. The early Egypt we know was at the climax of a great civilization while our own age is yet comparatively young.

FAKE REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

There should be a law prohibiting real estate agents from offering for sale any lots or lands without authorization in writing from the owner, such authorization to be exhibited to an intending purchaser as a preliminary to any negotiation.

There have been instances of an unscrupulous rascal, claiming to be a real estate agent, offering for sale at a price far below value unimproved lots belonging to absent owners. The purchaser pays the fifty-dollar or one-hundred-dollar deposit required, and the agent executes a contract of sale as "agent" for the record owner—whom he does not know and never saw. Or, in case a contract from the record owner is required by the purchaser, the agent reports that he is out of town, on a trip East, or lives East, and the contract will be obtained as soon as he can be communicated with. In this way a few weeks delay is obtained and the fake agent having in the meantime obtained a few other customers leaves the city for parts unknown with the "deposits" of his victims in his pockets.

THE FALLACY OF EUGENICS.

BY LILLIAN COLLINS.

It's strange how infectious this brainstorm of eugenics has become. All classes of society are shouting the eugenic slogan. People who still adhere to the weekly bath system of hygiene for themselves loudly demand the eugenic scale of measurement for others. And it's often the physical misfits that howl the loudest.

Then there is another queer feature of this eugenic crusade. It seems to be largely a fad for married folks. Is it, I wonder, a sort of safety device for relieving the pressure of matrimonial inharmony?—this infringement upon the rights of others to sting or be stung.

The directing impulse toward this suppression of marriage, high-soundingly designated as "the science of eugenics," emanates from the coldly analytical brains of investigators of physical phenomena. The spirit of their research goes no higher than this, and the qualitative resultant of their effort must demonstrate upon the physical plane of being.

Physical fitness!

Physically fit!

So is the tiger, the wolf, the wild cat; so were most of the aboriginal races of men; so also were the Spartans—"a race of physically perfect but brainless giants," as Dr. Hunter of the Colorado State Board of Health most aptly recalls. It is difficult to understand just how this reversion to a jungle-beast standardization of development can be seriously regarded as an improvement of race.

But then, new problems always take themselves seriously; and eugenics is merely an appanage of the great, absorbing and newest of new problems—marriage.

For quite an appreciable space of time we were accustomed loosely to regard marriage as a sacred institution; now the science of eugenics establishes the relation as a mere physical function for the perpetuation of the human species. Formerly we looked upon physical union without mental or spiritual affinity as unclean; now this new-born science prescribes "physical fitness" as the correct basis for all sex relationship.

In the early days of the race men and women loved and married, reared their families and earned their bread. Marriage wasn't a problem at all. It was simply—marriage; a state toward which wholesome, healthy girls advanced and found their life-work; a condition of responsibility for which young men prepared themselves through all the sturdy years of boyhood.

Strangely enough, this haphazard method of mating brought the race to a rather high level of attainment, and made possible the existence of these same scientific race-makers, who are now striving to restrict marriage to a close corporation, themselves constituting the governing board.

But the race was young then. In those wholesome days of mutual responsibility, girls did not expect to be supported in idleness, nor had men then begun to scheme merely for a living. Marriage was not regarded as a sociological problem at that stage of race development. Marriage was a simple, natural relation and amazingly uniform in the normal happiness it engendered.

From this it would seem that a little wholesome physical labor might be the most natural corrective for this hysterical agitation over a supposititious race degeneracy.

Eugenics. Well born.

As a matter of fact, the average child is born into the world with a fairly complete physical equipment for the station in life to which its environment relates it.

It is the uses to which these physical and mental energies are put in later life that determines the individual's position in the social body, and establishes the degree of his usefulness in race propagation.

The majority of the ills of life, even those of a bodily character, are not necessarily due to birth handicaps. Most of them do not have a strictly physical origin, but rise rather from temperamental tendencies and social conditions—a matter of viewpoint and relation to environment.

The chances are greatly in favor of the belief that even those degraded creatures who transmit unspeakable diseases to their innocent offspring, were not themselves victims of like degeneracy. It is safe to assume that the majority of even these were born into this life clean, untainted by the vileness that in later years became the inheritance of their own vicious lives.

It is purely a matter of individual volition. Advancement in the human species cannot be regulated after the order of animal life.

Even the well-born, high-bred race horse would not repeat and perpetuate his high strain if unrestricted liberty enticed to promiscuity of association. He cannot be turned into the common paddock where others of his kind lure to a license of conduct not permitted in the transmission of his pedigreed qualities.

A halter must be put upon his head. He is curbed to the solitary occupancy of a box stall—a prison no less for all its luxuriously bedded ease. Mates are chosen for him by those skilled in physical points of excellence in racing stock—no other question of fitness is considered.

It is a purely physical transaction, upon a strictly animal plane of being, the right of selection eliminated, the perpetuation of species obeying the blind movement of sex in protoplasmic attraction.

This is what eugenics is upon the animal plane of life.

And this is precisely what the eugenists are offering us today upon the human plane as a remedy for race inequalities—a sort of denatured, Burbankized animalism, in substitution for volitional, selective, spiritualized human association.

Does it look good to you?

Camphor Improves Gasoline.

[Chicago Journal:] Automobilists abroad have been experimenting with gum camphor as a "dope" for their gasoline. Usually about one ounce of camphor is placed in five gallons of gasoline, and it is asserted by those who use the mixture that the operation of their motors is much superior with the camphor in the gasoline than without it. One motorist even goes so far as to claim that he has been able to increase his mileage per gallon as much as 20 per cent. The idea is not new, for Curtiss used it a number of years ago in his racing motorcycles, and it is said he sometimes uses it in his aeroplane engines.

RITCHIE MEETS CROSS TONIGHT.

Can "Leaches" Land on Willie Ritchie's Jaw?

Hebrew Usually Is Cautious Against Sluggers.

Cross Has Been Knocked Out Only Once.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Willie Ritchie, holder of the world's lightweight championship, will make his first appearance here tomorrow evening in a ten-round glove fight with Leach Cross of this city.

The match calls for 135 pounds, weighing at 9 a.m.

FINE RECORD.

Cross has suffered but one knockout in his long career. Fighting Dick Hyland, a second-rater, stopped him in forty rounds at Colma, Cal., several years ago. But in spite of setbacks on points, Cross has earned fame by whipping other good boys decisively, including Joe Mandot and Bud Anderson, both of whom were put to sleep when Cross connected with his deadly right-hand haymaker.

Can Cross land on Ritchie's jaw?

That is the question sporting men have been asked for some time. There is no doubt that Cross is a hard hitter, but he has never shown much in this line in bouts with clever boxers. Ritchie is able to box with skill and showed that he could punch when he had both Wolgast and Rivers in a state of grogginess.

LEACH CAUTIOUS.

Cross is not a rough fighter like Wolgast and Rivers, however, for he is inclined to be cautious and will take no chances with real sluggers. Leach is confident of victory. For several weeks betting on tomorrow night's scrap has been better than even money. Cross has a big following here, especially among the East Side Hebrews, who firmly believe that he is a coming champion. But just before the principals enter the ring at 10 o'clock it is believed Ritchie will be favorite. William Joh will referee and the bout will be governed by rules of the State Boxing Commission, which calls for a clean break and prohibit kidney blows. The men are in fine condition.

KETCHEL'S TRAINER ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA, Nov. 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] George Coler, well known in the sporting world as the trainer of Stanley Ketchel in all his important ring battles, close friend of Frank Gotch and Dr. Roller, knotted articles of his clothing together and four times succeeded in suspending himself from the bars of his cell in the Tacoma City Jail tonight. On the verge of success each time, he was cut down by Jailer Calkins. He is suffering from delirium tremens.

After Coler's four attempts at hanging, he was stripped of all clothing and his bedding taken away.

BALL MAGNATES SHOW SPEED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 9. — [Exclusive Dispatch.] Emulating the example set by the American Leaguers at their annual confab here last Thursday, club owners of the Western League, presided over by Norris L. (Tip) O'Neill, staged a hurried and smokeless meeting today, deciding all the affairs of state in record time.

Final action on the length of the 1914 schedule was deferred until Tuesday morning, when the moguls gather again at Columbus, for which point they started tonight to attend the annual gathering of the National Association.

Having elected O'Neill president for a long term at the 1912 reunion, the owners had little more to do during their meeting than to approve the financial report, which showed the 1912 season to have been highly profitable.

FRENCH AVIATOR STILL ON THE WAY.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 9.—Pierre Daucourt, who left Paris October 21, in the Paris-to-Cairo aeroplane race, landed today at San Stefano, a western suburb of Constantinople. Daucourt left Varna, Bulgaria, Friday morning, and flew to Burgas. From Burgas it was his intention to fly to Constantinople, but weather conditions compelled him to land at Podima, near Menia, in European Turkey, whence he started for Constantinople today.

STONE WINS FROM SUMMERS.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

SYDNEY (N.S.W.) Nov. 9.—Harry Stone, the American pugilist, defeated Johnny Summers of England, on points, in a twenty-round bout here today. This is the second time Stone has won from Summers by referee's decision, in twenty rounds.

STANFORD TEAM MAY PLAY CARLISLE INDIANS.

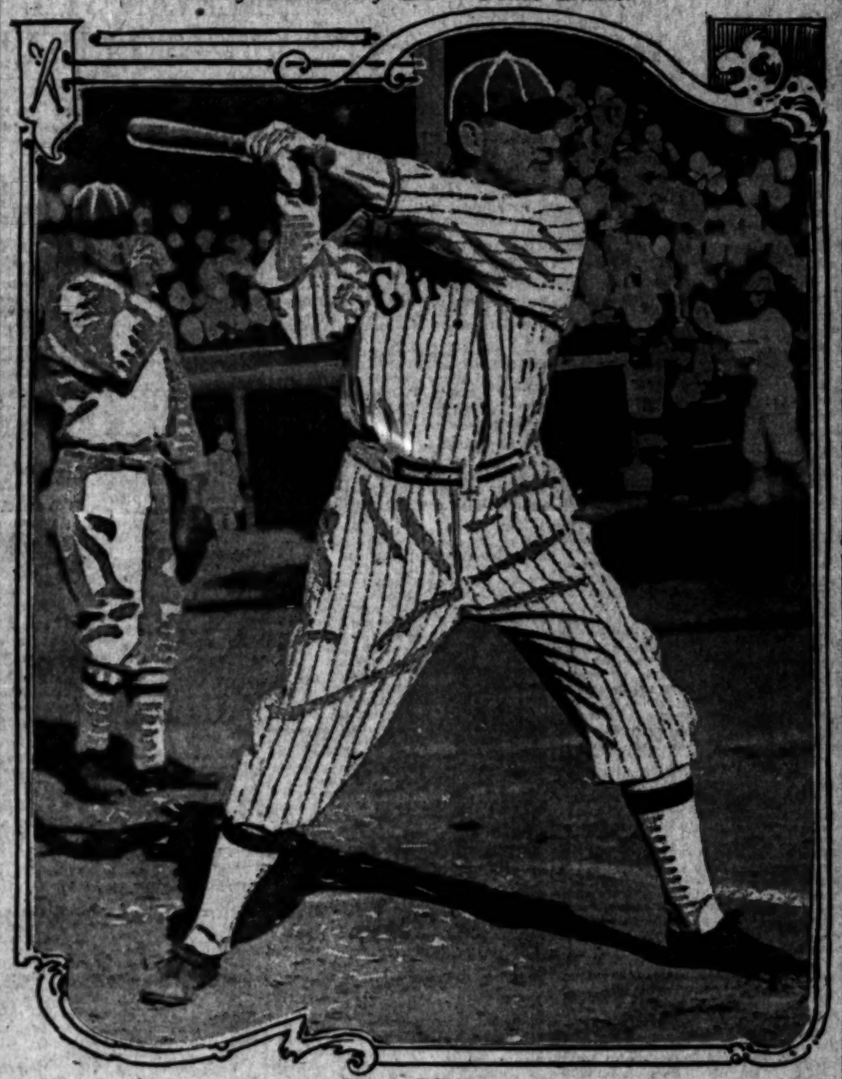
The visit of the Carlisle Indians to the Coast later in the fall has caused this talk to start and it is proposed that the Indians be invited to stop at Palo Alto for a game.

This startling fact was disclosed by a letter received by a member of The Times staff from a Stanford student. At first this seems like so much talk, but perusal of the dope discloses the fact that nearly one-third of the students of the university come from points outside of this State and hence are not as interested in Rugby as in the American game.

There is plenty of material at the university for a first-class team. Gilliian, two years ago an All-Pennsylvania prep school half, has been elected captain and in addition to him there are many other former stars at the American game. Landreth, Dill and Siefert, formerly of Occidental College, the latter having been mentioned by Walter Camp for the All-American team; Bert West and Mike Tedford, former Santa Ana High stars; Ulrich, a prep star from Connecticut; McDaniel, a center from Utah; Scofield, an eastern quarter-back, and several other former phenoms have signified their intention of getting out for the team so that there is plenty of material from which to pick a team to meet the redskins.

They Certainly Do "Come Back."



Jimmy Callahan,

Manager of the White Sox, who showed the youngsters a thing or two yesterday. Although in the game only five innings, he rapped out a triple and a single, stole second base, scored two runs and drove in the tieing tally.

Much Money.

RECEIPTS FROM STANFORD-CALIFORNIA GAME $43,000.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Nov. 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] According to the corrected figures given out this afternoon by Graduate Manager R. W. Wilcox of Stanford University, 19,530 persons paid admission to witness the Stanford-California Rugby match on Saturday.

The complimentary list, including the tickets given to the players, the men on the varsity squad, the press representatives, camera men, ticket-takers, patrolmen and attendants about the field would increase the number of spectators about 300. The total receipts will reach approximately $43,500.

Twelve hundred Rugby fans bought standing-room privileges. In the rooting section were 1404 Stanford men and the California yell leaders directed 1140 men. The expenses of the game are borne equally by the two universities, and the receipts are divided in the same manner after all the bills are paid. Each student body will receive about $19,000 from the game. This money is used to defray the running athletic expenses of the college sports, some of which do not pay for themselves.

On the Mat.

GREEK DEMON WILL MEET DOC ROLLER NEXT WEEK.

COMPLETELY, vindicated in the Chicago courts of the charge of having participated in a fake wrestling match, William Demetral wired George P. Towle, amusement director of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, that he would leave Chicago immediately and wrestle Dr. B. F. Roller at the club on the 18th of November.

Dr. Roller was reached by wire in Seattle, and promptly accepted the date, and will return to this city as soon as he has completed an engagement in Salt Lake.

The vindication of Demetral was absolutely complete, and bears out the confidence placed in him by followers of the wrestling game and men whom he has met on the mat, including Roller himself, who, at the time of Demetral's arrest, lost not a moment in declaring that he believed that charges against the Greek demon were without foundation.

While Demetral's arrest necessitated a postponement of the match here in Los Angeles, his vindication will undoubtedly add to public interest in the contest scheduled for the 18th, as here in Los Angeles, where the two men met once before, Demetral is a great favorite.

PHOENIX WINS TWO FROM HOEGEES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Nov. 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Today a double-header concluded the series of games between the Los Angeles Hoegees and the Phoenix baseball nine. It had been intended to limit the second to seven innings, but it had to be stretched, owing to a home run drive of Catcher Cook of Phoenix, who lifted the ball over the fence, let in two runs and tied the score.

Phoenix won both games, but ran out of pitching stuff in the second encounter and had to borrow Crabb from the visitors.

Phoenix	9	6	3

Batteries—Johnson and Cook; Concannon and Cheek.

Batteries—Crabb and Cook; Check and Cheek.

TUFTS-LYONS LOSE.

SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The winter season opened here today with a victory for the locals over the Tufts-Lyons, 5 to 4 in a good game. Score:

San Bernardino	5	9	0

Something Awful.

SOX AND GIANTS TIE IN WEIRD EXHIBITION.

Magee Pulls Off Prize Play When He Throws Ball Over Donlin's Head With Two on Bases — Weaver Has Run-in With Umpire Klem and Is Banished. Callahan Does Great Work.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

IF THIS be major league baseball, then friends, let us remain a minor league for the rest of our natural lives.

This was the sentiment breathed by eight thousand fans after watching the Giants and White Sox swelter through nine innings of bushball that ended in a 7 to 7 draw.

The players were so poky and the free and easy hitting occupied so much time, that darkness ended the four-bit "drammer."

And to think that any of us ever knocked the Angels and Tigers.

And as for Messrs. Klem and Sheridan—well, they are human, just the same as our own umps. After watching them work I can't understand how they ever kept George Wheeler out of the big league.

BUCK BANISHED.

Buck Weaver blabbed himself out of the game in the third inning. Lee Magee put over a "boner" in the sixth that overshadowed anything that Merkle ever produced in the same line, while old Germany Schaefer had the nerve to try and work the hoary-headed "hidden ball" trick, which is so ancient that it should be veneerated and not trifled with.

We shudder to think of anything like this being inflicted on foreign countries, which are naturally friendly to the United States.

But even though the game was punctuated with some poor ball, the true American spirit was present and the contest was a fight from consomme to cigars. Those who think that these clubs are not out to win are entitled to another thought or two.

The Giants piled up a six-run lead in four innings off Walter Leverenz, who was clearly off form through having worked out of his turn. Big Jeff Tesreau, who looks like an overgrown addition of Ed Walsh, had his "spitter" responding to his every whim for six innings, and during that time held the Sox to one run.

MAGEE'S BONER.

Tesreau figured to breeze home until Magee's mental lapse in the seventh let three Sox over the plate. Chicago became violent in the eighth and tied the score with a three-run outburst. Neither side was able to get a man over in the ninth.

Faber, a promising young man from Des Moines, Iowa, relieved Leverenz in the sixth. New York grabbed a run off him in that round. After that his delivery was a closed book to them. Magee, who singled in the ninth, making the only hit off him. In the seventh he fanned Merkle, Doolan and Thorpe as fast as they could file up to the plate. Evidently, Mr. Faber has no business in Des Moines.

The unpleasantness between Klem and Weaver was brewed as early as the second inning, when Merkle was called safe at third after having been clearly caught off that base by Schalk's throw to Rath. Buck was clearly displeased by Klem's attitude in the matter.

THE CAUSE OF IT.

Then in the third with Leverenz on first, Weaver hit into a double play, Doolan to Doyle to Merkle. The play on Weaver at first was close enough to draw a roar out of the assembled Sox. Weaver, on his way back to the bench, addressed a remark to Klem, and it was evident that he referred to something warmer than the weather.

Buck denied absolutely that he was out of the game.

Weaver may have been right about not being out of the game. The fact that he didn't do anything the rest of the afternoon but sit around on the bench and eat peanuts may have been just a coincidence.

With Buck trying to convince himself between bites that he wasn't out of the game, Callahan propped old Frank Isbell up at first base, transferred Chase to second and shifted Schaefer to short.

JIMMY ENTERS.

Isbell didn't flourish long. He made a hit in the fifth. The effort proved too much for him, and he retired, to let the youngster, Callahan, run for him. Jimmy then proceeded to score Chicago's first run on a hit by Speaker. Callahan finished the game in right field, Daly going behind the bat and Schalk blossoming out as a first baseman.

The seventh slipped around with New York leading, 7 to 1. This, by way of providing the setting for Magee's little "ivory" gem. This was a round of fuzzy baseball.

Schalk opened the inning by fanning, but he reached first, because the "spitter" at which he swung broke in front of the plate and bounced away from Wingo. Faber fled to Donlin, who had relieved Snodgrass in the third.

Callahan followed with a drive down the right-field line that went for a triple, because it took a baffling hop over the rushing redskin. Schalk scored on the drive. Lobert knocked Rath's single down back of third, and Callahan made no attempt to score.

HELP! HELP!

Speaker put a fly in left. It was so shallow that Callahan didn't even make a bluff at scoring when Magee mitted the ball. You can imagine that there was quite some consternation when Magee followed this by playfully throwing the ball about a mile over Mike Donlin's head in center field. Magee thought that there were three out. Eight thousand people sat with their mouths open and their eyes popping out, while Callahan and Rath scored and Speaker went to third. Magee is from St. Louis. We understand now why baseball is not popular in that city.

Daly dropped the curtain on this awful act with a pop fly to Capt. Larry.

Schaefer doubled with one out in the eighth, and the crowd laughed, for everything that German does is supposed to be funny. Evans scored the Dutchman with a single to center. Tesreau pulled down the throw home and shot the ball to first in an effort to nail Steve, who had over-run the base. The heave went wild and Evans went to third. Schalk sent Evans home with a hit to center, and stole second, Tesreau allowing him to get a burglar's lead. This peeved Doyle, and he fired the ball at Tesreau so vigorously that Jeff sidestepped it, the sphere going to the grand stand and Schalk going to third. Faber was salted on strikes, Callahan, with two strikes on him, smashed a single to right, Schalk flashing in with the tieing run. Cal

HARNESS RACES START TUESDAY.

Fast Horses Arrive Today from Phoenix.

Many Speedsters in the Big Free-for-All.

Twenty More Runners Have Arrived.

That the daily running races to be staged by the Los Angeles Harness Horse Association at its annual race meeting that begins tomorrow afternoon at Exposition Park will be one of the most attractive events, was guaranteed yesterday when twenty additional horses that have won fame on the running tracks from Vancouver to Juarez, arrived at Exposition Park ready to start in the events.

There were already ten well-known runners at the park, among them being High Street, Callese, Marchand, and others, all horses that have won big events this year. This will give a starting list of thirty thoroughbreds.

Yesterday Don Pronto, 2:02¼, champion pacer of the Pacific Coast, arrived in Los Angeles from Phoenix, where he won one heat from the famous Leata J. and was a close second in two other mile heats of the same event. E. T. Barnette, who owns the famous horse, said that he would be in his most perfect condition for the events this week.

CHAMPION FILLY.

Accompanying Don Pronto was Little Bernice, the 2-year-old filly, won many races on the Grand Circuit this summer and comes back home laden with honors. She entered in twenty-four races this year and won sixteen firsts and six seconds, being "in the money" in every one of them. Then there was Major By-By, the splendid horse owned by James Stewart, which did so well at Phoenix. Joe MacGregor, 2:06, also arrived at Exposition Park yesterday ready for this week's events.

This morning will see a full trainload of famous horses arrive at Exposition Park. Leata J., the champion pacing mare in America, and one of the largest winners of cash on the Grand Circuit will arrive. Joe Patchen II, the wonderful horse of R. J. MacKenzie, will come this morning. Both of these animals raced at Phoenix but did not meet. The contest between them when they meet in the free-for-all of the present meeting, is expected to bring about one of the best contests ever staged on the Coast.

MORE WINNERS.

With these two stars will be King Daphne, owned by Sydney Goldberg of Los Angeles. This horse has been a big winner on the Grand Circuit and also raced at Phoenix. Then there will be Our Colonel, owned by J. B. Jones of Buffalo. This horse has a record of 2:04 and is in the same class as the other free-for-all horses. Alerick and Zulu Belle will be in the group of famous animals to arrive this morning. All of these horses are to start in various events of the present meeting.

Exposition Park was yesterday the mecca for a large number of sightseers who came to watch the famous horses work out over the beautiful track. They were not disappointed, and saw several very fast miles turned, although from now until the races start at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon, there will be little speeding indulged in as the horses are in a finely drawn condition and they will be merely jogged and warmed up a little, both in the morning and afternoons.

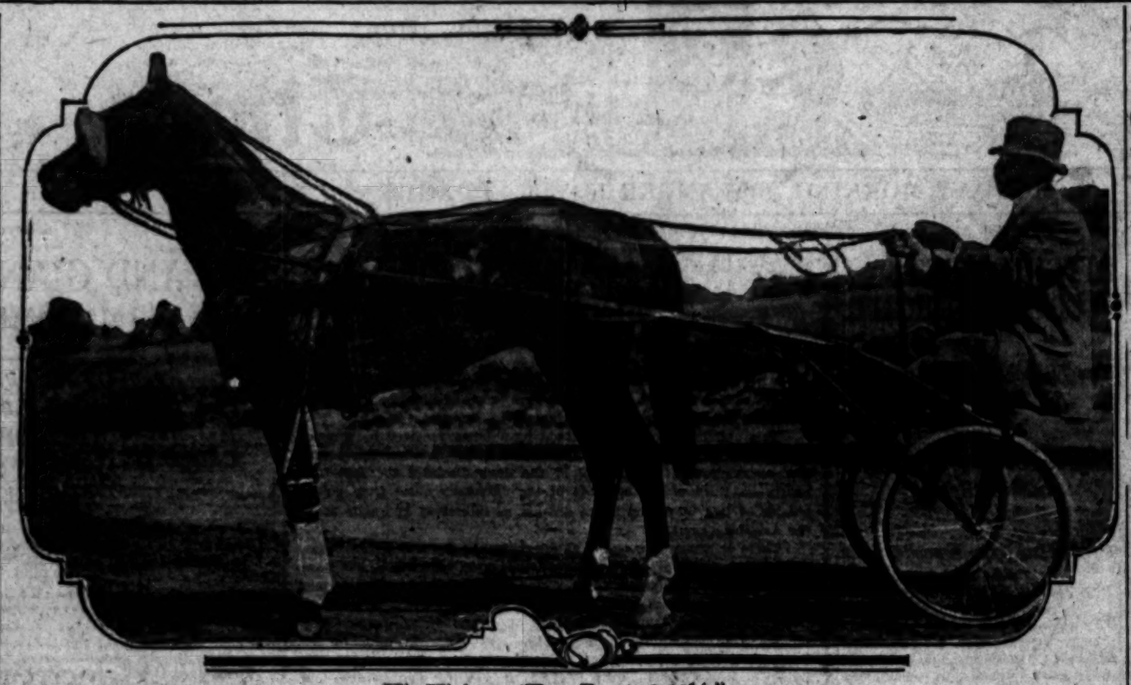
The big tower from which Dr. Carver's famous diving horses will plunge into the tank of water, was erected yesterday and was the center of a great crowd of spectators, many of whom remembered the beginning of the spectacle here eight years ago in Eastlake Park, when "The Girl in Red," Miss Lorena Lorenz, made her first leap on the back of one of the diving horses. This spectacle will be reproduced each day.

A FREAK.

Missouri King, the world's champion five and three-gaited horse, owned by E. R. Maier, was on the track yesterday warming up, and was the center of attraction for a large portion of the sight-seeing crowd.

All railroads have offered a special excursion rate for the meeting of the California Breeders' Association here this week, and the tickets will be good until the 20th of this month returning. The rates are one and one-third fares for the round trip.

Tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock sharp the first race will begin. It will be the first heat of the Canfield-Clark Stake No. 4. This will be followed by the 2:24 class trotters; then will come the 2:13 class pacing event. A running race of six furlongs will also be staged. These are in addition to the numerous side attractions that will run continuously from 1:30 until 5:30 o'clock.



His Highness "Don Pronto 2:02¼."

Champion Pacer of the Pacific Coast who is believed able to step a mile in the classic time of two minutes flat when pressed. He will meet the former king of the Coast, Joe Patchen II, at the fall meeting of the Los Angeles Harness Horse Association at Exposition Park.

FOOTBALL REVIEW.

Eastern Teams Are Improving—Princeton Might Have Beaten Harvard on a Dry Field—Dartmouth and Penn Play Open Game—Michigan Demonstrates Superiority of Open Style of Play Against Cornell.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Despite the handicap of mud-mired gridirons, the play of the leading eastern university football teams Saturday demonstrated that all are rounding into form for the final games of the 1913 season. The trend of improvement was plainly evident.

In several instances defeated teams developed surprising strength. This was notably true in the Harvard-Princeton game. The Tigers opened with a shift formation attack, which completely baffled the Crimson forwards in the first period. Had the field been dry it is quite possible Princeton would have scored one or more touchdowns. The slippery footing, however, slowed up their plays and gave the Harvard scrimmagers a chance to diagnose the attack. After this was accomplished Princeton lost her formidable appearance.

The Tigers, on the other hand, completely upset the Cambridge team's attack all through the game and important gains were due to individual brilliancy and excellent interference once the Crimson runner had passed the Princeton forwards.

While Princeton could and did pierce the Harvard line, particularly the right wing, repeatedly, the secondary defense of the Crimson was unusually strong and shut off promising runs and forward passes in impressive style. This same alertness was evident in protecting Hardwick and Brickley in their punting and dropkicking. Neither was forced to hurry as were Law and Baker, due to the savage manner in which the Harvard forwards charged through. It was this weakness that really lost the game, for poor passing and hurried kicking finally caused one of Law's punts to be blocked near Princeton's goal thus opening the way for Brickley's field goal.

In sharp contrast to the slow, conservative and uninteresting game played by Princeton and Harvard, was the Dartmouth-Pennsylvania contest at Philadelphia. By a judicious combination of old and new football tactics the Hanover team defeated the Quakers 24 to 21. Since Dartmouth had previously defeated Princeton under even worse playing conditions by a score of 6 to 0, the comparison of Pennsylvania and Dartmouth with Harvard and Princeton does not reveal the two latter university teams in the light of all-conquering combinations.

The opinion is gaining weight among some leading football experts that the coaches of the largest eastern college teams are so conservative that they fail to take advantage of the possibilities of so-called new rules permitting open football.

Playing a game similar to that of Harvard and Princeton the reconstructed Yale team defeated Brown by a 17 to 0 score on a water-soaked gridiron. The Providence eleven, comparatively weak this season, has already been defeated by Pennsylvania, 28 to 0 and Colby 10 to 0, so that Yale did not accomplish a remarkable feat. Nor was the Brown attack able to demonstrate the caliber of the Blue defense. The real test in this respect will come in the game with Princeton next Saturday.

Cornell, to whom it fell to defend eastern football honors in the only inter-sectional game of the day, failed lamentably, being defeated by Michigan 17 to 0. Due to the strong Cornell defense, however, Michigan was forced to resort to the western system of open play. So far as the old-time game was concerned, Cornell was outclassed by Yost's versatile team.

So far as large scores are concerned, the Army and Navy teams won chief honors of the day, defeating Albright 77 to 0 and Bucknell 70 to 7 respectively.

The Middle West.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Saturday's Middle-Western football game preparatory to the big championship games of the season, established the strength of Michigan, proved Nebraska still is a formidable fighting machine and added to the list of peculiar incidents of the season, thirteen games in which the winning team scored two touchdowns. Michigan's honors came in a brusing battle with Cornell. Nebraska gained new honors by smothering the Nebraska Wesleyan team, making this showing with its star backfield on the side lines. The two touchdown victories were injected into most of the big games of the West, the larger teams being content with narrow winning margins.

Iowa defeated Indiana by a top-heavy score instead of the expected close margin. Purdue opend up its offense and displayed strong scoring power against the best team Ross Polytechnic has had recently.

In the Missouri Valley Drake and Missouri staged one of the bitter battles expected when these teams meet. Missouri's ten point margin establishes it with Nebraska and Kansas as one of the three leading teams of the Missouri Valley conference.

The "big nine" championship will be decided next Saturday and it is possible the Missouri Valley struggle may be ended by the result of the Kansas-Nebraska game.

In the Rockies.

DENVER (Colo.) Nov. 9.—Saturday's football games of the Rocky Mountain intercollegiate conference narrowed the championship contest down to two undefeated teams, Colorado University and the Colorado School of Mines, each of which defeated yesterday the only remaining contenders when Colorado eliminated Utah by a top-heavy score and the Miners fought a vicious game with Colorado College winning by a margin of four points.

OLD FOOTBALL STARS AND NEW.

Grantland Rice, writing in Collier's Weekly of current issue, turns to Pudge Heffelfinger and bestows the following bays on the former Yale gladiator:

"'All this admiration and reverence and rot for old-time football stars makes me weary,' quoth a somber and sedate Yale sophomore recently as he looked on from the sidelines.

"They have ten good football players today where they used to have one—and they know about ten times as much football."

"Important—if correct. But just about that moment an old hasbeen by the name of Pudge Heffelfinger stepped out and took his place on the Yale second eleven, working against the first team. And all that Mr. Heffelfinger, who had shuffled off the moleskin over twenty years ago, could do was to rip out three-fourths of the varsity line and scatter the attack to the October winds. The varsity quarter at last discovered Heffelfinger's weakness, which happened to be a wide run around the other part of the line.

"Yes, the old guard were no good. Michigan has had a lot of better men than Willie Heston, but in some manner of fashion we have forgotten their names. And so has Yost."

MORLEY'S SCHEDULE.

Gould still leads all competitors in Morley's three-cushion tournament, having won five games and lost one. Ashton holds second position, with four games won and one lost. This week's schedule calls for a game between Capelle and Thompson tonight; Condon and Price, Tuesday; Capelle and Condon, Wednesday; Lawler and Thompson, Thursday; Price and Ashton, Friday.

Morley is to continue his open challenge games tonight and Friday evening.

ELEVEN STANFORD VETS TO RETURN NEXT YEAR.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY (Cal.) Nov. 9.—While the student body is still celebrating the Rugby victory of Saturday, when Stanford defeated the University of California by a score of 13 to 3, the deposters have taken time to figure upon the possibilities for another winning Cardinal fifteen for next season.

Post mortems have been the order of the day. Coach Schaeffer's action in sending into the game Four of the California substitutes is still a matter which is causing much discussion among the Stanford rooters. By the terms of the intercollegiate Rugby agreement between Stanford and California, but three substitutes are to be allowed each team. The clause in the agreement states that neither team shall in any game have more than eighteen men.

Of the men who played in the game with California on Saturday eleven are certain to report for practice when the season opens next fall. They are Wines, front rank; Clover, middle rank; Darsie, breakaway; Tilton and Erb, the two half-backs; Austin and Lachmund, five-eighths; Carroll, center; Urban and Reeves, wings; Davidson, who substituted at second five.

The eighteen players for the all-American team which is to play the All-Black Rughyites next Saturday will be chosen in San Francisco tomorrow afternoon. The selections are to be made from a list of twenty-two players.

SPORT SLANTS.

Jimmy Todd, one of the fastest and most consistent quarter-milers ever developed on the Coast, has put a big dent in the hopes of the California rooters for another great track team by leaving college and entering business in Oakland. The 440 this year, however, will fall into capable hands as George Clark will be on the job.

Shorty Smith, the Occidental College half-back, who sustained a very severe bump in the head in the Occidental-Whittier practice game a month ago, is out in a suit again and doing light practice. There is just a chance that Smith will get but for the team again as he will fill Bill Foster's shoes in a most acceptable manner in case that young gentleman gets hurt.

Jerry Craig showed to better advantage in the full-back position against the All-Blacks than he ever has in the three-quarters line. The big Trojan had plenty of chances to show what he was made of as there was an almost continuous swarm of New Zealanders hovering near the U.S.C. goal line.

What promises to be one of the best swimming meets ever held in a local tank will be pulled off Thanksgiving night at the Los Angeles Athletic Club when the club swimmers hold their big tournament. Several new men have joined the club who will add much to the class of the entertainment. Sid Williams, Cliff Bowes, Ray Henderson, Vance Veith and several other stars have cast their lot with the clubmen since the last meet.

The Redlands University football squad appears to be getting much stronger as the days pass by and it begins to look as though Occidental would have their hands full with the Immersionists, whom they meet on their own field in two weeks. Rhonce, the left tackle for the Baptists, is said to be one of the best linemen in the south and will have a chance to show what he can do against the big Tiger Shipkey.

WALKER STRIKES OUT THIRTEEN MEN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA CRUZ (Cal.) Nov. 9.—A big crowd saw the Santa Cruz Independents defeated today by a team composed of players from the Oakland Coast League club. Walker, of the Independents, struck out thirteen men, but errors allowed the visitors three of the four runs.

Score:

Oakland	4	5	5
Santa Cruz	1	5	5

ANOTHER TIE GAME AT SANTA BARBARA.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Tufts-Lyon Junior team of Los Angeles repeated its effort of last Sunday in playing the locals to a tie again today. Last Sunday the score was 1 to 1 in fourteen innings and today it was 7 to 7 in twelve innings. Brown, the Santa Barbara pitcher, after giving five singles in succession in the seventh inning, was removed, "Whitey" Hensling taking the mound. After that the visitors got but one hit. The record crowd of the season saw the game. The score:

Santa Barbara	7	18	4

NEW MONARCH CAR LOOKS VERY GOOD.

The new Monarch car, being built in Detroit, marks another step forward in the production of the high-class, medium-priced motor car. This little machine is equipped with a long-stroke motor, developing twenty-five horse power, electric lighting and starting and new left-hand drive.

One of the most pleasing features of the car is the body design, which follows somewhat that of the French. The hood is of the sloping Renault type and the car has a stream-like, bell-shaped body, which gives a great deal more room than is found in the ordinary five-passenger car of 110 inches wheelbase.

The radiator has been placed forward under the hood, and is cooled by means of a scoop-like affair under the car, which forces the air upward over the radiator. The cooling system is thermo-syphon, and the placing of the gasoline tank in the dash gives the flow of fuel steady on the steepest grades. The car will sell for $1650.

PEART GIVES HIS FAREWELL ADDRESS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERKELEY, Nov. 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The California football squad last night elected Howard Fleming of San Jose, captain of the 1914 varsity.

The team was given an ovation when they entered the football show. Capt. Peart, in response to cheers, said: "Fellows, it was the hardest battle I have ever fought to come here tonight and face you. We have been licked and been licked hard." With his voice breaking, he continued, "I think it was over-confidence. We were too sure. I am leaving college in a few days and will not be back until the next big game. All I have to say is, back up your new captain, Fleming, next year."

COAST CHAMPIONSHIP BILLIARD TOURNEY TODAY.

GAMES in the open tournament for the pocket billiard championship of the Pacific Coast and the Brunswick-Balke-Collender trophy emblematic thereof, are to commence at noon today at the Majestic billiard academy, No. 427½ South Hill street, at which time H. J. O'Brien and L. K. Greer, former amateur champion of Southern California, oppose each other for 100 balls.

George Banks, Southern California champion, winner of last year's open tournament for that title, is slated to meet Charles Wilson, a brilliant young player from Covina, who has many hopeful adherents, at 2:15.

These six men are the entrants for the most important event ever known here at the specified game, or, indeed, ever brought off on the Coast. A new and valid title is awaiting the winner, whose record is to regularly appear in accounts of recognized championship accomplishments.

Besides the trophy, $100 in prizes goes to the three highest players at the end of the contest: $100 to first, $36 to second, and $25 to third.

Ingram, Woolsey and Wilson are the unknown performers in the contest, the others having competed last year. All the old hands are said to be playing in rather better form than usual, and the new men are expected to keep them guessing throughout every round.

Manager Alfred E. Mackenzie has arranged the schedule appended, and is acting as referee of the games.

Wednesday, November 12, noon, Woolsey versus Banks; 2:15, Wilson and O'Brien; 7:30, Greer and Ingram.

Friday, November 14, noon, Ingram and Banks; 2:15, O'Brien and Woolsey; 7:30, Greer and Wilson.

Tuesday, November 18, noon, Woolsey and Wilson; 2:15, Greer and Banks; 7:30, O'Brien and Ingram.

Wednesday, November 19, 2 p.m., Ingram and Wilson; 7:15, Banks and O'Brien; 9:30, Greer and Woolsey.

About Right.

SPEED CRANK HAS PASSED ON.

Days of the Motor Crank Are Now Numbered.

Auto Club Director Advocates Sane Speed Laws.

That the "speed bug" has passed into history, along with the "hayseed" in the "bustleer" suspenders and the man who carried a potato in his pocket, is the contention of W. L. Valentine, director of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

As member and director of the club, Valentine has encountered every species of the motorist, and he has concluded that the "speeder" in Southern California is as obsolete as red plush furniture.

Here is Valentine's litany, which he threatens to hang above the desk in his den: "From adulterated gas, from unsigned roads and garageless towns, from freshly-oiled highways, from endless discussions by unique tourists, from green drivers, and from speed "bugs"—deliver us!"

"And it has been the educational campaign conducted by the Automobile Club among its members and their friends which has broken the back of the speed microbe," said Valentine, "that as well as the new era of automobile manufacture.

"At the present time, although I really believe the industry is still in its knickers, the automobile has been so universally accepted as a necessity and not a new toy that the fellow who used to raise the dust of poor roads out in the rural districts is now a safe and [illegible] better roads and [illegible]

MORRIS RATH MAY BE KANSAS CITY MANAGER.

Former Second Baseman of the White Sox Said to Be Slated as Charley Carr's Successor—Callahan Will Try and Make Daly an Outfielder—Says that Larry Chapelle Is Some Hitter.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

MORRIS RATH has the inside track for appointment as manager of the Kansas City club, according to information which leaked out from the camp of the Chicago White Sox yesterday.

It is said that he is slated to succeed Charley Carr, and seems practically a cinch to get it.

Carr himself is silent on the subject, but it is generally accepted that the White Sox will not be in the race next spring, and was given the job for the better part of the season with the idea that he could fill in his hitting time with that he figured in a baseball way with Kansas City, being successful as second base by Joey Berger.

Charley Carr was relieved of the managerial job by the management toward the close of the season, and Tom Downey was given the club for the remaining games.

Rath has yet to select a permanent successor to Carr. It is believed that Rath will get the position.

Harry said: "We heard very good reports of his work, and would have used him to advantage both Comiskey and myself has a player has rights to be respected."

Harry said now the undisputed property of the Los Angeles club. He paid Chicago a cool $4000 for him.

Rath is still combing the country for another outfielder. There have been any number of wild rumors in this connection, including the purchase of Chicago getting Ty Cobb from Detroit or Speaker from Boston, while one report even had Rath ready to predict that Cobb would go to Chicago in exchange for Felsch and a few others.

Rath will do all of these things, but to be accomplished was the impression had that the American league would continue playing and Boston. If these changes they might as well be left alone.

Rath has not been able to put over any of these deals for any of these players will seek a simpler solution of the problem by trying to get Catcher Daly into an outfield berth.

Daly is a fine hitter, and batted .325 yesterday. "He may not be the man that I need in the outfield," responded Manager Chappelle, the .325,-hitter," responded without a tremor.

Rumors are hard enough to suppress around the White Sox camp, but they seem to be the order of the season. This is brought in by the scouts from all over the country. The question of their reliability is low speed limit that some of the smaller towns, and the Automobile Club keeps a watchful eye on the villages that seeks to impose its scenery upon the motorist for a long time. The motor town, however, a limit in the small town, and will is impressed by the quality of the village constable, of the splendors of the Town Hall to warrant a funeral procession, the main street, while the small boy shies soft oranges at the pumpkin or two at the rear of the car.

"Hostility in the rural districts is no longer an fait. The motorist has found that the automobile is his best bet for getting the latest in fashion, and his wife is usually a close second. The impression had that the American longer pitcherts your head off at the ballbush, but goes in for speed even. It helps the movement for good roads, and helps the speeder in front of a certain sleepy constable in Oldsmobile."

Some players hold it against a manager when he is sent back to the minors. But not so with Johnson. Callahan has no firmer admirer of more ardent booster than Johnson.

Ernie feels that Callahan did him a good turn when he sent him to the Coast. This was his first full season of professional baseball, and he needed the seasoning. Johnson says that nothing would suit him better than to remain here for at least three seasons.

It is doubtful, however, whether the sandy-haired shortstop can be kept out of the big show that long, for he is major league timber.

Doyle Accompanies Teams.

Both clubs left for San Diego last night and will today play for the edification of the fans there. They will play in Oxnard tomorrow, and then continue their prosperous way up the Coast. Gene Doyle will accompany the team as far as San Francisco.

Leverett Boosts Agnew.

Several favorable mentions of the work of Sam Agnew behind the bat for the St. Louis Browns filtered out here, but according to Walter Leverett, the half has not been told.

"Agnew was not fully appreciated when he was on the Coast," said Leverenz. "In the East they regard him as a wonder. Most of the critics rank him with Schalk and Schang. Sam was going great guns when he was put on the shelf with an injury. He came back toward the end of the season and caught good ball, however, and should be better than ever next season."

The development of three catchers of the caliber of Schalk, Schang and Agnew in a single season is unprecedented in the history of the majors. They came at a time when the supply of really competent backstops was hardly visible to the naked eye.

Providence has a peculiar way of providing for all emergencies, plugging up vacancies, as it were. These boys blossomed out when they were most needed. Christopher Columbus happened along just when America had about given up hope of ever being discovered. When Christopher did this he started something that he couldn't stop. At the psychological moment George Washington took hold and straightened things out. Later Abraham Lincoln appeared when things seemed on the verge of going to smash. There was another long interval and Hen Berry was raised up just when baseball here needed a great man with a bank account.

FOOTBALL SPIES CAUSE OF SECRET PRACTICE.

THE old argument regarding secret practice has bobbed up again and much conversation is being spilled right and left regarding its effect on the rooters and on the play.

Could football be played on the honor basis, with rival schools really not carrying on the spy system, secret practice would not be needed. But, sad to relate, despite gentlemen's agreements and other pacts, spying is carried on to more or less extent today. Sometimes the spy, so-called, is a man sent from one camp to another, but most frequently the spy is an alumnus living in the town wherein the team he is looking over is located. He reports by mail to the old school coach and his work, if he knows football, is just as effective as though he might be sent from one camp to the other.

Schools located in small towns have little to fear from the spying tactics. In a city like Minneapolis open practice would submit Minnesota to the inspection of the alumni of almost every school on the schedule.

Secret practice undeniably kills the football spirit in the school. The coaches, though, defend it by saying that as the conference rules have so curtailed the practice season as to make it necessary to get the full attention of the players every available minute and not be hampered by the distraction of a cheering crowd in the stands or along the side lines. This is also undeniable.

It would seem, though, that some sort of a compromise might be reached whereby the students and followers of the teams might be given certain days to look over the men and make the players feel that they were with them and back of them. It would give the students more of a personal interest in the team and the team more of an assurance of the hearty support of the student body.

CHEAPER FUEL.

Plans are under way for the construction of a new gas-producer plant in connection with the steel plant of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company, at Birmingham, Ala. The company is a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, and intends to construct the new producer plant in such a way as to make available the by-products for the manufacture of benzol in commercial quantities. The investment in the new plant will involve, it is said, the total sum of $1,500,000. The buildings are to be erected at Fairfield, Ala.

ED SHEA HAS A BROKEN ANKLE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PRINCETON (N. J.) Nov. 9.—The injury which necessitated the removal of Ed Shea, from the right end of the Princeton line, in Saturday's game with Harvard, has turned out to be a broken ankle and he will be out of the game for the remainder of the season. The other Princeton players came through the contest unscathed.

Coach Andrews said tonight that the varsity players would have no hard scrimmage this week, because of the proximity of the Yale game. The fourteen players who went to Atlantic City last night are not expected back until Tuesday.

FOREIGN ARMY OFFICERS ARRIVE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Several French and British army officers who will ride in the international events at the annual Madison Square Garden horse show that will open next Saturday, reached here from Europe today. On the steamship Savoie were Lieut. Marquis Francois de Thomel d'Orgeix, Lieut. Baron Pierre Marie de Meslon, and Lieut. Auguste de Laisardiere, all of the French army. On the steamship Celtic were Col. P. A. Kenna, Maj. M. F. Taggart, and Capt. R. M. Stewart-Richardson, British army officers.

VICTORS RETURN.

FROM THE SIDELINES.

BY WILLIAM M. HENRY.

POMONA'S defeat of Whittier by the score of 24 to 7 looks rather overwhelming on the face of it but when the matter is considered closely it will be seen that the Sage Hens haven't so much on the Tigers after all, even though Pipal's men only defeated the Quakers 6 to 0.

In the first place Pomona had the advantage of playing a demoralized and badly battered team last Saturday while on the Saturday before the Quakers were in the pink of condition according to Coach Wilson's own statement: "My men are in perfect condition and if they lose I will have no excuses to offer."

In addition to this, Pomona only outplayed the Quakers by one touchdown, as the one secured by Rice in the second half, undoubtedly was due in part to the quickness of Rice, was also due to bad passing by Bufkin and a little juggling by Brownell.

The Why of It.

The difference between the Rugby played by the All-Blacks and that demonstrated by the local fifteens, aside from the slight advantage in weight and speed of the visitors, is that between playing the ball and playing the man.

The New Zealand forwards are after the ball like a bunch of hungry tramps after a square meal and do not take the trouble to "smear" a man after he has gotten rid of the ball as the American players do, but start right after the man with the ball. They bear in mind that if they stop to smear the erstwhile holder of the ball they not only put him out of the play but forces themselves out of it also and choose in every case to let the man alone and follow the ball.

A Chinese Puzzle.

At the present moment the High School football situation is in about the finest mess in the history of the south, which is going some.

Whittier at the present time has the bulge on everybody else, but how long the bulge will remain on their side nobody knows. Santa Ana was popularly considered to be the coming championship team and Long Beach was just as popularly considered to be out of it because of their defeat by Chaffee Union, but lo, and behold, the defunct Beach players came back and tied the Pestlanders.

To a man up a tree and viewing affairs with no bias it begins to look suspiciously as though Dutch Shutt of Chaffee Union has been teaching his proteges some of this new open football with rather conspicuous success. Though many have not noticed it, Chaffee is only half a game behind the leading Quakers and defeated Long Beach High in a very decisive manner while Whittier was barely able to nose out a victory from the beach squad.

Whittier meets Chaffee in the very near future and it would not surprise several people if the winner of this game romped home with the title. Shutt has been teaching his men real football and they look like champions.

Tigers Return.

The Occidental College football team returned from Arizona yesterday with the scalps, and incidentally the goats, of the university of that region.

It appears that the game was football and debate in almost equal quantities, the entire contest dragging out over something like two hours due to the highly interesting, but somewhat out of place, discussions over various sections of the rule-book.

The game was enjoyed by about 300 regular spectators and 2000 of the great unwashed, who draped themselves over the barbed-wire fence and viewed the spectacle from afar. Aside from the above-mentioned facts and the new-style field that was several feet higher at one end than it was at the other, the game was highly successful from the Tiger standpoint as nobody was injured and the team gained confidence that comes with victory.

The historic and bloody battles between wild beasts and man staged for the benefit of an admiring throng by Nero, promise to pale into insignificance alongside of the combat scheduled for this coming Friday.

Los Angeles High School at the present time holds the city High School Rugby championship. Manual Arts rooters say that L. A. won't hold it after next Friday. The Cliffdwellers say they will. And there you have the whole question. No amount of debate will settle the matter but nevertheless and notwithstanding it will all be settled by Friday night.

The Cliffdwellers started out rather poorly this season with only one veteran, but they have been improving steadily and showed their mettle against Poly. Manual, on the other hand, started out with a rush and have been accumulating momentum all the time with the result that there should be considerable of a crash when the two teams meet.

The Cliffdwellers have not yet been defeated. Manual was defeated early in the season by Pomona High, the Citrus Belt champions. The honors at the present time are just about even and the chances are that the great L. A.-Poly battle will be outdone in fierceness when the Artisans meet the Champs.

Tigers and Utah.

Occidental College is going to have another taste of big league football this coming Saturday when the University of Utah comes out here. Last year the Tigers won the State championship and the Utah Tigers won the Rocky Mountain championship. Both teams are in the running for the same titles this year and the clash between the two will nearly decide the championship of the West.

Occidental is in great shape for Utah. The backs are all rapidly rounding into condition and the great Tiger line is in better shape than ever. Although the team is much lighter than was at first thought, due to the two light guards, Deems and Stearns, every man is a fighter as was shown in the Whittier game and next Saturday's battle promises to be a repetition of the great struggle between Occidental and Denver last year.

HARD RAP FOR ENGLISH ATHLETES

A. B. George, the famous English athlete, has turned literary, as they say in baseball, and is panning his countrymen in rather round and florid terms.

George has been much in America, knows American athletics fairly well and is telling the home folks a few facts about their mistaken ideas of America and Americans. He takes up the argument that England plays for the sake of sport and the English idea that Albion produces better All-around athletes than does America, where athletes are accused of specialization.

George riddles this by asking if England goes in for so much of the all-around work that England has not produced a man capable of beating Kraenslein or Jim Thorpe. He pays his respects to American athletics and takes a few flings at the provincialism of the times and some of the elderly sport publications usually found willing to hammer American athletics. We are beginning to think that we need a few Georges over here and that England can have a few more without any trouble. Perhaps, if we get to knowing each other better, both sides would find that there was much to admire about the other, and we could have some rattling old international sport without an aftermath of unpleasant criticism from both sides. It is worth a trial anyway.

MASTER ON AEROPLANE.

Glen Martin, the Santa Ana aviator, who recently returned from the East, is busy completing plans for the building of an aeroplane which is expected to surpass any other ever turned out in Southern California. The machine will be powered by a high-speed Curtiss motor. While in the East, Martin tried out and tested numerous makes of carburetors, with the view to securing one for his new plane, but he returned without finding one suitable for that purpose. Martin visited the Master Carburetor Company's factory here in Los Angeles yesterday afternoon, and, after testing the Master instrument, he gave Superintendent Jenkins an order for a special Master carburetor, which will mix the gas for the powerful motor of the new aeroplane.

MUSIC SHOWS FOR MOROSCO.

Rock and Fulton Come First in "Candy Shop."

Hunter and Applebee Will Go to Burbank.

BY GARDNER BRADFORD.

Four weeks from now, the exact date is December 7, the Morosco Theater is to become a musical comedy house, and the present Morosco producing company will pass out of existence. Now that is a real piece of news, isn't it?

And who do you think is coming first? No one else but my old friends, Billy Rock and Maude Fulton, and the rest of the big Gaiety Theater company, which opened the new theater of that name in San Francisco and took the Golden Gate city by storm.

This does not mean that Morosco is relinquishing the house. Not in the least, but Saturday he signed a contract with G. M. Anderson, who owns the Gaiety, to book his attractions into the Morosco, and the Rock and Fulton aggregation is merely the first of the galaxy of musical comedy shows Anderson is organizing.

Anderson, you know by reputation, even if you never met him. He is the man who came out here a few years ago as a movie actor, made millions in a few years, achieved an international reputation in front of the camera as Broncho Billy, and then went in for the bigger things.

With the Frisco house a great success, the resident manager there has gone to Chicago to establish a house there, and there will be theaters in Salt Lake, Denver and maybe one or more other cities. Each of these will be the home of as splendid a musical comedy company as brains and money can bring together, and they will alternate in the different houses forming the chain.

In speaking of the change in the policy of the Morosco Theater, Manager Morosco said yesterday:

"Los Angeles has long needed a high-class musical comedy company—that is a permanent organization. It has been supplied with this form of entertainment by the Ferris Hartman organization and companies of a cheaper quality, but I have often thought that the city needed a really high-class organization presenting the biggest eastern successes with an all-star cast.

"When I was in San Francisco recently one of my principal objects was to make an arrangement with Mr. Anderson, whereby he would play his musical comedies in the Morosco Theater.

"I succeeded in interesting him and after witnessing a performance there of 'The Candy Shop' I felt that if his future productions equal the caliber of his present offering the success of our undertaking here would be immediate and phenomenal.

"Just stop to think—the present company, headed by Rock and Fulton, have been standing the public up at the Gaiety Theater in San Francisco for the past four weeks and seats have actually been at a premium."

"We have been surfeited with dramas. We need a great singing comedy company and I sincerely believe the Anderson company is it."

Although it has not been announced yet, it is not at all unlikely that the Morosco will also have a company which will play here and on the road, too.

The first show is to be the "Candy Shop," which you who were East three or four years ago will recall as a big Dillingham success with Rock and Fulton, Frank Lawler, Lucy Weston, Annie Yeamans, Douglas Stevenson, Lillie Rice and Angie Weimers in the cast. It was one of the shows of the year, but was closed suddenly on account of litigation over its ownership.

And all this time I suppose you have been wondering what is to become of the Morosco company. Well, at this time I can't tell you about everyone, but the fates have decreed that Harrison Hunter and James K. Applebee will go over to the Burbank, while, as I have already told you a few days ago, Grace Valentine and Charlie Ruggles go to Chicago to take their original roles in "Help Wanted." I understand no changes will be made in the front of the house.

In the meantime it is also planned that the new shows will be produced at the Burbank, though of course the latest New York successes will also be presented as heretofore. "Rita's Romance" will go on as already planned.

This is the piece which, if it is a "go," will introduce Selma Paley to New York when the Morosco Theater in that city is completed.

Personally, I am tickled to death with the announcement, for I have an idea it is going to be a big thing, for Morosco and for the public. Rock and Fulton have no peers on the stage today, in their line, and when they were last here at the Orpheum, they told me what the Gaiety company was to be like.

Reports from Frisco seem to indicate that plans were carried through with success. You may not know it, but at least 30 per cent. of the most popular dances on the stage today were placed there by Rock, who with Ned Weyburn, ranks top in the list of stage dancing masters.

Speaking of musical comedies reminds me that "The Count of Luxemburg" opens at the Mason tonight with the unique assertion that Frank Moulan, the star, is not in it with the chorus. Well, they will have to go some, for Frank is one of a coterie or quartette of comedians whose names are synonymous with laughter. Two are gone now, one Dan Daly, and the other Tom Seabrooke, which leaves Moulan and Frank Daniels to reckon with.

The Count will have some competition though, in Anna Held, who, while she has deserted musical comedy for vaudeville, will, nevertheless, present a tabloid sensation at the Majestic in between the bunch of headline acts she brings with her.

She gets in this morning, by the way, in what is termed the most luxurious private train that ever crossed the continent. I presume that is why they have to have a matinee every day.

We have a Los Angeles girl in town this week, at the Orpheum. She is Nellie Nichols, and instead of wiring ahead that she wanted a bungalow, all she has asked for is a saddle horse. "Props" declares that at this time of year she is letting him down easy.

Anna Held,

Who begins what promises to be a record-breaking engagement at the Majestic today, and, below, Lois Meredith, who made her local debut as ingenue of the Morosco company yesterday in "Over Night."

Morosco.

FORREST STANLEY BURSTS OUT AS A VOCALIST.

Charley Ruggles, Harrison Hunter and All the Other Morosco Stars Help to Put Over a Comedy that Rivals "The Elixir" — Lillian Elliott Scores Triumph.

BY HENRY CHRISTEEN WARNACK.

As a center of mirth, the Morosco Theater smiled itself into the heart of Los Angeles yesterday afternoon. At least 1200 persons had narrow escapes for their lives. They were nearly laughed to death. Delicate people should avoid "Over Night." Only a robust constitution can withstand the assault of that much pure fun. A gale of mirth sweeps through every situation and crackles in every line of this delicious and absurd comedy.

There is no sense in the world to "Over Night," and no sermon in it. There are people who do not go to the theater to be preached at or to, and just a few are left, perhaps, who do not go to every show to blush at the sins of society or to be shocked into learning some new vice for future personal reference. Such of us as like to forget sin and the "highbrow" stuff, and who will bear no grudge against something which compels our free laughter, will find "Over Night" an unadulterated and unlimited joy.

You are all right yourself, gentle reader, but if you have a relative or a friend who is a chronic grouch, send him down for the "Over Night" cure. If you fail to note any results after the first treatment, get a divorce, because your friend belongs in the ward for incurables.

"Over Night" is lucky enough to make abundant room for nearly every star in the big Morosco company. Charles Ruggles, Helene Sullivan, Harrison Hunter, Lois Meredith, Lillian Elliott, Grace Valentine, Franklyn Underwood, Florence Oberle, James K. Applebee, Forrest Stanley, George Rand, Ivan Miller and John Ellicott all have screaming parts. The plot thickens at every turn, but it thickens the most around Charles Ruggles, Lois Meredith, Helene Sullivan and Harrison Hunter.

Some plots are like bees—they instinctively know where to settle and they make a good job of it. I defy any comedy plot to pick a better quartette for its business than these four Morosco stars. It can't be done—not in Los Angeles, anyway, and what Los Angeles cannot do in stock not many other cities would undertake.

The only thing in the world I enjoy better than roasting bad actors in a poor play or even good actors in a bad play, is praising good actors in a good play. "Over Night" is so bright that it does not have to be good. It is neither a question of morals nor of art, but only of how much laughter you have in your system. It is not as funny as "The Elixir of Youth," but it is nearer to it than anything we have had in many a day, and if Kitty Gordon was not already billed for next week in "Alma, Where Do You Live?" this new piece would last longer than over night, and I think it would do better than over a fortnight.

It must be a great relief to Forrest Stanley to be left in charge of a country hotel in the second act, the noble monarch of all he surveys. Just to see him sitting innocently before the open hearth and its softly-glowing embers, strumming a guitar with idle, untrained fingers and humming sweet nothings in a voice not quite so sweet, but fully as untrained for that particular method of articulation, one would never suspect that only a week ago he was killing men in a dress suit in his wife's parlor and presence just to hear their wives and children cry.

Forrest Stanley is a noble young man. He is better than that, he is a good actor. He is trying to live down a dark past and he does it "Over Night." His equal as a night clerk in "an hotel" is not to be found outside of Charles Dickens or Anaheim. By the way, it would be dreadful, wouldn't it, to be a small boy and have to decide whether you would rather be Woodrow Wilson, Forrest Stanley or Christy Mathewson?

The story of the play is one of a tangled honeymoon. Two bridal couples become separated for a day and a night and are harrowed by a large company of aggravating camp followers who likewise have troubles of their own. Richard Kettle is thus left in charge of shrinking, little Elsie Darling, when Richard is himself about the most shrinkable thing made in wash goods.

Charles Ruggles is this same Richard, and Miss Lois Meredith, the timid little bride of the other man, Richard's wife, Georgina, finds herself thrown upon the harsh mercy of Percy Darling.

Georgina is a suffragette of militant proclivities and is exactly the sort of woman that the iron-handed masculine Percy would flee as from the wrath to come. So would all other men who were strong enough for self-defense. Harrison Hunter makes a gorgeous Percy and Miss Helene Sullivan is easily the Emmeline Pankhurst of stagedom. If Emmeline could understudy Miss Sullivan for a week she could return from her voluntary exile, even as Napoleon from St. Helena, and recapture England, put Parliament on the run and Asquith in her hip pocket (if she wears them) without the slightest fear of a Waterloo or an Elba.

Miss Grace Valentine, as a pretty heiress, who gets disinherited for spoiling the imaginary romance of an old maid aunt, makes Franklyn Underwood, as Al Rivers, a distracting ideal, and before the curtain drops on the third and last act the audience has the comforting assurance that these two normal young persons are going to cap a joyous romance with a perfectly good marriage and live happy ever after, until death or Reno does them part.

The finished work of Miss Lillian Elliott, as the old maid aunt, is a triumph of comedy; Miss Florence Oberle is a past master at trouble making, and James K. Applebee as the Svengali of the attraction, hypnotizes the audience, if he fails with his subjects.

The dialogue between the two sweethearts in the first act is a little long and contains the only lame lines in the piece. The Intermission between the first and second acts is a trifle extended, but it takes some minutes to convert a ship at sea into a first-class mountain resort with plenty of visible background, an imaginary country village and a night clerk like Forrest Stanley. It may be, of course, that they are waiting for Stanley to get the courage to sing and to admit to his guests that the town is dry.

AUDITORIUM.

Tonight at the Auditorium there will be a "welcoming home" of Isobel Carol, better known to her many friends as Isabella Curl, who has just returned from Italy, and wishes to let her Los Angeles friends know of the splendid success she has made in both concert and operatic work. The Gamut and Dominant clubs are vying in adding interest to this concert and have taken blocks of seats. Miss Curl will go on a concert tour of Southern California immediately following her appearance in this city.

The Luck of Authors.

[Philadelphia Public Ledger:] There seems to be no infallible gauge of the public fancy. He who could tell in advance what direction the veering "wind of fashionable doctrine" will take would reap a fortune. Take, for instance, the songs that have made a "hit." The publishers of "Listen to the Mocking Bird" made $1,000,000 from the ballad alone. "The Rosary" brings the widow of its composer $1000 a month in royalties. Of "The Merry Widow" waltz 2,000,000 copies have been sold in Europe, and in less than two years $400,000 worth of scores of the tuneful operetta was purchased in this country ere it was done to death. Sousa and Victor Herbert have put their fingers so precisely on the public pulse that they enjoy princely incomes.

In literature, too, a few have drawn the lottery prizes, and left the rank and file agape with envy. Robert W. Chambers enjoys a "magnate's" income because he has found what most people want and gives it to them. But how could the publishers of "Qued" or—to go back a few years—of "Trilby" tell in advance that these novels would make what a miner calls a "lucky strike?" "Ben-Hur" knocked in vain at the doors of thirteen publishers, and "David Harum" was rejected by more than twenty.

ABORIGINAL MUSIC MOTIFS.

People's Orchestra's Fine Interpretation of Beethoven's "Prometheus," "Habanera" and "Dagger Song" from Victor Herbert's "Natoma" and "The Race Mother."

BY HECTOR ALLIOT.

Hans S. Linne's "Indian Suite," played by the People's Orchestra for the first time anywhere, yesterday afternoon, was worth going a long way to hear. It is an admirable contribution to modern American musical composition.

The orchestra gave as a first number the overture to the unique "Prometheus" of Beethoven, written by the master as incidental to a ballet, a remarkably strong number wherein are reflected three of his most celebrated symphonies with parts of his "Pastoral" and "Heroic" compositions included in the celebrated overture.

In the delightful little book, "Cactus and Pine," Miss Sharlot M. Hall, poet and historian of Arizona, included one of her best poems, "The Race Mother."

"At Sunrise I saw her, the woman eternal, the Race Mother.
and behind her the forest."

Charles Farwell Edson has composed the music to that heroic song, his best and most serious composition; he read the poem with orchestral accompaniment and the audience applauded both the reader and the composer.

Victor Herbert's "Habanera" and "Dagger Song," from his California opera, "Natoma," were given with Weber's "Jubel Overture" as the last number. For the musical student, this work is of great importance, as it stands, in the German school, for the type of composition which bridges the gap between Beethoven and Wagner.

The most interesting number, however, was Linne's "Indian Suite." The composer is well known in musical circles here and abroad, as an able and resourceful conductor of light and comic operas.

For the enthusiastic admirer of primitive music, it looked doubtful that one so closely associated with farcical phases of music could have even approached aboriginal themes with understanding, let alone with the respect due these first and natural expressions of the red man.

Linne is only a comic opera conductor, by the chance of his musical environment; he is a thoughtful and able composer, a little ahead of his time, a very dangerous thing these days. Incidentally comic opera directorship pays and flights into the realm of American music to be, does not.

"Indian Suite" is, and time will demonstrate that it will rank among the first and the best modern interpretations of aboriginal themes. It is not a studio-constructed symphony, with some more or less known Indian themes sewed with white threads like is common practice among most would-be western composers. Linne, visiting the Omahas, the Dakotas and the Arapahoes, became profoundly impressed with the simple emotions of their primitive culture, as any musician would. Before undertaking his work, however, he obtained the aid of the great archeologist, Miss Alice B. Fletcher, whose monumental work on the Omahas stands as the most important contribution to the history of a tribe.

From the lullaby wherein the squaw appeals to the "Kava Calumets"—the golden eagle fetiches—and calls on Tirawa—the animating power—to protect her new-born papoose, in its cradle, to the death of the grown up man consecrated warrior-hero among the beautified "Nu-do-hongas," demi-gods of the Arapahoe's pantheism, Mr. Linne has respected all the themes as they still linger among the remnants of the three great nations of the Northwest.

The "Indian Suite" begins with the "Cradle Song," a heroic chant of the priests and women, the second movement is a beautiful scherzo, with the epic Mikahi—the war-song—as a background; the third is the Dakota's squaw motherly vow to the great god of thunder, which comes again as an inspiration to the "Nu-do-honga" in his hour of trial and doubt. The horns, cellos and cors d'Anglais take up in the fourth movement the "mother's vow," and renew the hero's courage in his hour of victory and death.

The respect for the themes of the passing Dakotas is most commendable; they appear in all the power and beauty of the original; with remarkable skill the composer has surrounded them with a modern virile garland of modern yet appropriate music.

WIGS AND THEIR COST.

Their Construction Is Prescribed by Unwritten Law, and They Must Be Paid for by Their Wearers.

[Tit Bits] The long vacation over, British barristers and other officials at the law courts will again don their wigs, of different sizes and shapes, according to the position held by the wearer.

The shape and construction of a wig, the number of curls on it, or the lack of them, are prescribed by unwritten law. From the "full-bottom" dress wig of the high court judge, down to the much less imposing headgear of the "junior," the shape and size of every one of them, and they vary considerably, show to what position in the law the wearer has attained.

The wig of the high court judge, with the side flaps, falling over the shoulders in front, and adorned with rows of curls in plenty, is made of fine bleached horse hair, and costs from £15 to £20.

Judges presiding over lower courts wear correspondingly shorter wigs—called in the legal profession "bog wigs." The cost is from £5 to £10.

The wig worn by a criminal judge is distinguished from that of the judge of a civil court by a small patch of black hair set in the top.

The wig of an ordinary barrister has two little longitudinal curls over each ear; that of a king's counsel has three rows over each ear. It is but seldom that a barrister is allowed to speak unless he is wearing his wig and his gown.

FOR WOMEN AND MEN.

Facts, Features and Fancies.

BY OLIVE GRAY.

DAILY BEAUTY HINT: A Broadway beauty specialist tells me that she knows the moment she handles the hair whether a woman is in good health. She has, in fact, advised several who were unaware of the insidious inroads of disease, to consult a physician and by doing so in time, they were enabled to prevent chronic ill health. Did you ever realized that the hair was such a barometer of one's physical condition? I had not.

Children have come into fashion!

The finest and greatest hotel in New York City has made every arrangement for the good health, the happiness and the entertainment of the children of its guests.

It is a kindergarten which embodies the very latest fads, including the Montessori method, knowledge will be carefully inculcated and all toys are positively germ-proof. The floor, too, is to be headed, so one can be padded so as to be headproof, too, and all the sears and scares have been carefully extracted from the fairy tale illustrations which adorn the bounding walls of the nursery.

Busy society mothers check their children in there when leaving their apartment for the day, and call for them upon return, feeling happily in the assurance that their little charges upon the entire day's doings which beset them, their children will be safe from contamination of all sorts, social as well as physical; since none but the very elect of the finest and most fashionable.

Fashion's attendants will see that the children are constantly entertained and nothing interferes with their development or their happiness. Thus all the quarrels which are the pathway of childhood under the old-time regime will be done away with—but say! Do you suppose it is possible to have things TOO nice? I have been trying to decide whether I would exchange the incidents of my own recollection, for those germ-proof, bump-proof, scare-proof ones and do you know, I actually sort of treasure the fond memory of several tumbles from the hay loading which I acquired in attempts to "fly like other boys" and that I scarcely believe it would have been half as worth while to live for the purpose of swimming in a perfectly neat, germ-proof pool as it was to join the other children in their surreptitious trips to the muddy swimming hole heavily harbored the terrible sucker" and the water moccasin we fondly thought would get us if we didn't watch out. I recall with what thrilling shivers the cold stories of goblins whose presence were nightly worse than the previous one, and how we gwakked in the morning to see, in the dim light of the darkened room, strange forms crouching beside the furniture. I cannot help feeling doubtful whether the pile of sand freshly with the primness each morning in the place of the rich and delicious pies, baked in broken bits of which loom lusciously in my memory; but I suppose the world is better now, even though it moves not as it plunges forward.

Beautiful as Dresden ware also, and presenting many novel-shapes of the pieces shown, is the collection which has just been received by a Broadway jewelry house, no better as Christmas gifts than these imported ware. From the latest piece to the most glorious creation of its line, each article is a thing of beauty which is certain to be a joy forever.

Hints in Christmas Greetings.

Instead of a double card of finest quality paper which portrays your home, your interior or its garden and some of the house. Upon another leaf is engraved the greeting from you to your friend.

It is thus that you acquire this novel and individual greeting card. You furnish to the firm a small photograph of your abode and it is then enamelled to fit the card and is tinted in the natural colorings of trees, lawn, flowers and of the house itself. Is it not charming to be able to send to your eastern friends and to your family left behind an exact presentation of your California home, together with a holiday sentiment?

In order to secure these souvenirs in time for Christmas, you must give orders within the next ten days.

Live Christmas Trees.

More and more is it becoming the custom to use living trees for Christmas, and I, for one, hail the change.

I think we all love a Christmas tree and yet those who are fond of trees, in a human sort of way, dislike to have them destroyed.

To purchase the Christmas tree in a capacious tub, with all its roots undisturbed in the soil, and to use it for hanging the gifts and then after the holiday is over, to institute a sort of arbor day, when the happy bit of greenery which has served its pleasant turn in the merrymaking, may continue to give delight for generations to come, is according to my notion, far better than to detract from the beauty of the world's growing greenery. Somehow I always hurts me when I see, thrown away and withered, upon a rubbish heap, a tree which should by right be evergreen.

Home Prophesy.

"A prophet who is honored at home" is the title of an article in Vogue, in regard to Paul Poiret, the world-renowned creator of feminine modes. It is stated that the utmost simplicity is the rule of dress with Madame Poiret, who honors her husband's ideals in dress. The pictures of Madame Poiret show no distended minaret tunics and no queerly shaped "harem effects" such as are accredited to the great artist.

Can the Corset Keep Up?

I have sometimes wondered how long the makers of corsets would be able to keep up with the changing modes of dress.

Would it not be a joke on the corsetieres if women really took the "uncorsetted" fad seriously and went the "uncorsetted effect" one better by just discarding the "formers" altogether? If this were to occur, the makers of corsets would be obliged to turn food specialists or swimming masters or physical culturists, as there would surely be great need of a limitless supply of these, to produce the proper form for women, if all artificial distenders and pretenders were thrown aside.

Extra Wide.

Bath-robe flannel in extra width and for less in price, is an opportune offering of a Broadway house. There are cords to match and by the purchase of these and a few seams deftly sewed any woman may save money in the preparation of the Christmas gift for Him.

Fashion Smiles Upon.

Linings have no place in fashion's scheme. The sheerest of nets, organdies and chiffons are made up without linings.

The top boot is the sensation of Paris. It allows the skirt to be cut up, because, with the boot, which reaches to the knee, no disclosure is made.

The chic, long-belted, loose-backed, three-quarter coats worn over flounced skirts give a somewhat voluminous proportion to the dainty wearer.

Tailored suits display a half-straight, slight-draped skirt. Some simply have the wide pocket-affected hips and show a clinging fashion about the hem.

There is a loose sac outer garment that shows little of the new and eccentric silhouette. This loose, semi-fitting coat rivals the short, dapper cutaway coats.

The new tailored suits have waistcoats; sashes, all possible modifications of the tunic, side lines and seams and trimmings of embroidery, buttons and fur are prominent.

Favorite shades are rich dahlia, garnet and current reds and brilliant myrtle, bottle and bronze greens, browns in a golden hue. Sable and seal browns rival taupe and elephant gray.

CHICAGO MAN SLAYS HIMSELF.

Busch Sunken Gardens Are to Be Maintained.

Pastor Explains Why People Do Not Attend Church.

PASADENA, Nov. 10.—Frank Warner of No. 328 Bellefontaine street, son of the late Ezera J. Warner of the Sprague-Warner Company, one of the largest wholesale grocery firms in Chicago, and himself a well-known man, both there and here, committed suicide at his home early yesterday morning. He was found dead by his housekeeper. He had turned on the gas and laid down with his face near the escape.

The act is attributed to ill health. Warner had been sick for several years and it is believed by his relatives that he took his life as the result of melancholia. He was a native of Illinois, was 43 years of age and leaves a widow. She is now in Chicago, in which city she arrived but a short time ago, after making a trip to Europe. The couple had two sons, now both deceased.

Warner had been a resident of Pasadena for about fifteen years. He has never taken an active part in the management of the large concern with which he was identified. He leaves, besides a widow, two brothers, Ezra J. Warner, Jr., and Harold Warner, both of Chicago, who now manage the Warner interests of the firm, and two sisters, Mrs. A. A. McCormick of Chicago, and Mrs. J. L. Mothershead of No. 721 St. John avenue, this city.

The body is at the mortuary of Turner & Stevens. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

PLANS STILL UNCERTAIN.

E. H. Lockwood of No. 590 East Colorado street, who went to St. Louis to attend the funeral of the late Adolphus Busch, returned home on the Santa Fe limited yesterday. He went from St. Louis to Chicago and also visited his son, Herbert H. Lockwood, who is a student at Yale.

Lockwood declared last night that so far as he knows there will be no change in the Busch Gardens here and says he expects that Mrs. Busch and other members of the family will come to the city this winter. As to their plans, with reference to the gardens, he was not able to give any definite information, as he says, the matter had not been discussed at the time he left St. Louis.

It was the announced intention of Mr. and Mrs. Busch to come to Pasadena to make their permanent home after spending the past summer in Germany, and there is much interest here over whether Mrs. Busch will now make her home in the city, and, if not, what disposition will be made of the famous sunken gardens that surround the house.

SCORES THE STAY-AWAYS.

As a companion sermon for one which he preached several weeks ago on "Some Causes for a Waning Pulpit," Rev. L. Potter Hitchcock, pastor of the Neighborhood Church, yesterday morning spoke on "Some Causes for a Waning Pew." He said in part:

"Would you like to have your pastor tell you frankly just what is the trouble with many an occupant of the pew and many an individual who has almost forgotten what a pew feels like. It is this: they have lost their religion, or the greater portion of it, and the church today is weakened because of their neglect.

"How long do you think that the manager of a great business house could keep his footing, and his institution out of bankruptcy, if his merchandise did not come up to the standard, and if his clerks were not delivering the goods? Why, that is what he is in business for. How long think you can a pastor keep his footing, and his church stay out of the spiritual bankruptcy, if the spiritual product falls below the standard, and the pew, through listlessness, is not delivering the goods? And that is just what we are in the King's business for."

GOOD ROADS MOVEMENT.

Imperial Chamber of Commerce Appoints Special Commissioner to Enlist Aid of Other Cities.

IMPERIAL, Nov. 9.—At a meeting of the Imperial City Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon, City Engineer I. B. Funk was chosen as a special road commissioner to act for the Chamber of Commerce in urging better and more improved roads in the county. He was instructed to ask all other commercial bodies in the county to affiliate in this movement.

In urging the necessities for better roads Mr. Funk quoted figures showing that if the county had just fifty-four miles of macadamized roads, the mileage contemplated in this movement, it would save $100,000 in the cost of hauling freight, and save another $100,000 in the wear and tear of automobiles every year. It was the further sense of the meeting that in case the county Board of Supervisors failed to take action on the road proposition the Chamber of Commerce will itself form a good roads district, and, by bonding the district, do the road work itself.

CIVIC IMPROVEMENTS.

At the meeting of the Imperial City Board of Trustees a resolution of intention to call an election on the propositions to improve the sewer systems of the city and installing a municipal electric light and power plant was passed. At the next meeting of the Council it is expected that an ordinance will be passed for the election, which will go into effect in thirty days afterward. The Trustees at this meeting also discussed a proposition to plant trees along all of the residence streets. The plan will likely carry, as all the Councilmen favored it, and an ordinance calling for an election on this proposition will be included in the election for sewer and light. Plans for the municipal electric light plant include an expenditure of $40,000. The estimated cost of the water system improvement is about $29,000, and the sewer extension will cost about $6000.

MT. RINCON IS SWEPT BY BLAZE.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

CARPINTERIA, Nov. 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mt. Rincon which rises abruptly from the sea, presented the specter of a huge torch at sundown tonight and up to a late hour was still ablaze.

The fire is supposed to have started in a canyon the result of carelessness on the part of some unknown hunters. It broke out about 1 o'clock this afternoon and ran over the top of the mountain, being at the summit as the sun disappeared and presenting a novel spectacle. As the vegetation on the side of the mountain is sparse the fire followed the small canyon to the top and did not spread on this side. On the other side of the mountain there is little vegetation and it is expected that the blaze will die out.

ELECTIONS ARE FASHIONABLE.

One Hundred Young Women File Applications.

SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 9.—Bond issues will be the order in this city for the next few months.

On December 17 will be held the county bond election, also an election for voting bonds in the sum of $200,000 for the Polytechnic High School.

Following that, in a few weeks, the city administration will call a bond election for probably about $150,000 for the purchase of a site and construction of a City Hall, the purchase of a new park site for one portion of the city now having no park facilities, and probably also, for the construction of a municipal car line to the northwestern district. The various propositions will probably be segregated.

Then, in the spring, it is expected still another bond issue will be worked out for the acquiring of a distributing system for a municipal lighting system, the plan now being to purchase the "juice" in quantities from the large power companies, the same as many other cities now do with success.

With the advent of the through lines of the Pacific Electric, the city is looking forward to a season of great prosperity and growth during the coming year.

NEGRO CAPTURED.

The man hunt in the Cucamonga hills resulted in the capture last night of Joe Dixon, who must face a murder charge for killing William Robinson, both being negroes. The feud between the two men dates back to four years ago in New Orleans, when they had trouble. They had been following each other about the country since that time. Dixon was captured by a posse in a canyon back of Cucamonga after eluding the officers several hours.

Robinson died on the operating table, being punctured with three bullets. The men had a fight Friday night, when Robinson took a knife away from his assailant. Dixon left the camp and returned yesterday with a gun, which finished the job.

GIRLS WANT TO JOIN.

More than 100 young women, largely of the class employed in stores and shops, have signified their desire to become members of the Young Women's Christian Association. This expression will probably result in steps being taken to put the new organization on a working basis at once. The property donated as a site for the association at Fifth street and Arrowhead avenue, will be transferred to the association within a few days, only legal formalities delaying. A downtown noonday restroom will be opened for young women, while a little later it is probable a cafeteria lunch will be opened, as well as classes in physical culture, Bible study and other lines. Miss Etta Agee of Los Angeles is in charge of the work thus far.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Owing to the over-crowded conditions in the city schools, one or two additional bungalow schoolrooms must be built at the Fifth-street school, which is principally for Mexican children. Several temporary structures were erected at the beginning of the school year, but even these have proven inadequate for the continued increase in the schools.

The local Catholic parish is preparing to hold its annual bazaar from November 18 to 22, inclusive. An elaborate programme of interest will be included in this annual event, which always attracts a large attendance.

BOND CAMPAIGN IS ON.

Those Favoring the Big Issue Arrange the Details of Their Battle. Short News Stories.

SOUTH PASADENA, Nov. 9.—The campaign in favor of the water bonds has opened and the Chamber of Commerce Bond Committee is arranging for a series of meetings to be held within the week. The first public meeting will be Wednesday evening, November 12, at the Marengo-avenue school house, at which meeting there will appear several prominent local speakers. On Thursday evening there will be a public meeting in Ong's Hall for the voters of the third and fourth precincts. On Friday evening, November 14, the voters of the fifth precinct will hold an open meeting at the High School. This meeting will be presided over by G. W. Lawyer, and the principal speaker of the evening will be Mrs. Frank Stephens, president of the Women's Improvement Association and Bruce L. Crowe. Meetings will be held in various places from now until November 20, the date of the water bond election.

Among the local prominent men to speak at the various meetings are Rev. R. A. Torrey, Dudley W. Robinson, who recently handed in his resignation as Deputy United States Attorney, following a disagreement with United States Attorney Schoonover; Bruce L. Crowe, John C. Stick, Bert F. Mull, William Haslett, Jonathan S. Dodge, president of the First National Bank of South Pasadena and of the Cawston Ostrich Farm; also Mrs. Frank A. Stephens, president of the Women's Improvement Association. The Board of Trustees will also attend each meeting for the purpose of explaining any matter that may come up for discussion.

The 776 newly registered voters are proving an important factor in the campaign and their vote will largely determine the outcome of the water bonds issue which is being submitted the second time to the voters.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The men's evening given by the Women's Improvement Association last evening in their new clubhouse was a decided success. One hundred guests were entertained and the club house was thrown open for the examination of all. The principal feature of the evening was the illustrated talk on the "Panama Canal," given by C. G. Johnson of Los Angeles. Johnson visited the canal and while there made a thorough investigation of it, and the pictures, some of which he took himself, assisted materially in giving the audience a clear understanding of this most interesting project. Informal reception was held the women of the club acting as hostesses.

Junior Civic Leagues will be organized in all the schools of South Pasadena, according to plans made by Mrs. G. F. Tapper, who held a meeting of the committee of the Women's Improvements Association, which was appointed to look after this work. Although the real work of the league is to be left to the pupils of the school, the women will oversee it and watch results closely. Mrs. E. E. Thompson was appointed to establish a league in the Lincoln Park school, Miss Jennie Kennedy in the Orange Grove, Mrs. C. C. Hansen, the El Centro, and Mrs. G. F. Tapper the Marengo. Such a league was organized last year in the Lincoln Park school under the direction of Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, the principal, and it did excellent work.

The Los Angeles lodge will bring about thirty-five candidates with them, upon whom will be conferred the rank of page.

The local Knights of Pythias hall is not large enough to accommodate all of the visitors, accordingly, the Fraternal Aid Theater has been engaged and the auditorium has been elaborately decorated for the occasion, under the direction of K. K. Fritz. Refreshments will be provided for the evening by the Pythian Sisters, and D. Arbuthnot is chairman of the Refreshment Committee. Harry Williams is chairman of the Reception Committee.

Superintendent of Schools W. R. Murphy, High School Principal Reynolds, A. J. Pirdy, superintendent of the manual arts department, Miss Clara Brown, superintendent of kindergartens, and Miss Orena Frost, comprising the Committee of Arrangements for the teachers' institute to be held in Pomona, December 15, 16 and 17, are busy completing plans for the event. Prominent educators will address the meetings.

The Coroner's jury in the case of the late Clifford Williams, the young Welch college graduate who fell from a freight train here and died from having his legs cut off, brought in a verdict of accidental death. Williams recently worked for the Cunningham, Curtis, Welsh Company of Los Angeles, and some of the employees of the store, where he was a general favorite, attended to the burial of the deceased. Rev. Albert P. Davis officiated at the funeral here.

The funeral of the late John E. Nelson will be held at the family home on North Palomares street on Monday afternoon, and interment will be in Pomona cemetery. The deceased was 30 years old and besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Nelson, is survived by five brothers and three sisters.

The local Ministerial Union has arranged for union Thanksgiving services, to be held on Thanksgiving Day at the First Baptist Church. Rev. Arthur P. Davis, pastor of the Congregational Church, will deliver the annual sermon and the music will be in charge of the musical director of the Baptist Church.

BAND GIVES FINAL CONCERT.

Strong Musical Organization at Sawtelle Ends a Successful Season. Sunday-school Workers Hold Rally.

SAWTELLE, Nov. 9.—Hundreds of people attended the farewell concert of the Sawtelle Municipal Band, given in City Park, last evening. The band, which is made up entirely of local musicians, numbered thirty men, and played a programme of special-request numbers. Mrs. Maude Dickens, soprano, sang, and responded to two encores. Musical Director Arthur Yeager, whose efforts have brought the work of the band to a high standard, was the recipient of a gold Masonic watch fob, beautifully engraved, the gift of appreciative citizens. Mayor C. H. Wyant made the presentation speech.

The band was organized last spring and opened the concert season in June, giving weekly concerts. A splendid modern band stand was erected and seats for the public provided.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Sunday-school workers of Sawtelle and the Bible schools of neighboring communities, met in the First Methodist Church for an enthusiastic rally, Friday evening. Prominent officers of the Christian missions of Southern California were on the programme and gave addresses on vital subjects. The delegates gave a torchlight procession on the principal streets, keeping step to rousing rally songs.

Preliminary steps for the paving of Oregon avenue, the petition for which came to the City Council last Monday evening, are being taken by City Attorney W. H. Bowers and City Engineer J. L. Kiler. City Attorney Bowers is working out a plan of general assessment under which each property owner in the city will bear a share in the expense of the improvement proportionate to the benefits he will receive. Oregon avenue forms a link of the Santa Monica boulevard, the shortest route from Los Angeles to Santa Monica. This boulevard is now improved for its entire length, with the exception of the portion lying in Sawtelle.

Members of the Sawtelle baseball team, which has met with but one defeat out of ten games played, were presented with new uniforms by Street Contractor David E. Joy. In appreciation of the gift, the team has taken the name of the Sawtelle Joys.

Great interest in the securing of Owens River water is being shown by citizens. The Sawtelle Commercial Club has taken up the matter and a committee from the club, made up of Mayor C. H. Wyant, Attorney A. B. Ritchey and R. C. Ewing, will arrange to have members of the Municipal Annexation Commission of Los Angeles address a public meeting in Sawtelle. Citizens are desirous to learn what is necessary to secure the aqueduct water, that they may decide whether or not Sawtelle should obtain it. The meeting will be held in the rooms of the Commercial Club and representatives from the beach cities of Venice and Santa Monica have expressed their desire to attend.

Long Beach.

Long Beach Primary Election Is Due Tuesday.

Veteran Politicians Hesitate to Forecast the Result.

Signal Hill Home Burglarized of Valuables.

LONG BEACH, Nov. 9.—A two weeks' whirlwind campaign by friends of forty-eight candidates for various offices in the municipality came practically to an end last night, and today the forces are resting, preparatory for the final effort tomorrow, to win votes for the candidates at the primaries Tuesday. The Whealton campaign club, which is making a strong fight for the election of Louis N. Whealton for Mayor, will hold a final rally at the Forum tomorrow night, when the candidate, who is one of the leaders of the civic reform movement, will make his final summing up of the faults and failures of the present administration.

This has been a peculiar political campaign and the most adept of political statisticians are not brave enough to make predictions. Old party lines have been rent asunder and there is a new alignment, the relative strength of which is problematical.

In both new factions, however, there is the same common purpose—to rid themselves of the present administration, which seems to have failed. Out of the incumbents of the Mayoralty and Councilmanic chairs, but one man was rescued, Councilman Victor B. Humphreys, who was selected as Mayor by a committee of sixty men of the old charter and independent parties, with a view of eliminating politics and especially the liquor question, from the campaigns.

"More business and less politics," was their slogan, but the hand-picked method of selecting Humphreys and his Councilmanic ticket, did not please all the people, who are, this year given the first opportunity of making their own choices by means of the primaries, and a strong opposition developed, resulting in the candidacy of L. N. Whealton and John H. Betts to oppose Humphreys for Mayor and about eleven additional candidates for Council. The other offices are also eagerly sought by from three to seven men, and the scattered vote they will receive will probably necessitate the regular election in December.

So far as the head of the ticket is concerned, however, it is conceded that the primary on Tuesday will be decisive, as Betts is not considered in the running and the most of his vote will be drawn from the Humphrey faction. A peculiar feature of the campaign is that the fusion candidates are united and have given their friends to understand that they do not want the votes of their personal friends unless those friends can vote the entire ticket, as selected by the Fusion Committee.

"Whole hog or none" is their slogan. Until the past two days the campaign has been remarkably clean, but in the closing hours some unpleasantness has arisen by sly insinuations and slurs, all bearing the brand of the old-time narrow prohibition element, who apparently have no other argument than "whisky," despite the fact that the question of liquor has been settled by charter and cannot be changed by any officials of the city until the people and the Legislature say so.

Taking the interest in the primaries as a good estimate, it is likely that the election Tuesday will show a 75 per cent. vote of the registration, which is about 14,000. The polls in twenty-nine precincts will open at 6 o'clock in the morning and remain open until 7 in the evening.

HOUSE BURGLARIZED.

During the absence from home last night of Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Trumpower, his residence on Signal Hill was entered by burglars and the house well looted of personal belongings, including jewelry, clothing, shoes and feminine finery. About $500 of plunder was taken. T. G. Ayres of Cleveland and Frank Quick of Oakland, who are visiting the family, also lost about $100 each of clothing and jewelry. Two men seen prowling about the house just before dark are being searched for.

BODY UNIDENTIFIED.

In a final effort to establish the identity of the woman whose body was found on the beach five weeks ago, the police are sending out to every police officer in the State additional descriptive information. It is one of the mysteries of the police department which has proven absolutely baffling.

In this final effort to get a clew they have written the makers of the watch found on the body, have investigated the laundry marks on the clothing and called for information on the dealers who handle the special make of shoes she was wearing, but with no result. The aid of the Postoffice Department and a canvass of apartment-houses have been equally unproductive. During the time elapsed since the body was found, there have been no inquiries of any missing woman answering even vaguely the description of the corpse.

NEWS BRIEFS.

E. E. McClellan of this city is the possessor of a document which gives a grant of eighty acres of land in Preble county, Ohio, to his grandfather Samuel McClellan. The grant was made July 2, 1831, and bears the name of Andrew Jackson, President of the United States, and also that of Elijah Haywood, Commissioner of the General Land Office. It is written on sheepskin and bears many marks of its antiquity, chief of which is the old-fashioned double "s" resembling an "f." McClellan says the land is still in possession of members of the family.

The warm weather of today drove people to the beach by the thousands, and the sands took on the appearance of the "good old summer time." The water was delightful and hundreds of bathers took advantage of the day for a dip, many of them just from the East, where the weather is just the opposite of California climate.

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With twenty feet of water in her hold, but no serious damage, the Luckenbach steamship Pleiades, Capt. Harry Armstrong, arrived in port only this morning from her collision with the steamer Thomas L. Wand fifty miles south of the lightship Friday evening. The Pleiades picked up in her side sixteen feet from top to bottom and four feet through which tons of water poured into her hold, the bulkheads keeping it from compartments than the No. 2 hold.

Due to the fact that Lewis Luckenbach, head of the marine department of the Luckenbach Steamship company in San Francisco, imposed strict orders upon Capt. The Wand escaped with but slight damage. The stem was splintered from the bow to the water line and one of the iron nose was twisted out of place.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—A national park, surrounding the volcanoes Kilauea and Mauna Loa, in the territory of Hawaii probably will be established at the coming regular session of Congress, L. A. Thurston, a Hawaiian capitalist and newspaper owner, said here yesterday. Thurston has been in Washington urging the project, and reported that Congressman Julius Kahn of San Francisco will champion the measure in Congress.

CLAIMS HALF LARGE ESTATE.

Mrs. Nace of San Jose Asserts She Was Adopted by the Late Samuel Henery of Stockton.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STOCKTON, Nov. 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Alleging that she is entitled to one-half of the $450,000 estate left by the late Samuel Henery, a local capitalist, Eva Sackett Nace of San Jose, has filed a complaint against Mrs. Mae E. Henery, the widow. The claim of Mrs. Nace to the estate is that Henery and his first wife, who died in 1907, had adopted her as their daughter and had agreed to make her an heir to their property. Elizabeth Andrews, Nan Sackett and Margaret Stevens, sisters of Samuel Henery, are also made defendants in the suit.

The plaintiff alleges she remained in the Henery household for three years and did housework as their daughter. July 11, 1899, the plaintiff married, but she alleges she frequently returned for visits with the Henerys, at times for several weeks, and was received as a daughter. She claims that she nursed Mrs. Henery previous to her death, during the time that Henery and his wife were deprived of the care and association of his sisters and brothers. The plaintiff alleges she was never compensated for her act, other than being received as a daughter. Henery made no will.

CHEYENNE REFITTED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA, Nov. 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After extensive repairs and remodeling covering several months, the monitor Cheyenne, which until early this year was used by the Tacoma naval militia, is now ready to leave Bremerton for Los Angeles and San Diego. She will there become mother boat of the submarine flotilla.

"Her boilers have been re-tubed and new burners installed. Her main deck has been relaid with Washington fir, speedy motor boats have replaced her launches and she is equipped with powerful wireless apparatus. Her boat decks have been re-covered with canvas. She is equipped aft with a powerful derrick for lifting submarine boats for examination and she has two torpedo cranes. Her double bottoms forward have been removed and oil tanks installed. A new sprinkling system for her magazines has been installed.

"The new motor launches are handy craft. She carries two 30-foot sailing launches with engines that will carry them through the water at smart speed, three 35-foot launches that will make seventeen knots and two 31-foot dories."

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

FULLERTON, Nov. 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Union Oil Company, at a depth of 3300 feet, brought in a 5000-barrel gusher on its Graham and Loftus lease tonight. It blew the casing head off and can be heard three miles away. There is a heavy output of gas as well as oil. The well had not been brought under control at a late hour.

DEPUTY SHERIFF SHOT.

Former Convict Sends Bullet Into Would-Be Captor in Idaho and Escapes.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOISE (Idaho) Nov. 9.—When Deputy Sheriff W. C. Clawson located Clarence Roush, a former convict, for whom he had searched three days to serve with a warrant charging him with forgery, Roush was apparently submissive, but when the deputy laid his right hand on him, Roush whipped out a revolver, pressed it to the officer's jaw and fired. Clawson fell but rose before Roush had gotten out of sight and fired three times at him, then dropped unconscious. He is in a serious condition.

Roush is being sought by possemen. Clawson was one of the guards during the sensational Haywood-Moyer trials here.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) Nov. 9.—Vilas Johnson, a commercial traveler who was arrested last night and brought before United States District Judge Neterer, denied that he was guilty of contempt of court and declared he had not applied a term of reproach to the United States grand jury that is trying the navy yard graft cases.

It was alleged that Johnson, while the jurors were entering a hotel dining-room, had said.

Johnson explained to the court that he had said: "There goes the parade." He was released.

Traveler from the Antipodes Describes How the United States Will Benefit by Opening of the Panama Canal and Increase of Trade With His Country.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] J. W. Arthur Kelly of Melbourne, special representative of the government of Victoria, Australia, to the United States to assist in promotion of wider trade relations between this country and the Antipodes, and to secure the services of several men experienced in irrigation work, returned to this city today after a tour of eight months of that section of the United States west of Chicago and of Western Canada and British Columbia. He is awaiting the sailing of the steamer Tahiti next Wednesday for Australia.

Kelly said tonight that the results of his tour had been most gratifying and that, with the aid of the new tariff schedule and the Panama Canal, he expected shortly to see a prodigious increase in the exports from Australia to the United States and a consequent readjustment of the trade balances.

"Undoubtedly we are going to see a much bigger trade between the two countries," he said, "and the boats will be full going each way, instead of returning to America with part cargoes. At present the United States is buying from us, in round numbers, $9,000,000 and is selling us $27,000,000 of products. Now we can send much more to you. Meat and wool will be our staples of export. In America the supply of beef is decreasing and the population is increasing.

"Last year we had 93,000,000 sheep to your 57,000,000 and we had 13,000,000 cattle. Under favorable duties we can send you mutton and beef in unlimited quantities, help keep down the cost of living and at the same time not rob the local producers of meat of a handsome profit. The new tariff will be a big boom to our wool export trade. Last year we exported $160,000,000 worth, but only $3,000,000 of it came to the United States. You will get more of our wool now. We will also send you butter and cheese, pork and poultry in large quantities.

"The benefits of the future are coming to both sides. Australia is a big country, bigger than the United States, and the two countries are destined to be the joint masters of the Pacific. We are not out merely for the trade of today, but also for the trade of the future. We are just beginning to invite immigrants, and we will want American products in increasing values. Last year we bought 25,000 automobiles in America and on the Tahiti, Wednesday, a large cargo of Pacific Coast apples will go to Australia, notwithstanding that Australia exported millions of bushels of apples last year.

"The opening of the canal will also help, for it bring the East Coast of the United States one-quarter nearer Melbourne. We are completing the last section of our 5000-mile transcontinental railroad, and that will increase the mobility of our transportation facilities.

"Since being in this country I have discovered that the people of Australia are deeply interested in the Panama-Pacific Exposition. I have received hundreds of requests for information about it. I am hoping that the Federal government of Australia will early take up the matter of official participation. It will be a great advertising medium for our products."

Kelly has visited most of the commercial bodies of the central and western States, as well as the southern and northern sections, and says that many of them are planning to send committees to Australia to investigate conditions there and to further the general campaign for an increase in the trade of the two countries.

USES HIS OLD GUN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OROVILLE, Nov. 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The body of John W. Cox, one of the earliest pioneers of this section, was found in his cabin at Forbestown today, with a gaping bullet wound in his head. Beside the body lay his old muzzle-loading rifle, the same trusty gun that he used in fighting the Indians when he made the trip across the plains in 1849.

For some time the aged man had been suffering from dropsy and relatives had planned to take him to a sanatorium for treatment. However, he was opposed to leaving his old home in which he had lived for over a quarter of a century and decided that he would die rather than enter a sanatorium.

The lure of gold brought him to California and he has followed the occupation of mining ever since. Soon after coming to this State he settled at Forbestown, which was then one of the largest mining camps, and has lived there ever since.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—A young woman found wandering early yesterday on the Oakland Mole was identified later by friends as Miss Permilith Kaufman of Pittsburgh, who had disappeared from the home of her sister, Mrs. Charles Hawes, of Berkeley. WOMAN SUFFERED TEN YEARS

Auburn, N. Y.—"I suffered from nervousness for ten years, and had such organic pains that sometimes I would lie in bed four days at a time, could not eat or sleep and did not want anyone to talk to me or bother me at all. Sometimes I would suffer for seven hours at a time. Different doctors did the best they could for me until four months ago I began giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and now I am in good health."—Mrs. WILLIAM H. GILL, 15 Pleasant Street, Auburn, New York.

"Doctor's Daughter Took It."

St. Cloud, Minn.—"I was so run down by overwork and worry that I could not stand it to have my children talk aloud or walk heavy on the floor. One of my friends said, 'Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for I know a doctor's daughter here in town who takes it and she would not take it if it were not good.'

"I sent for the Compound at once and kept on taking it until I was all right."—Mrs BERTHA M. QUICKSTADT, 727 5th Avenue, S., St. Cloud, Minn.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be relied upon as the most efficient remedy for female ills. Why don't you try it?

RECEPTION TO CHURCH.

FRESNO, Nov. 9.—The blowing of whistles and shrieks of sirens mingled with the strains from two brass bands greeted Congressman Denver S. Church on his return to Fresno last night. A committee of several hundred Fresnans of all political parties greeted Church at the depot, from which an automobile parade wound through the streets to Courthouse Park, where the Congressman delivered a brief speech of appreciation. A banquet attended by the principal business men of the city was held at the Hotel Fresno, at which many business, political and fraternal organizations were represented by prominent members. The success of Congressman Church inh his fight for the interest of dried fruit and wine men of this section was in part the reason for his reception.

RECORDS IN EATING.

One Man Ate Twenty-two Eggs, Another Ten Pounds of Meat, and a Farmer Half a Bushel of Walnuts.

[New York Sun:] Champion fried egg eater of the Berkshires was the title of Louis Morris, of Housatonic, before he entered in a recent egg-eating contest on a wager. He had a record of 22 eggs, and the wager was on his contention that he could easily increase this record to 25. When he reached 17 eggs he was seized by an attack of acute indigestion, and a doctor worked over him for an hour before he was restored to consciousness and pronounced out of danger. He also has a record of 54 ears of green corn.

At the beefsteak dinners of many political clubs astounding records are made in the consumption of viands. Some of those who take part think nothing of eating 10 and 12 pounds of meat at the sitting. At one clambake held at College Point recently, eight baskets of food were eaten by one diner. This basket included a leg and breast of a chicken, 25 clams, 2 ears of corn, and 4 potatoes. This record is declared accurate and authentic, and is posted up in an East Side clubroom.

A Rhode Island farmer has a record of half a bushel of walnuts, of which he was extraordinarily fond. He used half a small bag of salt while eating them. A New Jersey blacksmith, on a recent wager, ate nearly a peck and a half of cherries. He said he could go on eating "forever," as he put it, but those who witnessed his feast declared they had seen enough to prove the eater a wonder. A Chicago man, inordinately fond of mush and milk, lived on it for a week not long ago, eating four great bowlfuls of it three times a day.

The Times is the only newspaper in Los Angeles that does not make a practice of permitting agents, newsboys and dealers to return unsold copies of its issue. Neither does it misbrand or predate its editions, or inflate its circulation by printing more copies than are actually necessary to supply its patrons.

The Times' entire circulation is practically net, and it is more genuine and superior in every respect to that of any other newspaper.

CLARKDALE, MODEL TOWN.

Entire Place Is Planned on Modern Lines.

Big Smelting Plant Will Employ Many Men.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) Nov. 8.—One of the model towns of the United States is being constructed at Clarkdale and is to be practically complete when needed by its population, a date still about a year in the future. The town will wholly be owned by the Clarkdale Improvement Company, in which the main stockholder is former Senator W. A. Clark of Montana, principal stockholder in the United Verde Copper Company, which is building at Clarkdale an immense smelting plant to handle the ores now reduced at Jerome.

No ground will be sold and all buildings needed will be erected by the company, which will lease them for enough to pay the expense of maintaining the town and return interest on the investment. The company will police the town, will establish all streets, sidewalks and sewers and will supply light, water and power. Nothing but fireproof buildings will be erected. Business men will be welcomed and even now may lease locations and have built for them structures upon practically their own plans. There will be no city taxes and all county and State taxes will be paid by the corporation, except upon personal property. A cemetery has been laid out and will be fenced and beautified, as well as playgrounds and parks. Water will be from mountain springs, under heavy pressure and of the purest quality.

A large hotel is to be built, to be leased to some capable boniface. Two applications already have been made for bank locations. The company will exercise its own judgment concerning the location of the several kinds of businesses, each to be placed where it will be most appropriate. Railroad facilities already include a forty-two-mile broad-gauge line to a connection with the Santa Fe, Prescott and Phoenix, at a point south of Ash Fork.

An electric line seven miles long will connect the new town with Jerome. The latter will continue, probably as large and prosperous as at present. Though losing the smelter, the additional number of miners required to feed the new works may even serve to increase the population. While Clarkdale will primarily be a smelter town, such as Douglas in the southern part of the State, it will have added resources in the fact that it is near the center of the rich Verde Valley, and near to many readily accessible points of scenic interest. It is also believed that the railroad will be extended southward to other mining districts, which may furnish additional ore supplies for the town's furnaces.

BOOSTS THE CITY.

The Prescott Chamber of Commerce is receiving many congratulations upon the success of the Northern Arizona fair, which is now assured as a permanent institution. The organization is taking up a number of other subjects of local benefit, such as the listing of mining properties for sale, and the protection of mining investors against imposition. Attention is being given to the establishment of a Young Men's Christian Association in Prescott and support is being extended to a movement for the building of a new Courthouse, the old structure being insecure and even dangerous. An attempt was made to secure for Prescott the next meeting of the American dry-farming congress, which went, however, to Wichita, Kan. Secretary Malcolm A. Fraser of the Chamber of Commerce represented Arizona at the dry-farming congress, lately closed at Tulsa, Okla.

The Prescott City Council has entered into an agreement for the purchase of the Thorbeck ranch on Banning Creek, together with its valuable water rights, for the gross sum of $27,500, to be paid for by the purchase of water from springs at the rate of 10 cents for 1000 gallons, until the aggregate amounts to the sum named. The city is the owner of large springs at Del Rio, about twenty miles to the northward, but the Del Rio system is very expensive both in operation and maintenance.

FLAGSTAFF WATER SUPPLY.

A long-standing dispute between the city of Flagstaff and the Santa Fe Railroad Company, has been finally settled by the agreement of the railroad company to construct an addition to the town water service system, estimated to cost $162,000. This will include an additional concrete storage reservoir, with 50,000,000 gallon capacity and the construction of a new eight-inch pipe line. When these have been completed, title to them and to a large spring in the San Francisco Mountains is to be turned over to the city. The railroad company is to be given the right to use not more than 6,200,000 gallons of water a month and to purchase additional water at the rate of 8 cents per 1000 gallons, when additional water is available.

The great Perrin ranch of about 300,000 acres, near Williams, has been leased by W. M. Hughes of Madera, Cal. Hughes has moved his family to Williams and will establish upon his new holdings one of the greatest cattle ranches of the Southwest.

Several months ago E. H. Douglas deserted his wife and family at Seligman. He was later arrested at Beaumont, Tex., and returned to Prescott, where he has spent five weeks in the County Jail. Douglas has just been released with the distinct understanding that he will provide well for his family and will reimburse the county for $300 expenditures on his case. The District Attorney believes that the man's intentions are now of the best and has permitted him to leave with his family for Southern California.

OLD JUDGE LYNCH.

From Williams have come threats of the organization at that point of a vigilance committee to check thefts of cattle and the robbery of country ranches. There is a suggestion that the hanging of a few of the thieves might be a salutary lesson to their kind.

John Roach, one of the best-known pioneers of Arizona, was found dead last Tuesday in his cabin within a short distance of the Pioneers' Home. A jury found he had died of old age. He was far from penniless, as he had on deposit or in cash over $3000. He came to this country in 1882 as a government scout.

Amos Kent, absent from his camp for three days, was found dead in the tunnel of his mine on Slate Creek Saturday by his son. He had fallen from the roof of an upraise and had broken his neck. Though 68 years of age, he had continued active in the development of his claims.

A small epidemic of Malta fever has appeared in Walnut Grove, believed to be due to drinking of goat's milk. The disease is considered a serious one and infectious.

J. F. Holbrook has been appointed receiver for the Ranchers' Trust Company. It is understood that in the five northern Arizona counties subscriptions were received to the company's stock aggregating $300,000. At least 15 per cent. of this was secured in cash by the promoters and this sum will probably be a total loss to the subscribers.

YOU SHOULD FIT IN.

[George Matthew Adams in New Orleans Times-Democrat:] One of the most common traits to the successful man is that of adjustability—the knack of knowing just how to fit in. If misfortune comes along—all right—he immediately fits in. If good fortune shows its nose and then comes to stay—all right—he quickly shakes hands—and fits in.

Fit in.

Fit in—right where you are.

Fit in.

And if you somehow can't fit in, the best possible move for you is to quickly get out from where you are and find some place where you can fit in. A misfit man or woman is a tragedy. A poor worker in a good place is exactly as bad as a good worker in a poor place. There is only one right condition and that is a good worker in a good place.

Fit in.

Many a human allows himself to think that he is a misfit when in reality if he would but carefully think the whole thing out, he would come to realize his folly and change his thinking and become a real fit—perhaps "just the man for the job."

Fit in.

If happenings appear to be against you, fit in anyway. If you happen to be thrown among those of a different race, or temperament, or what not—make this a rule—fit in. For the time being, at least.

Fit in.

Suppose the weather does spoil your plans. Mind not—fit in. No matter what the time or place or circumstance—fit in.

EDUCATION OF SEAMEN.

Secretary Daniels Purposes to Establish Schools on All American Battleships for Teaching of Trades.

[Washington Star:] Secretary Daniels, who recently established at naval training stations a system of instruction for apprentice seamen in common-school studies and advance classes in certain technical branches of the navy, has decided to begin a similar school on board every ship in the navy.

In each division on board a ship the personal needs and wishes of each man and his aptitude will be carefully noted by the division officer, and every man who wishes instruction in any academic or professional subject is to be encouraged, assisted and instructed as far as possible. Classes will be organized under the supervision of the division officers, junior officers acting as instructors.

Secretary Daniels today said his object in establishing those "floating schools" is to encourage every enlisted man to choose some branch or trade which he may follow in the service, and which will fit him for civil life in case he does not re-enlist.

"This system of instruction," Mr. Daniels continued, "ought to convince the people at large that service in the navy is not purely and exclusively military, that the time of the enlisted men is not completely given up to occupations that unfit him for civil pursuits, but that he is the gainer, not only physically and mentally, but in many practical matters that affect his success in life. In other words the new plan is calculated to convince both the men and their next of kin that the navy is in truth a manual training school and that service afloat is an educational advantage to those who enlist."

TESTING CANAL LOCKS.

See Whether They Will Stand the Enormous Pressure of the Ocean Without Leak or Strain.

[New York Times:] The first real test of the locks and gates at the Pacific end of the Panama Canal took place when the second and last dam holding back the Pacific Ocean, was blown up and the waters were allowed to flow slowly up against the Miraflores lock gates.

The water was not allowed to rush in suddenly by any means, and the test is still going on. Neither does the water from the ocean really flow into the canal, for there will never be, at any time, any sea water in the canal at all. All of the water in the canal proper is to be fresh water supplied from Gatun Lake, and the only salt water will be at the entrances, extending as far as Miraflores locks at the Pacific end and to the Gatun locks at the Atlantic end.

However, the entrance of the water from the ocean at both ends is an important matter, for it will show whether or not the great gates are watertight and whether they can withstand the tremendous pressure of the ocean water. As a matter of fact, the Gatun gates have already been tested and found to be absolutely watertight, and the gates at Miraflores are of exactly the same construction.

As has been said, the water to supply the canal and to raise and lower ships in the locks will come from Gatun Lake, a great body of water covering 164 square miles, and being, in fact, a large portion of the canal itself.

The entire length of the canal from deep water in the Atlantic to deep water in the Pacific is about fifty miles. The length, however, from the beginning of fresh water at Gatun locks to the end of fresh water at Miraflores is about thirty-two miles. And this is the actual canal itself. The much talked of Culebra cut is in reality an arm of Gatun Lake.

SLAYS HIMSELF.

WHITTIER, Nov. 9.—S. S. Peters, a wealthy retired farmer, ended his life tonight at the home of his son-in-law, George Blackmore, shooting himself. No reason for his action is known, as he was in good health and his financial affairs were in excellent shape. He was 63 years old and left two married daughters, both residents of Whittier.

THE PACKARD COMPANY OF DETROIT WRITES FOR INFORMATION

A letter has just been received from the east inquiring particularly concerning the Macomber Gas Engine, an invention that is surprising everyone who is at all familiar with mechanics.

For a century it was claimed the rotary feature in engine mechanics was an impossibility. About World's Fair period a steam turbine engine was invented, which is now used in all the trans-Atlantic steamers. Since then the inventive genius to discover a rotary gas engine has been the ultime thule of engineers. The accomplishment of this great step forward must be credited to Walter G. Macomber. The engine is an absolute completed fact, and is now installed in automobiles

A free demonstration is being given every day and evening at 419 So. Main street. Every reader of The Times is cordially invited to come and see this marvelous invention, almost human in its workings. If you are not situated so you can call in person, address, for descriptive literature, The Empire Sales Company, Suite 318 Delta Bldg, Los Angeles, Cal.—[Advertisement.

condition, or the results of an attack upon her, was not determined. The doctors agreed that she had not been seriously mistreated, but stated that powerful drug had paralyzed the nerve centers and that her mental condition would not be normal for some days to come.

The woman's husband appeared at the hospital late yesterday afternoon, but he was not permitted to see her. He admitted that they had quarreled, but stated that he had arranged to meet his wife at noon Friday and go shopping. She did not keep her appointment, and failed to return home Friday night. Mrs. Evans became hysterical when she learned her husband was at the hospital.

At her home, Mrs. Lloyd stated that she had known Mr. and Mrs. Evans for over a year, and had understood that Evans was a nephew of the late rear-admiral, U.S.N. Mrs. Evans was formerly Miss Dorothy Dascomb of Oakland, and is 22 years old. They have resided in Los Angeles but about two years, formerly living on West Eleventh street. Later they separated and Mrs. Evans went to live with Mrs. Lloyd, but became reunited to her husband and took a room at the Westboro apartments on South Beaudry avenue.

"STRICKEN BY APHASIA."

"I do not believe the doctors were right in saying the girl is suffering from drug poisoning," said Mrs. Lloyd. "She was a model living girl, and had no bad habits. She was accustomed to taking long walks through the hills and I believe that while taking such a walk she was striken with aphasia, brought on, I think by troubles she has had of late. I am going to care for her at my home, and I expect to have her removed from the sanatorium Monday morning."

At the Westboro apartments, it was said that Evans and his wife had resided there for about three weeks. They occupied a room on the fourth floor, where Evans had his studio. He recently finished an oil painting, upon which he has been working since July, entitled "Beethoven's Last Sonata," and the work is said to have won him high commendation. According to other tenants, they were a very quiet couple, and kept much to themselves. While no disturbance was heard, their room on Saturday morning was found to be in some disorder. Mrs. Evans was last seen in the apartments Friday morning about 11 o'clock, and at that time she was in her usual good health, but seemed somewhat depressed in spirits.

CAUGHT IN BACK COUNTRY.

The mystery of the disappearance of W. A. Hagar, formerly employed as a clerk in the local postoffice, whose clothing was left in a bath house in Venice, October 30, last, was cleared up with his arrest Saturday near San Diego by Constable R. Thomas of this city. The fugitive had left Del Mar in a buggy and was overtaken by the officer in a motor car. He was taken to the County Jail yesterday.

After Hagar had left the bathhouse in a bathing suit and did not return it was at first presumed that he had drowned. Mrs. Hagar did not accept this theory, however, and swore to a complaint charging him with abandonment.

Thomas succeeded in locating Hagar near Del Mar and sent word there to have him arrested. A local officer reported that he could not find Hagar and then Thomas went to Del Mar. Hagar, it appears, learned that the officer was on his way and started for San Diego. He will be arraigned this morning on the charge of wife abandonment.

bles from Europe; today she is buying them from you.

"There are two things at least which will cause Europe to buy from you so long as she has the wherewithal—your limitless resources and that genius of yours for speed.

"You also need European capital to assist in developing your resources, and you need from Europe immigrants of a better type than today crowd the steerage of every vessel that comes to your shores. You need not the weakest who have been crushed out by the strain and stress of life at home, not those who are allowed to immigrate because their physique is too poor for military service, not the moral and the physical weaklings, but those strong men and women who seek a wider field of endeavor than they can find in the crowded countries of the Old World.

The peace ambassador then declared, rather dramatically, that the nations of Europe are ruining themselves with their enormous expenditures for armies and navies.

"In Europe as well as in America the burden of taxation is ever on the increase," he continued, "and the mass of that taxation is for war and the munitions of war, neither of which can benefit the lives of the people."

THE CODEX SINAITICUS.

Its Narrow Escape from Being Destroyed by the Monks of the Convent of St. Catherine.

[Boston Transcript:] Most interesting is the account of Constantine Tischendorf, who rescued from the flames the Codex Sinaiticus, the manuscript of the Bible in Greek, of all the New Testament codexes the oldest existent. It is now safe in St. Petersburg. But in the spring of 1844 the monks of the convent of St. Catherine, at the foot of Mt. Sinai, were carrying out old leaves of parchment to be burned. Two baskets were already gone when Tischendorf arrived. By his interest in the leaves he aroused the interest of the monks and they not only stopped burning, but refused to allow more than forty-three leaves to be taken away. These forty-three leaves Tischendorf placed in the library at Leipsic and did not return to the monastery until 1853 when only a few fragments of Genesis rewarded his search. Six years later he returned again, this time under the patronage of the Emperor of Russia. He found nothing and was discouraged and had completed his preparations to leave when he chanced to talk with the steward, who showed him what turned out to be the whole of the New Testament and the Greek text of the Epistle of Barnabas, hitherto largely unknown. Also there was most of the Old Testament. Tischendorf almost stopped breathing. He gathered all his powers of composure and casually asked if he might take the manuscript to his room, and the request being granted he copied Barnabas and inquired if he might carry the remainder to Cairo to transcribe. "Yes," said the steward, "with the permission of the prior." But the prior had already started for Cairo and Tischendorf had to strain every nerve to catch him, but once overtaken, he gave the desired permission, and that was the last he saw of his book. For Tischendorf soon after transcribing the manuscript asked for it as a gift for the Emperor of Russia, who was at that time popular as a protector of oriental churches, and the request was granted.

ON WRONG SIDE, CLAIM.

Dr. H. P. Barton was arrested by Sergt. A. G. Graham at West Jefferson and Main streets last night for alleged violation of the traffic ordinance. The physician's automobile had just run down W. T. Patton of No. 324 East Sixty-first street. According to Patton and to the police officer, Dr. Barton made a left turn into Jefferson from Main street and was on the wrong side of the street when he collided with Patton, who was on a bicycle. The bicycle was wrecked and Patton sustained several abrasions but was not seriously injured. Dr. Barton will appear in court this morning to answer the charge against him.

BAPTIST MINISTERS MEET.

The Baptist ministers will meet in Berean Hall, Auditorium building, today at 10:30 a.m. Addresses of interest will be given by Rev. S. R. Cummings of Pasadena, on "The Panama Canal," and by Rev. Emory Hunt of Boston, general secretary of the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society.

GIRL FOUND IN SWAMP LOST BUT UNHARMED.

STANDING knee-deep in mud and screaming piteously, a girl about 13 years of age, evidently deranged, was found in a swamp about two miles north of Playa del Rey about 9 o'clock last evening by Nat Goodwin and his chauffeur, who were riding along an old and unused road.

They were attracted to a spot only about 300 yards from the road by repeated screams. Fearing a crime was being committed they rushed through the brush and succeeded in rescuing the girl from the swamp.

She talked incoherently and was taken to the Venice Police Station. She ate the food provided her ravenously, and was weak from exposure. Physicians, who examined her, said her mind was affected, but while she had been wandering apparently for some days, she had received no other physical harm.

The mystery as to her identity is increased by the fact that no girl in the vicinity has been reported missing and no one seems to know or to have seen her before. She is described as rather slight of build, a blonde, and is thought to be of Swedish parentage.
